POCKET-SIZE TYPEWRITER

LONDON (Reuter) — An American-born film director living here has invented a computerized pocket typewriter he predicts will revolutionize typing.

"I personally think that everyone who writes will use this machine — well, maybe the executive with a perfect secretary who can't spell himself will be slow to switch over," said Cy Endfield.

His device fits into the palm of a hand and is operated with the fingers and thumb of one hand. It has five buttons used constantly to produce all letters, numerals and punctuation marks.

Letters are entered by punching more than one button at once, the fingers mimicking the shape of the letter. The letter "I," for instance, is made by depressing simultaneously the buttons under the thumb and index finger to resemble the vertical stroke of the "I."

The typed words roll across a small read-out window similar to that of a pocket calculator.

The tiny device, based on the technology of silicon microprocessor chips, has upper and lower cases, can delete characters or words, read backward and forward and do "everything the most sophisticated word processor (electric typewriter with memories) can do," Endfield said.

The "microwriter" is connected by wire to an automatic typewriter, which prints out what has been written on it.

WORKS STAFF WINS MEETING

Pickets Shut Legislature

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

The process of government ground to a near-standstill for three hours this morning as disgruntled former public works employees threw up pickets at the Legislative Buildings.

The Government Employees Relations Bureau's promise of an immediate meeting to discuss their problems led to the removal of the pickets at 10:30 a.m. and about 400 civil servants returned to their jobs.

At stake is the future of some 250 B.C. Government Employees Union members who once came under the jurisdiction of the public works department, but haven't been offered satisfactory jobs with the agency which replaced public works, the B.C. Buildings Corporation.

The employees now receive their pay cheques from the highways department while waiting for options for future work to be clarified.

They say the government unilaterally abrogated an earlier agreement that clearly laid out the future options.

One of the options — that of severance pay — will not be offered after Sept. 30, six months before some of the other options such as alternative work locations will be known.

Pat Burns, BCGEU staff representative in Victoria, said Finance Minister Evan Wolfe double-crossed the union members when he sent out the letter informing them they had to make a choice on the severance pay option by Sept. 30.

The objective of this morning's picketing was to get on with the negotiations of the various options and to have the severance pay deadline pushed back to March, 1979 — the deadline for the other options.

As one picket put it: "How can I choose if I want to take severance pay right now when I don't even know what other jobs will be available?"

When BCBC took over public works two years ago, four options were offered former public works employees — severance pay, jobs with BCBC (but a union spokesman said these have now been filled), one job offer in the same location at the same pay, or two offers at outside localities.

The union members want to know what the other jobs will be before opting for the severance pay. Many have not received any of the three alternative job offers.

Today's information pickets began appearing at 7:30 a.m. but due to a lack of picket all doors weren't covered in time to prevent dozens of government personnel from entering the buildings.

However, most union employees later trooped back outside to honor the belated picket lines.

Management personnel and exempted secretarial staff stayed on the job, but the postal service, library, motor-vehicle branch and financial department were effectively closed for the duration.

One union spokesman commented on the speed with which the government agreed to discuss the matter: "They saw how effective we can be. When you close down the cheque-writing machine for 35,000 people it upsets a lot of people."

3 Top Unionists Quit AirCan Talks

Times News Services

MONTREAL— Three key members of the union negotiating commitee for Air Canada's ground services workers, two French and one English-speaking, resigned today, throwing a grave new complication into talks aimed at ending a five-day shutdown of Canada's major air carrier.

Barry Shaw, chairman of the negotiating committee for the International Association of Machinists, said the remaining members of the committee would continue efforts to end the dispute.

But, he said, a meeting with the airline has been postponed at Air Canada's request.

The three members who resigned were all from the Montreal local, where more than half of the IAM's 7,500 members are based. Shaw would mot identify them.

Shaw said it was hoped that alternate delegates elected by the Montreal local would agree to step into the vacancies but acknowledged he had no information they would.

The resignation came as the IAM committee had spent the last three and a half days in more than 26 hours of private consultation among themselves, indicating severe differences of opinion within the committee.

The airline told IAM members Monday, Shaw said, that no matter how long the labor dispute continued it was not prepared to budge on issues involving an extension of disciplinary suspensions and creation of a new job category involving cargo handlers.

The two sides had recessed Monday night after five hours of bargaining.

An Air Canada spokesman said there "was no implica-

ASHTRAY SHIELDS FOR CADILLACS

DETROIT (AP) — Cadillac will mail ashtray heat shields to owners of about 390,000 1977 and 1978 models because at least a dozen people have been slightly burned in small fires, General Motors said Monday.

The automaker said the shields are easy to install and suggested owners can do it for themselves. But it added any Cadillac dealer will do the work free of charge if asked.

All 1977 Cadillac Devilles and Fleetwoods and some early 1978 models of the same cars are affected, the General Motors division said.

Cadillac spokesman Norm Bartos said the company had reports of 12 persons suffering hand or other burns, apparently when they noticed smoke and tried to remove the ashtray. None required hospital treatment and the cars were not extensively damaged, Bartos said.

Lebanon Near Flashpoint

BEIRUT (UPI) — Faced with the threat of flat-out Syrian-Christian war in Lebanon and possible Israeli intervention, President Elias Sarkis today met with a Christian leader to discuss ways to defuse the tensions.

Sarkis conferred at the Baabda Presidential palace with Pierre-Gemayel, chief of the Phalangist right-wing party that maintains up to 15,000 Christian militia troops, the largest such force in Lebanon.

Foreign Minister Fuad Butros returned Monday from a meeting in Damascus with Syrian President Hafez Assad at which they discussed the fighting between Syrian peacekeeping troops in Lebanon and the Israeli-backed Christians.

Assad told reporters after the talks that Syria "won't run away from Israel if they attack us."

The Syrian army provides most of the 30,000-man Arab League peace-keeping force in Lebanon.

In Israel, a powerful member of the Knesset (parliament) delivered a stern warning to Syria against what he termed a "massacre" of Lebanese Christians.

"All of us are agreed that we are not going to stand by idly if the Christian population is going to be massacred," said Prof. Moshe Ahrens, chairman of the influential Foreign Affairs and Defence Committee.

In Moscow, the Soviet goverment newspaper Izvestia said Monday that Israel is deliberately heightening tensions in Lebanon to strengthen its hand at next month's Middle East summit at Camp David.

Christian militias have been battling the Syrian troops since last February, with the most recent clashes taking place in the hilly Batroun district some 30 miles north of Beirut.

Quakes in 'Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two moderate earthquakes and about 20 aftershocks shook buildings up and down the East San Francisco Bay area late Monday but caused no damage and no injuries.

Hiker Killed

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A 39-year-old woman from Germany, Hildegund Edeltraud, was killed on Mount Baker when an avalanche near the summit swept her and two other hikers into a crevasse, authorities said.

Rail Line Blocked

VANCOUVER (CP) — Several boxcars derailed early today, blocking the CP Rail main line here. Railway workers used cranes to remove the cars.

$6-A-POUND SEEN FOR STEAKS SOON

WINNIPEG (CP) — A beef marketing specialist says consumers face an imminent shortage of beef and substantially higher retail prices as a result.

Art Dilworth, manager of Manitoba Pool Elevators livestock division, said in an interview that beef producers are hesitant to increase supply despite recent trends towards higher prices.

"I have a prediction myself, and I could be way off base on this one, but I can foresee maybe a year and a half down the road you could conceivably see some of the better steaks retailing at $6 or better a pound."

And, said Dilworth, if the stage is reached where retail beef costs get to a certain level, the possibility arises that government may set controls on prices.

"You have to recognize that consumers are pretty powerful politically and if the price gets too high, a lot of pressure goes on government."

But he said any such control, taken when producers are in a position finally to recoup some of their losses, would result in a lot more cattlemen packing up their operations.

Competition Lack Cost Consumers $632.9B

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumers paid at least $632.9 million more than they should have between 1974 and 1976 because of the failing competitive position of domestic agricultural industries, a report released Monday by the consumers affairs department says.

It analyses monthly prices and price spreads between Toronto and selected U.S. markets for pork, beef, chicken, turkey and eggs between 1970 and 1976.

It found there was "a dramatic difference in performance" between Canadian and U.S. markets between 1974 and 1976 — with prices to Canadian producers consistently higher than U.S. prices — after a good performance between 1970 and 1973.

Between 1974 and 1976, the study says, farm-gate prices in Canada averaged eight per cent higher than in the United States for pork, 19 per cent higher for beef, 47 per cent more for chicken, 37 per cent more for turkey and 25 per cent higher for eggs.

The report says the major factor in the deterioration of the competitive position of the domestic industry, particularly for turkey and eggs, has been higher prices paid to producers.

Of the more than $600 million extra that consumers have paid because of less competitive domestic industry, about half of the amount is attributable to the poultry and egg industries alone.

But the study gives Toronto-based retailers "a relatively clean bill of health." It says in 1976 retail profit margins were lower in Toronto than in the United States by an average of 26.6 cents a pound for pork products, 17.6 cents for beef, 4.4 cents for chicken, 14.1 cents for turkey and 15.8 cents a dozen for eggs.

Looking to the future, the report says the key factor for future consumer prices is whether or not Canadian retailers will keep operating at the profit margins found during the study.

"Should Canadian retail margins rise to U.S. levels and farm-gate prices and processor margins remain unchanged, Canadian food prices can be expected to rise dramatically," the report warns.

The study is only a working paper, prepared as a response to the federal white paper titled A Food Strategy for Canada that was released last year. It is intended to guide continuing research into the food processing, distribution and retailing industries, the report says.

Third Hike In U.S. Interest

NEW YORK (WP) — The U.S. Federal Reserve Board moved Monday to tighten monetary policy and raise interest rates again for the third time in less than two weeks, nudging the key federal funds rate up to 8.25 per cent.

The latest move surprised the financial markets and drove bond prices down as much as 1-2 a point while stock prices tumbled.

Unlike the last two increases, which were related to the plight of the sinking dollar, the latest tightening move appears to derive from concern on the part of the Fed that growth in the basic money supply is continuing to outstrip its targets.

At the same time the Fed eased overseas borrowing restrictions which led to a boost in the U.S. dollar on foreign currency markets.

Gold in Zurich, Europe's largest bullion market, dipped slightly and started at $198.50 an ounce from Monday's close of $199.375.

But in London, Europe's other major bullion market, the metal showed signs of firming. If closed at $198.25 U.S. Friday, edged up to $198.75 at today's opening, then by mid-morning reached $199.40.

INDIAN BID TO QUEEN

FREDERICTON (CP) — Canadian Indian chiefs will visit the Queen in London to ask her not to agree with repatriation of the constitution, Noel Starblanket, National Indian Brotherhood president, said today.

The Queen will be told that the constitution should not be brought to Canada until the federal government gives assurances that Indian rights will be high in constitutional reform priorities, Starblanket told the opening of the brotherhood's ninth annual assembly.

He also said that Indians will crash the next first ministers' constitutional conference.

"We're not going to ask anymore," he said in an interview later. "We're just going to go. They're going to have to evict us."

He also said in the interview that the assembly will be asked to approve sending the chiefs to London.

Sources said a meeting with the Queen likely will be sought for next spring.

Lieut-Gov. Denies Snub Over Queen

HALIFAX (CP) — Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Gosse of Nova Scotia denied today he intended to snub the Canadian Bar Association on the issue of its controversial committee report on constitutional reform.

Gosse admitted in an interview he did not accept an invitation to attend opening cermonies of the association's annual convention here Monday, but said he sent a warm welcome--"I even sent them a bouquet of flowers"--and explained why he would not attend.

"I wrote the president of the Canadian Bar Association, Mr. Jacques Viau, in a letter dated Aug. 15, explaining that I felt my presence might be an embarrassment to the association during their debate on the committee report," said.

"I'm very sorry the association feels I snubbed them. I certainly did not intend to snub them."

Earlier in the day, official association sources said Gosse had snubbed the association by his non appearance.

Viau said the committee report, recommending that the Queen's status as head of state in Canada be terminated, has caused embarassment to members of the association.

The issue will be thrashed out Wednesday at a public meeting as part of the convention schedule.

It was revealed, meanwhile, at the convention that Canada's lawyers are expected to recommend this fall that "without exception " interception of mail be prohibited.

The recommendation is carried in a draft brief to a royal commission on RCMP wrongdoing.

The draft was prepared by the civil liberties section of the Canadian Bar Association.

The brief says tax officers and RCMP contravened the Income Tax Act under a 1972 agreement, approved by the cabinet, that may be itself be illegal.

The brief calls for more muscle in laws to protect citizens against unjust action by police.

Papal Inauguration To Be Simple Mass

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — There will be no crown, throne or gestatorial chair at Pope John Paul I's inauguration Sunday, just a bishop saying mass for his flock.

After thinking it over for three days, the 65-year-old former patriarch of Venice, elected to the papacy in the shortest conclave in modern history, decided today all he wants to do on his inaugural day is officiate mass as bishop of Rome.

"At 6 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 3, a solemn mass will be officiated on the parvis of St. Peter's by Pope John Paul I to mark the beginning of his ministry as supreme pastor," the Vatican spokesman, Rev. Romeo Panciroli, told reporters.

This will replace the ancient coronation ceremony used by at least 107 of John Paul's 262 predecessors, in which pontiffs received a tall gold and silver triple crown with the words: "Receive this tiara adorned with three crowns and know that you are the father of princes and kings, guide of the world and vicar upon earth of Christ Jesus our Savior."

The last pope not to be crowned was Urban VII who reigned only 12 days in 1590 and did not live to the date set for his coronation.

Halt Ordered

A halt to most development in Sidney was ordered by council Monday pending revision of the 10-year-old community plan and until sewage treatment expansion development charges are established.

The moratorium on all new multiple-residential development, including subdivisions of more than three lots, was a recommendation of a development committee meeting last week.

HOUSING STARTS DECLINE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Housing starts in B.C. dropped 14.6 per cent during the first half of this year compared to the same period in 1977, mainly because of a drastic drop in the construction of apartment suites, the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) reported Monday.

CMHC said 13,288 housing units were started in the first six months of 1978, compared with 15,562 in the same period last year.

Starts in all but one category of housing fell, with apartments showing the largest decline, 35.5 per cent. Two-family-unit starts rose by 3.2 per cent.

Single-family houses were at the same level as in 1977's first half.

Somoza Purges Army

MANAGUA (AP) — More than 100 army men were reported under arrest today for plotting to oust President Anastasio Somoza as a general strike spread and fighting was reported outside Managua.

A highly placed source in the national guard, Nicaragua's 7,500-man army, said 12 officers and 85 soldiers were arrested, but another source put the total at more than 100 and said they included two colonels.

Informants said radio messages about a coup were reported broadcast openly Sunday on the military network.

Members of the guard, the bulwark of the Somoza family's 41 years in power and its vast economic holdings, were reported furious that the president met the demands of 25 guerrillas who seized the National Palace and hundreds of hostages a week ago.

The guerrillas of the Sandinista National Liberation Front killed eight guards in their assault. After a two-day siege, Somoza freed 59 imprisoned Sandinistas and gave them and the 25 holding the palace safe conduct to Panama and $500,000.

A national guard communique confirmed the plot to overthrow Somoza and said "elements of the army and civilians" have been arrested. It said four officers were appointed "to determine responsibility in the case."

Somoza's New York public relations adviser, Norman Wolfson, told a news conference in Managua the president told him the coup was planned by "some fairly conservative officers who were fearful he would resign."

The strike, which anti-Somoza political factions began last Friday in an attempt to force him out, closed all stores in some cities and more than 90 per cent of those in Managua shopping centres. But Wolfson said that only "eight per cent of the businesses are on strike in Managua and 40 per cent in the rest of the country."

The government mobilized the National Bank to fight the strike. The president of the bank, Roberto Incer Barquero, warned he would call in loans to those who observed the strike, while any business staying open would receive the bank's full support.

BCR Report in Cabinet Hands

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Royal commission probing British Columbia Rail (BCR) said in a news release Monday its finished report has been submitted to the provincial cabinet.

The three-man commission, headed by Justice Lloyd George McKenzie, delivered a four-volume report giving 36 conclusions containing its principal findings and recommendations.

It also deals with control and management of the railway and ways to reduce the financial burden on the public.

The commission, appointed 19 months ago, has already produced two interim reports. The first, in June, 1977, recommended closure of the railway's Railwest railcar plant in Squamish and was acted on by the government.

The government rejected the second report in December, 1977, recommending that the Fort Nelson line be abandoned.

The commission said its report "deals with all subjects contained in the commission's terms of reference with the exception of proposals for specific statutory revisions to give effect to its recommendations. These will be contained in an addendum to be submitted as soon as possible."

The commission's terms of reference included inquiring into the relationship of BCR to the economic and social well-being of the province, the relationship of BCR to other transportation.

Seniors Getting Raise: Vander Z

The federal government's monthly $20 pay raise for needy senior citizens will be passed on to the 125,000 seniors living in B.C., Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm said today.

Vander Zalm, responding to a Vancouver Province story that he might not pass on the money under a provision in B.C.'s own Mincome system, said that whenever there has been an increase to the group as a whole from the federal government, B.C. has passed it through.

"So on the basis of that, I expect we will be doing the same thing again."

The confusion over B.C.'s position on the $20 boost in federal Guaranteed Income Assistance arose when Vander Zalm told reporters he didn't want to make a commitment because B.C. was negotiating with Ottawa for financial assistance to B.C.'s Guaranteed Available Income for Need program.

"I didn't want to comment earlier because of the negotiations, but I don't think there's any question as to whether the increase will be passed on or not."

Coroner's Jury Rules Crash 'Non-Accidental'

A plane crash which killed five Americans July 22 was "non-accidental and misjudgment was involved," a coroner's jury ruled Monday night.

The small float plane had climbed about 80 metres at Bedwell Harbor on Pender Island when it nose-dived into the water, flipped over and submerged.

T.M. Young, an investigator for the department of transport, told the inquest the weight of the aircraft at take-off should have been 3,350 pounds, but the Cessna 185 weighed about 3,500 pounds.

The jury listed contributing factors as the possible overweight of the aircraft, adverse wind conditions and possible error in judgment in executing the manoeuvre immediately preceding the crash.

Victims of the crash were pilot Lee Mitzelfeldt, 36, of Kirkland, Wash.; Robin Shaw, 35, of Mercer Island, Wash.; Russell Waldman, 58, of Portland; Stewart Fausser, 53, of Beaverton, Ore., and Arthur McCoy, 56, of Tualtin, Ore.

They were on a fishing trip to Rivers Inlet.

Centre Studied

The federal and provincial governments have launched a $32,000 study to find out if there is a need for a B.C. Food and Agriculture Centre.

Agriculture Minister Jim Hewitt said Monday the idea for the centre, which would serve as an agricultural showcase.

Rec Centre Hit Again

The Oak Bay Rec Centre has been broken into two weekends in a row netting thieves a total of 56 dozen beer and about 14 bottles of hard liquor.

Police suspect both break-ins were done by the same people bacause of similar methods of operation.

PWA Gets Green Light

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board has given Pan American World Airways permission to acquire up to 25 per cent of National Airlines, heating up a battle for the Miami-based air carrier's stock.

The CAB decision was identical to one made Aug. 17 concerning Texas International Airlines.

Way Paved

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canada Labor Relations Board rescinded Monday 20 certification orders granted the Service, Office and Retail Workers Union (SORWUC) with bank branches in British Columbia.

The move clears the way for the Canadian Labor Congress, through the Union of Bank Employees, Local 2100, to attempt to organize the workers.

VICTIMS REALLY BELIEVE CLOSE ENCOUNTERS. . .

TORONTO (UPI) — Psychologists who hypnotized persons claiming to have been kidnapped by space ships say they believe the victims were telling the truth. They're just not sure the stories were "real."

The psychologists, in reports to the American Psychological Association's annual convention, also said the popular notion that only "kooks" see UFOs was wrong.

Dr. W.C. McCall of Anaheim, Calif., said he used hypnosis to make 35 people relive their alleged abductions by space beings and the emotions many of them showed "seems to lend credence to the story that they are telling."

But McCall and Alvin Lawson of California State University at Long Beach both cautioned there is a fine line between memories of a real event and fantasies so real the person believes them even under hypnosis.

"The greatest danger (in using hypnosis for UFO investigations) ... may be that witnesses subtly merge fantasy and reality in Close Encounter reports — without witness or hypnotist being aware of what is happening," Lawson said.

But Lawson stressed, "If any part of UFO abductees' narratives can be considered true, they will have to be taken seriously by traditional science and scientists in the future."

Dr. Leo Sprinkle of the University of Wyoming, had another theory on how the stories of people who claim to have been kidnapped by alien beings can be "real" yet false.

Sprinkle said he has tested some 150 people of all ages and walks of life who claimed to have seen UFOs, and about 25 of them claimed to have been abducted or studied by allien beings during their experience.

"I have concluded, tentatively, that there is little evidence to support the 'psychosis hypothesis' that only kooks see flying saucers," said Sprinkle, who added the two UFOs he saw spurred his interest in the field.

"My personal and professional bias is to accept, tentatively, the claims of UFO abductions as 'real,'" Sprinkle reported to the convention.

"However, I do not know if these 'abductees' have experienced physical abduction or whether they have experienced 'out of body' events. In either case, the experiences seem real to the abductee."

"Out of body" experiences are little known events in which persons say their "souls" leave their bodies and travel around independently, floating across solid walls and visiting far off places in a matter of seconds.

DIEF BACK IN OTTAWA HOSPITAL

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker is in satisfactory condition and is resting well, a Civic Hospital spokesman said today.

He returned to Ottawa on a government aircraft offered by Transport Minister Otto Lang because Air Canada is shut down by a strike.

U.S. Mail Unions Take Fresh Look

WASHINGTON (AP) — Letters and packages moved uninterrupted today after the U.S. Postal Service and its unions — averting a nationwide strike for now — agreed to reconsider key parts of their tentative contract.

Under an agreement reached Monday between the Postal Service and three unions, the two sides will resume collective bargaining for 15 days under the auspices of a federal mediator.

The agreement came six hours before one union was expected to go on strike unless contract talks were resumed.

The strike, expected at midnight Monday night, would have been illegal.

The Postal Service had been preparing contingency plans for a strike, which Postmaster-General William Bolger said would cause widespread economic problems and threaten the future of the Postal Service itself.

Chief Federal Mediator Wayne Horvitz, flanked by union and Postal Service leaders, announced the accord for further negotiations at a news conference and said he would appoint the mediator.

If a new contract emerges from the talks, Horvitz said, it will be submitted to the union members for ratification. Those members brought about the labor impasse last week by rejecting a tentative contract agreed to July 21.

But "if agreement is not reached on the issues in question," Horvitz said, "then the individual (mediator) appointed will decide the remaining unresolved issues."

Although neither Horvitz nor the two sides would go into the issues open for renegotiation, government and union sources confirmed that the two key areas of dispute — wages and the Postal Service's right to order layoffs — are among them.

The unions, representing more than 500,000 workers, had fought hard and won retention of the no-layoff clause.

Union officials said the main issue has been wages and they argued that the increased rate of inflation has made the tentative money package unacceptable.

Under the tentative contract, all workers would get a 19.5-per-cent increase during three years — a 10-per-cent raise in base pay and a maximum 9.5-per-cent cost-of-living increase during the life of the pact.

The Postal Service says the average base wage of its employees is $15,577 a year, including overtime. The tentative contract would increase that figure to about $19,200.

Test Can Trace Pot Use Within Just Hours

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Two chemists said Monday they have developed a blood test that can establish if a person recently smoked marijuana.

"This new technique represents an important breakthrough (for) coroners and law enforcement agencies," said Dr. Paul Peterson, director of the Illinois public health department.

"We now have the capability to determine whether a person is under the influence of marijuana, just as we can detect whether a person is under the influence of alcohol."

The procedure, which have been tried elsewhere experimentally, involves taking an ounce of blood from a person within a few hours after he or she is believed to have smoked marijuana.

The blood is then checked for the presence of an active ingredient of marijuana called Delta-9-Tetra hydracannabinol (THC).

Current tests in common usage rely on urine specimens. Because they test for the byproducts of marijuana ingestion rather than its active ingredient, they can only tell whether a person has used marijuana in the last few weeks instead of the last few hours.

"We're showing that the active ingredient is still in the blood and that the individual is, or was, actively under the influence of marijuana," said one of the chemists, Dr. John Spikes, who has been perfecting the chemical test with another state chemist, Joerg Pirl.

The two said they cannot yet tell just how intoxicated a marijuana user is.

The two chemists said the laboratory equipment used in the test costs an estimated $100,000 and so the test is not readily available.

"It's not something that the police officer can do on the street," said Spikes.

Mac-Blo Interested In Reed?

TORONTO (CP) — Reed International Ltd. is engaged in negotiations that may lead to the sale of its beleaguered Canadian subsidiary, Reed Paper Ltd. of Toronto.

In Vancouver, a spokesman for MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., confirmed that it is one of the companies interested Canadian Forest Products Ltd. of Vancouver (Canfor), which agreed in principle several weeks ago to purchase Reed's interest in joint venture pulp operations at Prince George, said it was not involved in the latest discussions in any way.

Lethal Transmission Warning On Fords

WASHINGTON (AP) — As one U.S. federal agency warns millions of Ford owners their vehicles may have lethal transmission defects, another agency is removing sub-compact Ford Pintos from a federal motor pool until their gasoline tanks are rid of potential fire hazards.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration was issuing a consumer advisory bulletin today advising no fewer than nine million owners of Ford cars and light trucks they should shut off their engines before leaving their vehicles.

The agency is investigating complaints that Ford automatic transmissions have slipped from park into reverse, resulting in deaths and injuries.

Meanwhile, the General Services Administration, the government's housekeeping agency, says it is removing the 300 Pintos from its 85,000-car inter-agency motor pool because of reports that gasoline tanks have caught fire in rear-end collisions. The agency did not mention such incidents occurring in the government fleet.

While Ford already has announced a recall of 1.5 million Pintos and 30,000 Mercury Bobcats to correct the fuel tank problem, the traffic safety administration is studying possible recall of the nine million Fords manufactured between 1970 and 1978 to fix the faulty transmissions. It would be the largest recall in automotive history.

HOLDS DENTURES FIRM WITHOUT DAILY "FIXINGS"

Snug Cushions hold dentures comfortably tight for weeks

No more "fixings" every morning with messy powders or creams. Even if dentures need "fixing" after every meal, here's important news. Snug cushions restore dentures' holding power so dentures stay comfortably tight for weeks. Snug, the soft, effective temporary aid, forms a "comfort bond" between dentures and gums. Sticks to dentures, not to gums. Rinse, scrub or soak Snug fresh and clean. Easy to remove, but won't wash off or flake away. So end daily "fixings." Use Snug to hold dentures comfortably tight for weeks.

Iraq Returns Fire Suspect

TEHRAN (Reuter) — Iraqi authorities handed to Iranian officials today a man said to have admitted playing a role in an arson fire in the Iranian city of Abadan which killed 377 people, a Tehran government spokesman reported.

The man, arrested in Iraq and identified by the Iraqi news agency as Hashem Abdul Reza Ashur, was flown to Tehran, the spokesman said.

The agency said the man was caught trying to enter Iraq illegally Friday.

Iranian authorities have blamed the Aug. 19 blaze on anti-government saboteurs.

As Ye Sow, So Ye Lubricate

The day is still off in the hazy future when you'll drive into a gas station and ask for a fill-up of milkweed derivative, but it may not be so remote when your children will play with plastic toys made from quackgrass juice or you'll don a polyester leisure suit knitted from poinsettia juice. Such petroleum substitutes are seriously being considered today.

Rising prices and declining reserves of crude oil and natural gas were the original impetus for a search for natural substitutes for the "feedstocks" derived from petroleum used in the manufacture of many plastics and petrochemicals.

A U.S government research centre in Illinois this month announced it had identified at least 34 wild plants and common weeds with the potential as substitutes for the petrochemical industry.

As well as quackgrass and milkweed, they found poinsettias, sow thistles and the guayule plant to have possibilities. The scientists at the American department of agriculture's northern regional research centre in Peoria, Ill. said that full utilization of such plants could mean a reduction in consumption of oil and natural gas of between five and 10 per cent.

That translates to about two million barrels of oil and the equivalent natural gas a day in the U.S.

"That is the amount of our petroleum and natural gas that goes into the petrochemical industry to make plastics, to make synthetic rubber, to make all kinds of chemical products that have become such an important part of our lives," said Dr. William Tallent, director of the Peoria centre.

The research group rated more than 300 species of plants on their hydrocarbon and oil content, protein and fibre levels and whether they were adaptable to different climates for large-scale farming. Hydrocarbons in some of the plants could be used as lubricating agents, petrochemicals and synthetic rubber while some of the oils might find uses as plasticizers for rubber and plastics, as waxes and to replace vegetables oils and alcohols.

Can You Bear It?

Image shapers and media experts are the shamans of our time, carefully grooming a political candidate, a new brand of soap, a new style of automobile. No major politician is without a media advisor, someone who tells him what'll play in Moose Jaw and how to play it.

Still, we were a little surprised at a couple of developments in the business last week. British Columbia police have bought three full-size bear costumes to take the word on law enforcement to school children.

And the pussycat Vancouver Canucks have ordered a new crest and uniform, employing bolder, aggressive colors and designs. The San Francisco firm which came up with the new look thought the Canucks' limp blue, green and white logo — a hockey stick on ice — and uniform were too passive and quiet. The new look is black, red and orange with a big V for Vancouver on the players' chests, supposed to be more exciting for the fans. Their new logo will be a stylized skate spelling out the team name in letters that seem to whiz down the ice.

It certainly can't do any harm to the Canucks, we suppose. Is there a team in the NHL that started with greater expectations, more local support or made larger amounts of money — and has fallen farther than Vancouver's own? The money might have been better spent on a good talent scout's salary, but if it makes the fans think they're watching better hockey, hurray for the red, black and orange.

Image-polishing also seems to be the aim of the province's police with their Walt Disney bear suits, purchased from the California cartoon king's company at $2,500 apiece. It drives home, not too subtly perhaps, the "cops-as-Smokey-Bears" theme done to death by the CBers and half a dozen bad movies.

Maybe the kids will cotton to a talking bear with half a police uniform and like him better than a real policeman, but we can see a number of, uh, complications.

Would you stop if someone in a furry suit motioned you over to the side of the highway? Lawbreakers to policemen: Can't you just grin and bear it, officer?

Bus Inspections

An official of the B.C. motor vehicles branch has come up with a remarkably sensible idea when he says that all public buses should be subject to twice-yearly safety inspections.

The official says this would be the best way to prevent the kind of disaster that recently rocked Asbestos, Que. when 40 people, most of them handicapped, drowned when their bus plunged into a lake after its brakes failed.

There now is no requirement in B.C. that buses undergo even annual inspections. The Motor Carrier Act stipulates only that "regular" inspections be made at "sufficiently frequent" intervals. This seems even odder when one notes that the government demands annual inspection of even ordinary cars in most of its urban areas. Buses can carry 10 times as many people as the average car; surely they should be inspected at least as often.

It is unlikely that much money or bureaucracy would be required to implement the twice-yearly inspection system. Existing testing stations could be used in urban areas; a couple of travelling inspectors could probably service the rest of the province.

It would be a small price to pay if one bus disaster was prevented even every 10 years.

TOM WICKER

Inflation Heats Up in U.S.

NEW YORK — To judge by the $16.3 billion tax reduction bill the House of Representatives has just passed by what looks like a presidential veto-proof 362-to-49, no one would know that there's a rip-roaring inflation running in this country. Mesmerized by Proposition 13 and the supposed tax revolt and with a weather eye on the November elections, august members chose, as usual, short term political profits over long run economic responsibility.

It's true that the total of the tax reduction package was reduced from the $24.5 billion originally proposed by President Carter in far different circumstances, and even from the $19.4 billion to which he later retreated. It may be true, too, that the substantial business and capital gains tax relief included in the bill will have some good effect on inflation by stimulating production and investment to create new jobs; but even if it works out that way, the relief will be a long time in reaching most consumers.

Heat Up Inflaton

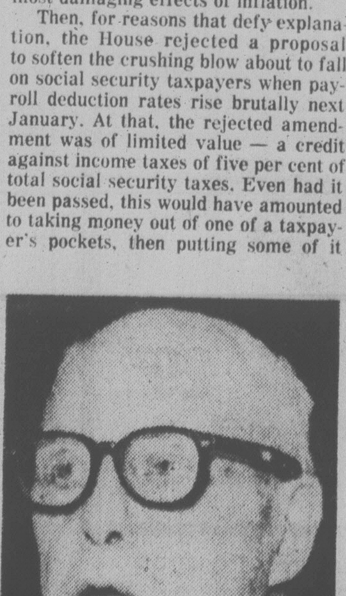
At least the House had the good sense to reject the huge Kemp-Roth tax cut, which at this time would be spectacularly inflationary but which in the year of Proposition 13 has become an article of Republican orthodoxy. William McKinley, where are you when we need you?

This is a tax bill which nevertheless is going to pour $16.3 billion into an economy in which the annual rate of inflation is running nearly twice as high as unemployment. Of that sum, $10.4 billion will be going to individuals, most of it to the affluent middle class. Only about a quarter of that total will be in relief to hard-pressed taxpayers earning less than $20,000 annually — those most in need of help to pay rising food, medical, housing and energy bills (the areas of worst inflation).

Another quarter of individual tax relief will go to those earning in excess of $50,000 annually, the other half to taxpayers between these two extremes. Thus, three-quarters of the total relief is designed for those most likely to put it back into consumption, adding to inflationary forces.

The House also took a first step toward "indexing" tax rates to inflation — but for capital gains taxpayers rather than for those whose taxes are ripped untimely from their pay cheques before they even receive them. In fact, the forcing of wage-earners into higher tax brackets without yielding them more purchasing power is one of the most damaging effects of inflation.

Then, for reasons that defy explanation, the House rejected a proposal to soften the crushing blow about to fall on social security taxpayers when payroll deduction rates rise brutally next January. At that, the rejected amendment was of limited value — a credit against income taxes of five per cent of total social security taxes. Even had it been passed, this would have amounted to taking money out of one of a taxpayer's pockets, then putting some of it back in another, a year after the original grab.



GEORGE MEANY
. . . risking his wrath

Even that limited help would have been welcome. The 1979 social security tax increases — much steeper than the ones this year — will be inflationary in that employers must pass their share on to consumers in increased prices; and they will strike a further blow at employees in that they will lower purchasing power. These payroll taxes would therefore be a good place for congress to start an anti-inflation backfire; and although President Carter has been publicly opposed to a rollback of the 1979 increases, he recently told visitors that that was one step under active consideration. It certainly is one that the Senate finance committee should consider.

Robert Crandall of the Brookings Institution recently wrote that if health and disability benfits from the social security trust funds were to be financed from general revenues rather than from payroll taxes, the resulting reduction in labor costs from the drop in employers' tax liabilities could lower the price level by 0.7 per cent point. At the same time, solicitous members of congress would be substantially reducing the real out-of-pocket taxes of their constituents.

As have other economists before him, Crandall detailed a number of steps congress could take to curb inflation and possibly improve economic efficiency; but members always seem more interested in cutting income taxes than in such steps as the following:

☐ Reducing excise taxes — a step which would place anti-inflationary benefits above the justifications for these taxes and possibly take a point from the price level

Selective Controls

☐ Subsidizing the 45 states that impose sales taxes to reduce them, thus reducing the price level by perhaps a point and a half.

☐ Using direct payments to farmers rather than supply-cutting programs, thus cutting consumer costs by as much as $3.5 billion a year.

☐ Rolling back the 1978 minimum wage increase (at risk of George Meany's wrath) through an employment subsidy that could cut business payroll costs by $3.5 billion annually.

To which certainly should be added the resurrection of the Carter administration's hospital cost control bill and the reversal of recent actions to restrain imports, as in steel. But even all these measures would not solve the inflation problem. As the economist Robert Lakachman recently wrote in The New York Times: "The single most sensible response to 10 per cent inflation is selective controls over the prices of autos, steel and aluminum, processed foods, hospital room rates, physicians' fees and the products and services of other industries in which concentrated market power is significant."

BRUCE HUTCHISON

At the Corner of the Year

Autumn's first polite calling card was laid silently on the floor of the western forest today — a sere and yellow maple leaf, not brilliant and red like its eastern counterpart, the national emblem, but bringing the same message.

The old woodsman read it, sniffed the sudden morning chill in the air and knew that summer already was getting ready to depart. He knew, too, that late August, not the solstice of June, marked the true turning point and decisive corner of the year, no matter what the calendar might say. Wise in his time, the great Roman emperor Augustus Caesar understood the seasonal facts and gave this month his own name.

It is the best of months, though tinged with certain vain regrets and memories bittersweet, the month when most Canadians take their holidays, confident of fair skies, children look forward to school in horror and parents in relief, news editors complain that news is lacking, world wars usually begin and governments meditate elections.

Inflation-proof

But August, the woodsman reflected, is also a month for more innocent and constructive meditation, preferably in a woodshed. To the owner of such a shed, almost as old as himself, it told a parable of the human situation clearer than all the charts of the economists and the speeches of the politicians. Here he could see at once the difference between real and imagined wealth, thrift and waste, good management and bad, the rapacious state and the helpless individual person.

Summer's harvest of dead trees had nearly filled the shed now. It would soon be completely full, its contents well dried for the fires of a chilly spring. The state's budget was in gaping deficit, a quarter of it financed by debt or printing press, but the shed was always in surplus if a man knew how to use axe, saw and a little healthy sweat.

Even better, the wood, once dried, didn't shrink by about ten per cent annually like savings in the state's bonds. It was one of the few available inflation-proof assets, the shed an honest institution in a naughty world.

Thus meditating, chopping and hoarding his private treasure, the woodsman ventured to think that governments and oppositions would manage the nation more successfully if, now and then, they turned from rhetoric to reality, grasped an axe instead of a debating point, observed Canada's permanent resources instead of their passing shadow called money.

All around him were resources beyond reckoning and they increased daily by the multiplication of wood cells in numbers unimaginable. Past the rim of the forest more wealth, the edible wealth of fish, swam in the ocean. Deep in the mountains lay the wealth of ore, under the plains the wealth of oil and gas, and on their surface the ultimate wealth of food was ripening to make Canada a nation uniquely rich.

Why, he wondered, did it feel so poor? Why couldn't it make ends meet without borrowing from foreigners and live within its lavish means? Still less understandable, why did it talk of declaring its affluent estate bankrupt, fit only for youthful suicide as solemnly proposed by the Quebec separatists?

These questions might baffle the public, not the proprietor of a wood shed who counted every precious stick, filled every remaining space to the roof and realized that the nation, its wealth, and possibly even the flimsy shed, would still be there long after the state had destroyed the currency and defrauded the trusting saver.

Unfortunately not enough Canadians cut wood nowadays. Too many lived too far from the natural order of things in oil-heated urban caves, in a world of fantasy known as practical politics and modern economics — the new age mf comfortable troglodytes. That was an absurd notion, of course, drowned in pre-election clamor, lost in the darker cave of Statistics Canada.

Meditating between his weary axe strokes, the woodsman concluded (though it was not an original idea) that the human mind, cunning, inventive and devilishly clever, had not evolved sufficiently to keep up with its inventions and everywhere was losing the struggle with its necessities. But the evolution of the forest and its inhabitants seemed to be quite adequate for their needs.

Fall's Messenger

The sap was about to descend through the secret channels and intricate plumbing of the great trees in the approaching season of rest. The leaves were drying out to fall and make the new earth of nourishment. The seeds ripened to make new trees, the berries of salal had turned purple for the diet of grouse and bear, the busy squirrels gathered fir and pine cones against the hungry winter and below the forest floor the worms and bacteria, those most essential of man's partners, never ceased their invisible labors.

Everything else was in perfect order, only human affairs in disarray. So they must remain, the old man guessed, until the forgotten ancestral wood shed of Canada was rediscovered, its parable re-read and understood again.

He picked up the first yellow maple leaf, felt its crisp texture in his hand, received a message silent but unmistakable and watched others fluttering down along the trail. Yes, the year was definitely rounding the corner.

Discrimination?

Although it might be considered unfair (at least according to Bishop De Roo's stand on the posting of names of persons caught in the act of shoplifting) to castigate Emmett Doyle of Nelson, whose policy apparently resulted in religious discrimination (Non-RC Teachers Ordered Dumped?; Times, Aug. 16) before he has actually been proven guilty, the whole affair smacks of the kind of arbitrary authoritarianism among ecclesiastics of which critics were justly suspicious before the Independent Schools Act became law and which is, if I may say so, the besetting sin of the hierarchy in general. To dismiss a man who served his school well for three years just because he's a WASP instead of a Roman Catholic sounds — let's face it — downright unChristian. Technically it may be legal, but I think it's wrong. If Mr. Somers hadn't been a particularly good teacher, one might understand, but after three years? Are we expected to believe that there is a special Catholic way of teaching mathematics? I've heard all about the "particular religious quality" Catholic teacher is supposed by some to have, his personal influence on his pupils, etc. Frankly, I'd say it was a myth. Competence in his field and in his teaching methods is what counts.

Nevertheless, is is amusing that The Vancouver Sun newspaper should be the one which reveals Doyle's autocratic prejudice, the same paper which refuses to print advertising by the Gay Tide because of the latter's homosexual orientation. When it comes to authoritarianism trampling on human rights, I imagine the big business tycoons would teach many a lesson to church mandarins — such as Cardinal Benelli (from having to put up with Benelli as next pope, good Lord deliver us!) — Robin Terry, 524 Dallas Road.

Taxes, Taxes, Taxes

Taxes in B.C. are skyrocketing out of sight, and Bill Bennett is trying to blame everyone but Social Credit.

There's a taxpayers' revolt on because the Socred millionaires hit us with crippling taxes like the sales tax and the property tax.

Now the Socreds are going to hit us with more new taxes to pay for transit. And Bonner admits that Hydro rates won't come down either.

There's going to be a new property tax and a gas tax and a hydro tax to pay for transit, because the Socreds are chiselling us again. And already the bus fares have gone up too.

The only way to reduce taxes in British Columbia is to get rid of Social Credit. The sooner, the better. — Gordon Townsend, 927 Walker Street.

China Tiger On Prowl Once Again

By MARK FRANKLAND
London Observer

Hua has warm greeting for President Tito of Yugoslavia

A teacher of young Romanian diplomats liked to compare small countries to tugboats that usefully guide the hulks of great powers through straits and shallow waters. The visit of the Chinese leader Hua Kuo-feng to Romania suggests a cautionary rider: small powers should look out when the big countries they hope to guide start moving quickly under their own steam.

The one unambiguous message of Chairman Hua's visit to Romania and Yugoslavia is that China, after the uncertainties of the Cultural Revolution and Mao's last years, is on the move again in the world. And one wonders whether Romania, and the rest of Europe for that matter, realize how turbulent a wake it may leave behind.

The Chinese Chairman is certainly proving expert in what, barring Mao's one trip to Stalin's Moscow, is the first visit to Europe by any supreme Chinese leader. He has joined in folk dances with good humor, inspected honor guards with dignity, and no doubt with the genuine interest of a builder of modern China, he has examined Romanian turbines, Romanian tractors and Romanian oil-drilling equipment.

He is bigger than his photographs suggest and also a good deal more elegant. The large face with its baggy cheeks and toothy smile announces shrewdness and good health.

A contrast

He is, in other words, an obvious contrast to President Brezhnev, who is seen by informed Romanians, and other East Europeans, as the less and less active invalid leader of an almost immobile Soviet government. And it is in this contrast between the two Communist giants' leaders, and the policies they represent, that one senses grave problems for Europe.

Chairman Hua's visit is the latest in a series of jabs that China has aimed at what it now likes to call "the Arctic Bear". He has just signed a Sino-Japanese friendship treaty which seems likely to change world politics in ways still hard to foresee, though surely all unfavorable to the Soviet Union.

What is more, the Albanians have just provided proof of Chinese ambitions to change the patterns of European politics. According to a letter sent by the Albanian Central Committee to Peking three weeks ago, after China ended its aid to Albania, Chou En-lai proposed in 1968 and again in 1975 that Albania form a Balkan alliance with Romania and Yugoslavia.

This suggests a Chinese readiness to push Romania far beyond what Romanian diplomacy considers the safety margin in cheekiness to the Soviet Union. Romania, after all, is a member of the Warsaw Pact.

'Fire of war'

Pravda has meaningfully reprinted the Albanian charge that the Chinese are trying to "interfere in the affairs of the Balkans, to mix up the cards and to kindle the fire of war in this very sensitive area of Europe."

It is not only the Russians who have reason to worry. Soviet rule has at least brought the Balkans and the rest of Eastern Europe stability of frontiers in a region notorious for the passion and permanence of its national quarrels.

An attempt to modify the present order — even with angelic intentions, which China's scarcely are — would be exceptionally tricky. It is not surprising that the Romanians deny all knowledge of this new Balkan alliance, or that they have shown some nervousness about Chairman Hua's visit.

An official given the delicate job of supervising the Western press, said with a pitiful, almost imploring look: "Don't speculate. How would you like to be speculated about?" The welcome and the well-rehearsed crowds have been pointedly the same as those prepared for Brezhnev in 1976.

And it seemed that President Ceauseuscu persuaded his guest, while in Romania, to stick to the Romanian rule of no open criticism of the Soviet Union or anyone else. When Chou En-lai visited 12 years ago he ignored this and the Romanians had a great battle to get him to rewrite one particularly sulphurous speech.

But this diplomatic correctness, at which Romanians are so good, is beginning to look as useful as putting on kid gloves to pick up plutonium. The Chinese insist — and the Chinese defence minister repeated it only last month — that detente is "humbug", that a new world war is "inevitable", and that Russia is the most likely country to start it.

Small wonder if the Russians took exception to, say, the Chairman's visit to the Black Sea port of Constanza, where China wants to open a consulate. The port conveniently lies between the base of the Soviet Black Sea fleet and the Bosphorus, through which it must pass to enter the Mediterranean.

In some things President Ceausescu agrees with Peking. His most recent judgment of the Soviet Union, without of course naming it, is that because it has a far weaker economy than America it must use chiefly military means to extend its influence. This is strikingly similar to the Chinese analysis.

Backs of others

But of course Romanian officials have always said in private that they disagree with much of Chinese policy; that they have looked to China for a marriage of interests, not minds.

It is this marriage of interests that is now in question, and not only for Romania. In Romania's case the core of its policy, as a Western diplomat in Bucharest put it, is that "both deals and disputes between great powers are usually settled on the backs of small countries."

For many years China seemed to Romania a safe counterweight to the Soviet Union. To suggest another metaphor, it was like a large but slumberous water buffalo which you could push and poke, and even ride, without any danger. But since Mao's death and the elimination of the Gang of Four the water buffalo has begun to look remarkably like a tiger. And we all know what happens to people who ride tigers.

Car Industry Shuffle Stings British Gov't

By JAMES LEWIS
Manchester Guardian

The plight of the British car industry, never out of the headlines for long, became the centre of controversy once again this month when the American Chrysler Corporation, which employs 23,000 people in Britain, announced its intention of selling its European interests to the French Peugeot-Citroen combine for £118 millions in cash plus 15 per cent of the French company's shares. This values Chrysler's operations in Britain, France and Spain at about £250 millions. It would turn Peugeot-Citroen into Europe's largest vehicle manufacturer with about 18 per cent of the European car market.

The British government committed itself less than three years ago to "rescue" Chrysler UK, and the Industry Secretary, Eric Varley, was very angry about what seemed to him to be a sell-out. Varley was let into the secret only three days before the deal was announced, though Chrysler's negotiations with the French had been going on quietly for several weeks. What, it was asked, whould become of the £81 millions which the taxpayers have already pumped into the ailing company? And would the government still be obliged to shell out the further £25 millions it has already promised?

The £51 millions given to Chrysler as an outright grant, it seemed, would be irrecoverable. Worse still, the investment would accrue to the benefit of the French combine and so strengthen its position as a competitor of British Leyland, which the government has already had to rescue at considerable cost. Chrysler, however, announced that it would repay the loans given by the British government as they fell due — in the 1980s — and provided Britain agreed to the deal with Peugeot.

Varley had little choice in the matter. He could either place obstacles in the way of the deal, and so risk the total shutdown of Chrysler UK, or seek hard-headed terms with the French to ensure a more secure future for British workers under their new management. With the prospect of an autumn election, in which the high level of unemployment will be a major compaign issue, he would obviously have to try to make the best of a bad job.

The French have undertaken to accept all Chrysler's rights and obligations in Britain, which covers employment levels, the future of the Linwood plant in Scotland, and a planning agreement with the government which is at present in abeyance because union negotiators were on strike when it ran out at the end of its first year.

Subsidy 'lost' as French firm buys Chrysler

The Chrysler-Peugeot deal revealed Leyland in all its vulnerability as Europe's smallest manufacturer. Some worrying spects of life at Leyland were also brught to light at a trial in which a former financial executive of the company was sent to prison for two years for forging, and then selling to a newspaper, letters purporting to show that Leyland paid bribes to its overseas dealers. The conviction of the accused, Graham Barton, however, raised more questions than it answered about Leyland's methods of conducting business.

At one point in the trial the former chairman of the company, Lord Ryder, said he had found "no evidence of corrupt practices" when he led an investigation into allegations of bribery of foreign dealers. Latar he admitted that corrupt payments had been limited to "a small number of comparatively trivial cases." Later again, however, the court was hearing evidence of £700,000 being slipped to the brother-in-law of a commander of the national guard in an unnamed country, and potential Leyland witnesses were seeking High Court injunctions rather than go into the witness box to discuss company documents and methods. The so-called "slush fund" allegations were clearly not laid to rest by the disappearance of Barton.

Notwithstanding its unhappy experience with Chrysler, the government decided to back, to the tune of £52 millions, yet another car-building venture, this time in West Belfast, where male unemployment is in the region of 30 per cent. The project is the brain-child of John DeLorean, who plans to assemble a new and unconventional specialist car made of plastic and stainless steel and embodying mechanical parts brought in from France and the United States.

Government support was criticized on two grounds. First, it was laying out a lot of cash for relatively few jobs (an estimated £26,000 for each of the 2,000 jobs promised). Secondly, it was a high price to pay to take part in a risky venture. Its riskiness was admitted by none other than DeLorean who, in a prospectus lodged with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, warned that "only investors who can afford a total loss of the minimum investment of $25,000 should apply."

Sunsets and Computers

By FRED REED
Washington Post

An abandoned road winds through the forest near my home in Virginia, running from a still older road, almost invisible now, down to the beaver pond. It was a beaver pond, anyway, until the trappers came. The road cuts between deep banks of red Virginia clay flecked with mica, and smells of earth and mould. Erosion has toppled a live beech between the banks. I'm sure a thoughtful providence intended that tree as a place for deserving journalists to sit and supervise the evening.

I'm also sure that journalists should concern themselves more with sunsets. Their insight would improve. In Washington, one's vision is dimmed by the intellectual confetti of politics, by matters of seeming pith and fleeting moment, by this week's bribe and last week's half-forgotten scheme. One misses larger currents that shape things.

Electronics, for example. Especially we should look at electronics.

The sky became a glowing dome of red lacquer, lit from within, while I struggled against the gathering gloom to read a book on the programing of microcomputers. The things fascinate me. As the race goes its trackless way into the future, these tiny machines — if they are machines — will be a milestone, perhaps our first glimpse of the coming electronic civilization. Whether we will want that civilization is another matter, which is why I keep coming back to the sunset. There is soothing familiarity in sunsets.

Meanwhile, the feeble-minded cur who owns me watched patiently from below. He has no interest in computers but suspects that books are good to eat, else why would I carry them about? No amount of hard experience quenches his hope. These days, any faith should be encouraged.

Although microcomputers and sunsets differ greatly in spirit and structure, each is lovely by some lights. The computer is a small chip of silicon, about the size of a fingernail and, if concealed in a bowl of cereal, might be eaten unawares. Thirty years ago, an equivalent circuit would have fit nicely in a small gymnasium.

It is a thoughtful flake — this is the important thing — having an IQ between that of an education theorist and a bright cocker spaniel. It can figure hyperbolic arctangents without perspiring. It can . . . do many things, disturbing things.

By putting many thousands of transistors on a small chip, cheaply, the new technology allows economical use of powerful computers for complex jobs — and threatens gradual, inexorable obsolescence of the labor force. Another social shift is in the making. Electronics already terrifies the postal unions, and assembly workers are no longer safe from replacement. Increasing automation has pushed the work force from farm to heavy industry to service industry to — where?

The frogs in the swamp began trilling in their thousands. Frogs are agreeable creatures, if you like clammy green animals with yellow eyes. I rather do. Musically they are superior to the celeste, and probably should be classed with woodwinds.

They eschew electronics. No frog ever said Zilog Z-80, byte, op-code, RAM, MOSFET, PROM or ab-end (abnormal end-of-job, indicating what would today be called an error situation). Computer talk always looks as if linguistuc odds-and-ends had been glued together by an idiot child. Much of society gives a similar impression.

This is not a frog's age, although, when the radiation dies, it may be again. Electronics is going to stand everything on its ear. Exactly how is unclear, but the potential grows. Among scientists there is an excitement like that which must have pervaded Paris in the days of the Impressionists, a sense of temples falling, the old world passing, and strange shapes looming in the future.

Science moves while the arts languish. Literature falters, painting expired long ago, architecture means the Hoover building, and most sculpture, if put in an automotive graveyard, would get a cousin's welcome. Yet witchcraft thrives in the laboratories. Eerie, lovely things are in the offing.

But the "information explosion," in the annointed cliche, ensures that only a few can understand what is happening. A man in 1650 grasped his world from churn to mill wheel. Today he is lucky to understand his television. Maybe this explains quackery like biorhythms and pyramid power. With God banished and science incomprehensible, hokum must serve.

From the highway a mile or so away came the howl of big diesels. They come from inland factories, hour after hour, never stopping, making the night unpleasant. Better technology means better trucks, more strip development, uglier buildings farther in the countryside, more noise. And more warplanes of hideous beauty cracking through the night at Mach 3, lashing at each other with half-magical electronics.

The curse of science: Great men have ideas; lesser men, usually engineers, make them explode, the least men get the triggers.

I climbed down from the beech, under a burnt-out sky, with a premonition that the whole is bent on abending. The bark was smooth and cool. I approve of beech trees, admire their detached view of things. The book worries me. The dog sniffed and decided it wasn't good to eat. He still hopes. So do I.

Best of Both Pension Worlds

VANCOUVER (CP) — Every month in Canada, 45,000 elderly residents receive social security pensions from the United States.

For some of them (U.S. citizens who qualify for the maximum pension), the cheques are substantially higher than they would be under the Canada Pension Plan (CPP) or Canada's old-age security (OAS).

Others, who have worked fewer years in the U.S. and have therefore made smaller contribution to social security, are generally less well off than their Canadian counterparts.

But although the cost of living in Canada is higher than in the U.S., the advantages of health care and other benefits make retiring in Canada attractive to Americans.

In British Columbia alone, there are 6,435 U.S. citizens of pensionable age.

One American from Kansas, a landed immigrant who has lived and worked in B.C. for 15 years, receives three pensions: OAS, currently $159.79; Canada Pension, based on nine years' contributions, $138. and U.S. social security, $238, based on credits as a U.S. wage earner.

He considers he has the best of both worlds.

"There is no doubt I am better off in Canada than I would be in the United States, with comparable employment time," he said. "On top of that, there is the factor in B.C. of medical care which makes an old person's security very much better, because in the States some catastrophic illness can wipe out a family fortune."

Jim Bennett, manager of the social security division in Bellingham, Wash., drives with a colleague to the U.S. consulate in Vancouver to process pension applications and assist U.S. citizens with any problems.

How do U.S. pensions compare with Canadian? Generally, not favorably. But at least U.S. citizens enjoy the option of early retirement.

Bennett said U.S. social security benefits begin at age 62, at a 20-per-cent reduction of what they would be at 65.

The minimum payable to a man and wife at 62 is currently $143.20 a month. At 65, the minimum is $182.70.

The maximum at 62 is $575.50 for a man and wife and the maximum at 65 is $734.60.

"The amount you get depends on the amount you put in," said Bennett.

While monthly government pensions of $734 probably seem high to many Canadian retired couples, the average Canadian wage earner pays less and gets more in over-all retirement benefits.

Roy Wiley, district manager for the Canada Pension Plan in Vancouver describes CPP as "a fantastic bargain, considering what it costs."

Wage deductions for social security in the U.S. are far higher than they are for the CPP, for example, although CPP contributions are expected to rise in the near future.

Canadian workers currently pay 1.8 per cent on a maximum pensionable income of $10,400. This works out as no more than $169.20 a year.

Exployers match the amount that each employee pays.

In the U.S. workers currently pay 6.05 per cent, also matched by employers on a maximum pensionable income of $17,700. For workers who contribute the maximum, this amounts to $1,070.85 per annum.

Under the CPP the current maximum pension payable is $194.44, compared with a maximum of $489.70 under U.S. social security.

But in the U.S. there is no such thing as Guaranteed Income Supplement and old people who don't qualify for old-age security have to go on welfare.

All Canadians over 65, regardless of income from other sources, qualify for the old-age pension.

Those who have no other income automatically qualify for the supplement, which is currently $112.08 for a single person or $99.52 for married couples.

In Canada there is also the Spouse's Allowance for persons aged 60 to 65 who are married to recipients of old-age security.

Ancient Indian Skeleton Poses Trade Mysteries

VANCOUVER (CP) — The discovery of an intact Indian skeleton on a guest ranch in British Columbia's Cariboo region three weeks ago has provincial archeological authorities excited about gleaning valuable information about Indian trading practices.

Steve Acheson, assistant regional archeologist with the ministry of recreation and conservation, said Monday that the skeleton, believed to be a woman in her 30s, was found with grave goods including copper lates and dentalia (seashell) beads, both wealth items among coast Indians.

He said the skeleton was found on the J-Bar-T Ranch near 70 Mile House, about 260 kilometres north of Vancouver, and was likely uncovered in its sandy grave by wind erosion.

He said the Canim Lake Indian band agreed to let the government transport the body to Victoria where it will be examined by archeologists at the Provincial Museum.

The soil around the skeleton will be used to try and date the time of burial, he said.

The skeleton is the third to be found on the ranch, he said. In 1974, a Simon Fraser University excavation crew found a baby's body but decided to re-inter it at the spot.

The same year other bones, also believed to be that of a child, were found again.

70 SAWMILL WORKERS LAID OFF

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — About 70 sawmill workers at Northwood Pulp and Timber mill here and in nearby Shelley were laid off Monday because of a dispute between log haulers and contractors working for the timber company.

More layoffs could occur at the end of September without fresh log supplies.

The dispute between about 70 independent truckers and contractors working for Northwood started July 28 when drivers parked their vehicles to protest rates and road conditions.

Death Allegations 'Rubbish'

Health Minister Bob McClelland Monday branded as rubbish charges by a Vancouver chest surgeon that there were at least two unnecessary deaths before the Vancouver General Hospital board and the provincial government were convinced to re-open a life-saving unit at the hospital.

Dr. William Trapp of Vancouver said Sunday that the unit, a hyperbaric chamber paid for by donation, was closed last November because the government would not provide money to improve it even though it provided an essential, life-saving service.

McClelland said the chamber, operated by Dr. Trapp for 15 years, was closed because it was unsafe.

He said the government made funds available so the unit could be repaired and re-opened, but for use primarily in research and only for limited patient care.

"The allegation that people died because that service wasn't available really doesn't stand up medically because some of the services that that particular doctor is providing are not proven medical techniques," McClelland said in an interview.

"If they were, there would be hyperbaric chambers in every part of Canada, and there aren't."

The chamber is used to increase the oxygen supply to the blood.

McClelland said the government provided the hospital with $170,000 on July 24 for renovation of defective and obsolete equipment in the chamber, and not $15,000 as stated by Dr. Trapp.

The minister said when the chamber was closed, doctors were advised their patients would be transported free to Seattle or Canadian Forces Base in Esquimalt where similar facilities are located if they needed the treatment offered by the chamber.

PNE GETS EARFUL

VANCOUVER (CP) — Reverberations from the largest rock concert in this city's history, held Sunday, continued into Monday as about 115 persons complained to officials at Pacific National Exhibition (PNE) and city hall about excessive noise levels.

The eight-hour concert attracted about 44,000 music fans to the PNE's Empire Stadium. It grossed organizers $543,885.50 and netted PNE directors $150,000 in rent and revenue.

"We're not going to have any more outdoor rock concerts in Empire Stadium," said PNE president Erwin Swangard who was swamped with about 90 complaints about the noise level.

"The unusual thing is that these complaints were from outside the immediate PNE area," he added.

Mayor Jack Volrich said he received about 25 telephone calls from PNE-area residents, adding he would ask exhibition officials to ensure another concert would not take place on a Sunday.

The concert featured former Vancouver-based rock band Heart, the Little River Band of Australia, Bob Welch of the United States and local rock performer Nick Gilder.

Jet Threat Accused Turned Over to U.S.

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Canadian authorities have turned over to U.S. authorities a woman arrested after a phoney bomb threat which diverted a United Airlines DC-8 with 159 persons aboard.

FBI spokesman Ray Mathis said Diane Benson, 27, of the Mount Vernon, Wash., area, would appear before a federal magistrate today to be charged with making a threat against an aircraft.

A spokesman for the U.S. attorney's office said she might face up to 20 years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Ms. Benson was given a medical examination at Vancouver General Hospital on Monday before being turned over to U.S. authorities, said Inspector Al Sabean of the RCMP.

A woman was arrested Sunday night after United Flight 179 from Newark, N.J., and Denver to Seattle was diverted to Vancouver. Airline officials said a stewardess found a note saying the plane would be blown up unless it was flown to Vancouver.

Police tackled the woman as she tried to run away after the plane had landed and taxied to a secondary runway northeast of the main passenger terminal.

No bomb was found when the plane was searched, and the remaining 151 passengers and seven crew members flew on to Seattle.

Coastal Woods Firms Given Time to Reply

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's coastal forest industry has won an extension of the deadline for responding to the provincial government's white paper on timber supply areas, deputy forests minister Mike Apsey said Monday.

He made the announcement at the conclusion of a discussion with coastal forest representatives over the switch to the concept of timber supply areas from Public Sustained Yield Units.

The TSA concept was adopted by the province when it brought down its new forest legislation earlier this year.

Apsey's white paper describes a TSA as a geographically-distinct area reflecting an efficient pattern of wood movement from harvest point to primary manufacturing facilities.

"Generally their boundaries are set by cost considerations and represent the equal costs points for transporting logs between competing centres," said Apsey. "The TSAs support the income and employment base of the manufacturing centres."

Apsey has been travelling throughout B.C. for the past few weeks explaining the change and getting responses from interested parties.

However, after listening to several pleas for extra time to study the situation, he agreed to accept submissions up to the end of October.

Under the present system, wood is allocated to operators from separately administered management areas.

The TSAs would be much larger than the present system and the white paper says they would have several advantages over PSYUs. "The most obvious is the flexibility gained from scheduling harvest and management activities over a large area," it says.

The paper says the new method would also enable the forest service to predict the future state of the wood supply.

In addition, says the white paper, the TSA encompasses a number of management units and allows tenures previously held in these units to be consolidated on a more rational basis.

CREEK CLEARED

GENELLE (CP) — Results of seven tests of the water quality in China Creek show there is no radiation health hazard in the southeastern British Columbia watershed, says MP Bob Brisco (PC—Kootenay West).

Local residents had called for tests because of concern about radiation levels in the watershed, their domestic water supply.

Drilling tests for uranium were being conducted in the area and residents said that their drinking water could become contaminated with it.

Brisco said results of the tests, conducted by the B.C. health ministry, show the radiation level to be equal to that found naturally in any water supply in the world.

He said it would be irresponsible for anyone to suggest that a health hazard has been caused by uranium exploration.

The MP said he doubted there will be further development of uranium deposits in the China Creek watershed because of the poor quality of the ore body.

3 Top Unionists Quit Talks

tion of a breakdown. We hope the talks will be fruitful."

The union, which represents maintenance workers, cargo handlers and other Air Canada employees, has twice been rebuffed by its own members after negotiating tentative agreements with the airline, and its leaders appeared cautious in their third attempt at a contract.

Air Canada, which normally carries 40,000 passengers daily, shut down operations on Friday following the launching of wildcat strikes by ground-service employees aross the country. It has since laid off more than 5,000 pilots, flight attendants and customer service employees, and says it is losing $3 million a day.

Hundreds of passengers have been stranded by the wildcat strike, and thousands more inconvenienced.

An airline spokesman said hundreds of passengers were waiting in Paris and London for seats on alternative flights. Their problems are increased by strikes by air controllers in France.

In a related development, French air controllers on a work slowdown today said all pilots flying over France without radar guidance are risking disaster, adding that two jetliners almost crashed over eastern France Monday.

Members of the Regional Air Control Center at Aix-en-Provence, southern France, said a collision was narrowly avoided Monday between a West German LTU charter company Caravelle jet and an Air France Caravelle off Lyon.

The West German plane, flying from Portugal to Duesseldorf, changed its course after being told it was about to cross the path of an Air France jet coming in from Geneva under radar guidance, they said.

"It is the first days (of a strike) that are the most difficult," said Air Canada spokesman Gerard Larault. After a while, he said, there will be a more systematic means of using vacant spaces on other airlines, which are adding flights and bringing in Hardest hit are passengers hoping to use the return portions of Air Canada reduced-fare excursion tickets.

The airline promised to reimburse half the cost of the tickets, but said it could not compensate passengers who had to buy more expensive full-fare tickets on other airlines.

Postal officials said some mail might be delayed up to a day by the shutdown, but they said alternative arrangements should prevent any larger aircraft to accomodate the Air Canada passengers.

serious disruption in service.

In a related development, an Edmonton-based airline has received permission to carry travellers stranded in Saskatchewan during the Air Canada shutdown.

Saskatchewan is not served by Canadian Pacific airlines and is the only province without a regional carrier flying into major cities.

Gateway Aviation of Edmonton said it has received permission from the Canadian Transport Commission to begin flights from Regina and Saskatoon for the duration of the shutdown.

Tad-Watching Time Again!

It's back-to-school again next Tuesday and the B.C. Automobile Association is warning motorists to keep an extra lookout for small children.

Victoria and Saanich police are also offering back-to-school safety programs.

BCAA says because many youngsters have never been to school, they will be excited and may not pay full attention to their feet.

Parents should not drive their children to school because extra traffic congestion around schools adds an unnecessary hazard, the BCAA says.

Instead, safe walking should be taught and for rainy days, good-fitting and light-colored rain gear should be used.

BCAA says children are imitative and parents' good traffic habits will influence their children.

The Victoria safety program will be held Thursday through Saturday at the Hillside Mall and features a bicycle raffle. Pamphlets and movies will also be shown.

Saanich police will present a program at the Mayfair Mall Thursday through Saturday during store hours.

Bicycle flags, lights, reflector tape and a bicycle will be given away to drill in the safety message.

ROBBED CITY PAIR, MAN GETS 7 YEARS

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Robert Barinecutt, 31, of Toronto, was sentenced in provincial court Monday to seven years in prison for the robbery of a Victoria couple in May.

Barinecutt pleaded guilty to robbery, use of a firearm during an indictable offence and three counts of theft over $200.

Mrs. Barinecutt will appear in provincial court on Wednesday.

Hurt In Fall

A 32-year-old window washer received multiple fractures after falling from the third floor of the Douglas Street branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia Monday.

RUSH-HOUR TRAFFIC SNARLED

A rear-end collision involving a dump truck and a semi-trailer at Trans-Canada and Douglas Monday afternoon tied up rush-hour traffic.

Saanich police said Donald Malcolm, 44, of 539 Carnation Place, was stopped at the pedestrian crosswalk when a semi-trailer driven by Gary Barker, 30, of Mill Bay skidded into the back of Malcolm's truck.

Police Push Ottawa Cash

OTTAWA (CP) — Police forces need millions in federal aid to combat rapidly-growing organized crime across the country, Norm Stewart, president of the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police, said today.

Stewart told the association's 73rd annual meeting that there is a "very, very urgent" need for more funding to combat such crime.

"We are operating against organized crime who have billions of dollars in resources and we have very little," he later told reporters.

He defined such crime as any group of people combined to carry out an illicit purpose transcending provincial or international boundaries.

It was active and growing across Canada, he said. "Anybody who says they don't have a problem with organized crime in their area is putting his head in the sand." '

Organized crime, especially its interests in drug trafficking, pornography and gambling, affects all citizens, said Stewart, who is chief of police in Winnipeg.

Grove Found

TOKYO (AP) — A 10,000-acre grove of wild almonds has been found in the sparsely populated Tahcheng area of Sinkiang province, in western China, Peking's official Hsinhua news agency reports.

City Directory Under Fire

B.C.human rights branch director Kathleen Ruff said today she will continue to try to persuade B.C. Directories to make changes in its listing of residents but indicated no formal action will be taken.

She said there have been complaints for several years that women are listed as residents in their husband's house, that widows are singled out for special reference including the use of the dead spouse's name and people are listed who have asked not to be listed.

Ruff said B.C. Directories of Vancouver, a division of R.L. Polk and Company Limited, had taken the position that the Human Rights Code did not apply. She said there is no law on the point and she decided to pursue complaints by trying to persuade the company to make changes.

Company spokesman F.J. Murphy said the designation "widow" will not appear in the next issue of the directory. As for people who don't want to be included at all, Murphy said only "anything along those lines I would look into if you would send a request in writing."

PUPILS WIELD PAINT BRUSHES

It's Back-to-School Time With Emphasis on Energy

By LORRAINE LOCHERTY
Times Staff

When students volunteer to clean and paint their school and take on the janitorial work as well as their classroom assignments — that's total participation.

Warehouse school is the kind of alternative education program that thrives on commitment. Energy is something the staff and pupils, over the last six years, have found comes in handy.

"The turnover here is high. Teachers burn out after three years," said school director Barbara Pelman, who was out scrubbing walls and unpacking boxes Monday.

The Greater Victoria School District has leased Warehouse its former Sundance School site on Quadra Street.

In addition to the usual back-to-school confusion, the staff and pupils are going through the traumas of moving lock, stock and barrel from their old school in the former Saanich firehall on Shelbourne.

There's plenty of work to be done before classes start next week, but luckily there is also plenty of manpower.

Several graduates of the program also showed up at the new school to lend a hand with the painting.

The school began in 1972 as an independent learning centre for ex-convicts and acquired the strange name because the first school building was an old warehouse owned by St. Vincent De Paul.

Later, as young people who had turned off to the regular education system began to show interest in the program, it was picked up by the human resources ministry and the minstry of education.

These two ministries supply the funding for the school, which has since developed three programs: adult upgrading, general Grade 10 and a general Grade 12 course.

The school's purpose is to provide a basic education for people who can't function in the regular school system for one reason or another.

Many of the students are on welfare, come from broken homes or have been in trouble with the law; a few are physically or mentally handicapped.

"Some of them are rebels, or have been hampered by constant failure under the regular education system," Pelman said.

They need more a more personal approach that is a lot more flexible than the average classroom and at the Warehouse school that's what they get, she said.

The school operates on a tight budget. It must hand in annual reports and lives a hand-to-mouth existance depending on the generosity of the government.

Warehouse teachers must be dedicated to their work because their pay last year was about $700 a month, a good deal less than their counterparts inside the education system.

But what it lacks in money, the school makes up in spirit, Pelman says.

Last year about 60 students enrolled in the school and Pelman is hoping for the same number this year.

With six full-time teachers, several part-time staff members and plenty of volunteer help, the class size will work out to 10 students for each of the six large rooms in the new building.

Although she has no way of knowing how many students will actually show up to enrol next week, Pelman isn't worrying too much.

"Sometimes I have dreams that school opens and nobody is here; but I know that won't happen," she jokes.

Move to End Truck Roar Gets Backing

Committee received a 250-name petition from householders on Montreal and St. Lawrence streets who claimed truck traffic is disrupting their lives and damaging their homes.

Committee voted to reroute the trucks to nearby Dallas and Erie Streets which are more industrial in nature.

James Bay Residents League spokesman Charles Ball said the new route is a 95-per-cent improvement over the present situation, but he'd like to see the Montreal-St. Lawrence ban made permanent.

In a submission to committee, Ball said that heavy trucks on St. Lawrence had damaged the road bed, broken pipes running under the street and caused cracks in house walls.

"During the recent tremors that hit Victoria some people had difficulty differentiating between vibrations caused by trucks and the actual earthquake," said Ball.

"Noise has been a persistant nuisance factor. Residents are regularly awakened at 5:30 a.m. and conversations are literally stopped in mid-sentence while the trucks rumble by," he added.

Traffic committee chairman Ald. Bill McElroy said he is aware of the problem and that it has caused headaches for traffic engineers for years.

He said the new route is only the first step and "we're looking for a long-term permanent solution to this problem."

Message of Love Spread in Sand

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

There will be wall-to-wall love letters in the sand at Oak Bay's Willows Beach on Sunday.

But the message they spell won't be romantic sentiment — a la singer Pat Boone's 1950s ballad — but Christian love and fellowship.

Victorian Wayne Wickett, 28, who will lead a team of about 30 helpers from Emmanuel Baptist Church in writing The Lord's Prayer in huge letters in the sand, said today the exercise will be a sort of Christian Outreach — "a way of bringing the good news to the world."

"I see it as working for the Lord on the Labor Day weekend," he added. "We can provide some good news, as a change from car accidents and all the other grim things that fill the headlines."

As a bonus, he also hopes the effort will be credited as a first in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Wickett says he has been in contact with the publishers' New York office about submitting the record claim, which he plans to authenticate with an aerial photograph.

Apparently The Lord's Prayer has been engraved on the head of a pin, he said, but never written large across the entire length of a sandy beach.

(The tallest letters in the world — in Australia — are 600 feet high but there are only eight of them and they spell a somewhat mundane commercial message: Readymix).

The Willows project has taken two months of planning, including obtaining permission from Oak Bay municipality, alerting the municipal police and fire departments, studying tide conditions and the vital statistics of the beach itself.

Wickett noted the beach is 2,900 feet long while the prayer has 295 letters, with six periods and seven commas.

He's still working out last-minute details but the letters should be between 16 and 20 feet high, about seven feet across and four inches deep.

If necessary, the team of letter writers can accentuate relief against the sand by filling in the outlines with an abundance of seaweed.

They'll start the task at 7 a.m. Sunday while the tide is still ebbing — it's fully out at 10 a.m. — and Wickett estimates the completed prayer will be visible until at least 6 p.m.

Invitations have gone out to local churches for anyone interested to help with the sand-writing effort, and a service will be conducted on the beach at 1 p.m. by one of the team pastors of Emmanuel Baptist Church, Lloyd Pierce.

Another of the pastors, Norman Archer, said today that when Wickett approached them with the idea they replied it was "crazy enough it might even work."

RESCUE CRAFT TO REMAIN

The 38-foot rescue vessel Relite, based in Campbell River since mid-June, will not be withdrawn in mid-October as originally intended.

Capt. Jack Ickringill of Vancouver, Coast Guard rescue officer with the department of transport, said today Herbert Buchanan of Vancouver, regional director of marine services, has reversed the decision to withdraw the Relite.

"The director has reconsidered and approved continuation of coverage at Campbell River for the time being," Ickringill said.

He said the decision was made in spite of the fact the department is very much aware the Relite has certain limitations, particularly in winter conditions around the Cape Mudge area at the south end of Quadra Island.

He said the combination of southeast gales and strong flood tides pouring out of Seymour Narrows create hazardous conditions.

Ickringill said the number of incidents in the Campbell River area vividly displays the need for more adequate search and rescue facilities in that area.

He said the department has applied for more search and rescue vessels and the Campbell River area would have a high priority if and when the federal government approves the new ships.

-Bob Somerville, Coast Guard volunteer rescue agent at Campbell River, this week sent the latest in a long series of requests to Transport Minister Otto Lang and Defence Minister Barney Danson pointing out the need for more adequate protection in his area.

He carried out 30 rescues in his 23-foot craft Christina before the Relite arrived in June and expects the total will rise to 200 before the year's end. He told the ministers the total of deaths by drowning since 1966 has now reached 101.

Somerville described the type of vessel and equipment that is needed, suggesting it be based at CFB Comox. He says the base's station should be required to monitor citizens band radio when the vessel's crew is not aboard and monitoring.

RYAN WANTS PUSH ON CBC

The city of Victoria should officially urge Ottawa to complete and put into production the new CBC building now under construction, Ald. Larry Ryan said today.

Ryan said he intends to ask council at the next meeting to make a representation to the CBC and the federal government expressing support for the new radio-television station now being built on Blanshard at Kings.

The future of the $7 million station was called into doubt last week when Ottawa announced massive spending cuts.

"I've been an advocate of this (station), for many years and I think it's due Victoria. It's incredible after the dedication and the promises made that somebody should now decide we cannot have it," said Ryan.

TOWN TALK

A Sideways Approach? Surely Not

Does Cleve Tuttle, the man chosen by Saanich to head its personnel department, have a sideways approach to his job?

It appears so, from a literal reading of the Saanich press release announcing his appointment effective Sept. 11.

The release gives details of Tuttle's experience, and mentions the fact that he was "laterally with the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. as personnel manager for six years."

Not literally laterally, surely? Or did they mean latterly?

Talk about hospitality.

A couple from Minneapolis arrived in Victoria this month without hotel reservations.

In a last-ditch effort to find accommodation, Pierre Verite jumped out of his car at a stop light and asked the young man in the van behind him if he knew of any places to stay.

The young man said the couple and their two dogs would be welcome in his home.

The couple accepted gratefully and wrote to us saying "our impression of your city will be an everlasting one and will always remain a highlight of our vacation, thanks to Mr. Bruce Brown, 824 Selkirk."

Calling it a world championship may have been stretching it but the money was real, a team of croquet players from Oak Bay discovered on the weekend.

The team, led by Doug Carrick and including Bob Hunt and Ed Kowalyk, won the third annual "world" croquet championship at the Island Hall Hotel in Parksville. It was the Oak Bay entry's second straight global title and was worth $1,000 and a trophy.

The Arrenglen Angels of Parksville were second. They got a trophy but no cash.

Sixteen teams from Victoria, Vancouver, Parksville, Port Alberni, Nanaimo, Qualicum and Seattle competed.

Three west coast servicemen were presented Maritime Commander Commendation Awards by Vice-Admiral Andrew Collier when he visited CFB Esquimalt recently.

The awards, sponsored by Collier and given for outstanding contributions to the Pacific command, were given to PO George Butterfield, WO Raymond Gardner and LS David Lawrence.

Butterield, a shipping agent with King Brothers Ltd., is a naval reservist with HMCS Malahat. On his own time and initiative he improved the naval reserve summer training program and his directives are now being used by the 18 naval reserve divisions across Canada.

Gardner received the award for dedication to duty and concern for the welfare of his fellow servicemen while acting as chief clerk in maritime command Pacific headquarters. He is now in HMCS Kootenay.

Lawrence receives the award for saving the life of an American spectator when HMCS Yukon was taking part in the Portland Rose Festival in Oregon. The spectator fell 30 feet into the water. Lawrence directed the ship's seaboat to the area, rescued the victim and radioed for medical assistance.

Like a bad cheque, the Times story Friday about the all-female Bank of Montreal branch on Shelbourne bounced right back at us.

Keith Duffy, manager of the Royal Bank on Cook, says we were wrong in reporting the female bastion is a first for the area. Prior to 1975, the branch he now manages was staffed by women for about two years.

"I'm sure there were others," he said. "It's not common and when it does occur, it is just by accident."

Teele, Thibault and three other top B.C. drivers will represent B.C. and the Yukon in the Western region finals Sept. 16 in Calgary.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A broad slide sent the Toronto stock market sharply lower in active mid-afternoon trading today.

The TSE 300 index was down 6.45 to 1211.38 with falls in all four of its most heavily-weighted groups.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 2.74 million shares compared with 2.44 million at the same time Monday.

Trading resumed at the opening in Reed Paper Ltd. and Cockfield Brown and Co. Ltd.

Reed International Ltd. said it is engaged in negotiations that may lead to the sale of its subsidiary, Reed Paper Ltd. of Toronto.

Cockfield Brown said financing problems has delayed a public offer for all stocks held outside the company.

Cockfield fell 75 cents to $3.85. Reed gained ⅜ to $9⅝.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market fell today as the announcement of a widening trade deficit overcame encouraging news about inflation. Gambling and airline issues provided some bright spots, however.

The Labor Department said retail prices rose 0.5 per cent in July, after three consecutive monthly gains of 0.9 per cent. White House inflation fighter Robert Strauss estimated prices would rise by a minimum of eight per cent this year.

Pan American World Airways, which is offering $35 a share for National Airlines, rose ⅛ to $8½ while National jumped 1⅛ to $39⅛. Continental was up 1½ to $16¼ and Eastern was ahead 1⅛ to $14⅝.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were broadly lower in moderate afternoon trading todayon the Montreal Stock Exchange. Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 256,000 shares traded, compared with 369,800 exchanged up to the same time Monday. Norcen Energy Resources was off ¼ at $15¼, Celanese Canada 10 cents at $3.65, Bank of Montreal ⅝ at $23¼, CP Ltd. ⅛ at $22¼, Abitibi ⅛ at $15⅜, Home A $1¼ at $38¾ and Inco A ⅛ at $18⅜. FCA International was up 10 cents at $3.20.

London

LONDON (Reuter) — Prices on the London market drifted lower in slack trading, unsettled by continuing election worries, dealers said. Leading industrials lost up to 10p, but many closed above the day's lows. An hour before the close the Financial Times index was down 6.5 at 506.9. Government stocks were little changed in idle trading, dealers added. Mining shares were mixed while both Australian and Canadian issues tended easier. Reed closed 7p higher after an earlier 12p gain following news of the possible sale of its Reed Paper subsidiary, dealers said.

Lawyers Meeting Told Of Advertising Need

HALIFAX (CP) — Lawyers must agree to an advertising program that will help the public "realize when they need legal services," Thomas Walsh, president-elect of the Canadian Bar Association, said Monday.

"There must be information readily available on individual lawyers, the areas they practise in and an indication of cost," Walsh, a Calgarian, told the annual convention here.

He spoke to young lawyers — lawyers who have been in practice for less than than 10 years.

"We should take the first steps now; not by throwing it wide open, but by expanding the present lawyer referral service, publishing an official directory or lawyer referral lists, and providing cost guidelines where possible."

Currently, provincial law societies governing bodies for lawyers, imposes rigid restrictions on such advertising.

Walsh defended the legal profession against people who he said try to "discredit and ridicule our profession by saying we are a group opposed to new blood and change."

Pre-Paid Legal Aid Plan Mooted by Bar

HALIFAX (CP) — Thomas J. Walsh, president-elect of the Canadian Bar Association, says the association should "thoroughly examine" the possibility of sponsoring a prepaid legal services plan for middle-income earners.

"Some legal assistance formula must be reached to deliver adequate services to the group who can;t afford us," Walsh said at the opening luncheon of the bar asscociation's annual meeting here.

"There is no problem with the rich and the very poor — they now are well looked-after. But the vast group "who work daily to keep their heads above water" are the people who need some form of legal assistance.

In an interview before the speech, Walsh said a prepaid legal services plan could be sold to large firms as a benefit to employees.

"Basic legal services could be available to anyone subscribing to the scheme — things like wills and property transfers."

He had no idea what such a program would cost but said the association would have some concrete proposals by the end of the year.

GRIT NOD FOR STRONG

TORONTO (CP) — Maurice Strong, board chairman of Petro-Canada, was nominated by acclamation Monday as federal Liberal candidate for the Toronto area riding of Scarborough Centre.

Gays to Day-Care Socred Leader Doesn't Like 'Em

EDMONTON (CP) — The leader of the national Social Credit party denounced abortion, homosexuality, euthanasia, sterilization and day-care centres Monday in a speech to about 100 party supporters.

Lorne Reznowski, who has been on tour since early July, once again outlined his scheme for saving the economy and he also called for decentralization of political power.

The provinces, he said should draft a new constitution.

"Control (by groups) closest to the people is the best government. The government in Ottawa doesn't understand the concerns of Albertans."

Later in an interview, Reznowski said his party must take power from Prime Minister Trudeau, who has created a degenerated country.

"As one step towards improving moral problems, I'd put homosexuality and abortion back in the Criminal Code. We are destroying babies in mothers' wombs because there won't be jobs for them."

Reznowski said unemployment can be solved through a system of national dividends paid to Canadians, debt-free, by the Bank of Canada.

'Never Enough Visits'

TORONTO (CP) — No matter how frequently or how seldom divorced or separated fathers visit their children, the children always say it is not enough.

That was a major finding in a five-year study of 60 mothers and their 131 children in Marin County, Calif., says the report's author, Joan Kelly.

She told a symposium at the American Psychological Association convention that children visited either frequenly or infrequently alike complained that there were not enough visits.

She said young children tended to grieve openly for their absent father. Children over nine expressed their feelings through anger.

The study also found that visitation patterns generally were fixed about 18 months after the divorce.

CLC Urges NDP Support

OTTAWA (CP) — Union members can change the government if they actively support the New Democratic Party in the upcoming federal election campaign, the Canadian Labor Congress says in its strongly-political Labor Day message.

"Labor leaders from across the country will be out on the hustings working for and with the NDP — the only party that has consistently worked to assure Canadians of such fundamental rights as full employment," the new congress president, Dennis McDermott, said in the statement.

"The Canadian labor movement must and will become more involved in the democratic political process than it has ever been before," he added.

At the congress convention in April, McDermott pledged solid labor support for the NDP and predicted the federal election will result in a minority government with the NDP holding the balance of power.

He promised to deliver that support "by a little arm-twisting, getting people together and reminding them of their responsibilities."

Robin Sears, federal secretary of the NDP, said in an interview there are daily discussions about election strategy between congress and NDP staff.

McDermott's commitment to support the NDP has resulted "in some really hard-nosed planning," Sears said.

The term of Prime Minister Trudeau's Liberal administration expires next July but there is political speculation he will announce a fall election date on the Labor Day weekend.

'Strings' On Aid Blasted

OTTAWA (CP) — Tanzania appreciates Canadian aid but doesn't like the strings attached to much of it, one senior official of that nation said Monday.

Ibrahim Kaduma, former foreign minister of the East African country, said his country is "definitely opposed to the idea of tied aid."

Canada requires receiving countries to use much Canadian aid to buy Canadian goods and services.

Kaduma, now vice-chancellor of the University of Dar es Salaam and a member of the ruling party's central committee, said, however, "we also do appreciate the problems of the donor countries."

Kaduma was in Ottawa for a seminar at Carleton University on economic progress in his country in the last 10 years.

"Naturally we would be very interested to use the Canadian aid in the cheapest markets," Kaduma said. He indicated that buying goods from Canada can be more expensive than from some other countries.

He said about 80 per cent of Canadian aid to his country is tied.

Tanzania receives more Canadian aid than any other Commonwealth African country. The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) has provided $124.7 million for new or recently-completed projects including railway, agricultural and educational programs.

CIDA announced three years ago plans to untie aid to developing countries, but so far there has been little progress.

Some critics say Canadian aid should be at least partially untied. They suggest poor countries should be able to buy from other developing countries even if they can't buy from Canada's competitors in the industrialized world.

Kaduma said if Tanzania could use Canadian aid money to get goods and services from another country, it might be able to make the money go farther.

Asked about the government's recent decision to freeze CIDA aid at this year's level in 1979, Kaduma said any receiving country would like more money.

But as a former financial official, "I understand the problems of financial constraint," he said.

WOOD STOVE NOT BOMB, GROUP SAYS

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Wood Energy Institute has denied claims made by Canada's fire commissioner that wood-burning stoves are "potential bombs."

Ann Dutchburn, executive secretary of the institute, said Monday while education is needed for the safe use of the wood stoves, the commissioner's statement was misleading and incorrect.

"To state such an incorrect and misleading statement will lead the buying consumers to ignore a renewable energy, which has been recognized by the federal government as being a partial answer to our energy needs," Ms. Dutchburn said in a letter.

New Paper Planned

MONTREAL (CP) — There may soon be a new English-language morning newspaper, it was announced Monday, as a strike at the Montreal Star — the city's largest English daily — continued for a third month.

Sterling Taylor, editor of the proposed daily and a senior editor at The Star, said the new tabloid-format paper will emphasize sports and entertaiment news.

The proposed paper, whose financial backers were not named, will provide an alternative to the only other English paper now publishing, The Gazette, Taylor said.

Taylor hopes the tabloid, to be called the Montreal Record, will continue after the pressmens' strike at The Star is settled. Details about funding will be announced at a news conference later this week.

Although some staff of the proposed tabloid are Star employees, he said the venture has nothing to do with the Newspaper Guild, which represents laid-off editorial, advertising and circulation staff. During the last Star strike in 1975, Guild members put together a daily tabloid which stopped publication when work resumed at The Star.

Meanwhile, the situation at The Star, where about 60 pressmen, members of the International Printing and Graphic Communications Union, walked out June 14 after negotiations for a new contract broke down, is at a standstill.

Publisher William Goodson said today no resumption of negotiations is in sight. The newspaper has laid off most of its employees.

Firm Pressure Cited by APA

MONTREAL (CP) — Pressure by big business on the federal government is responsible for budget cuts affecting consumer protection groups, Phil Edmonston, president of the Automobile Protection Association Phil Edmonston said Monday

The move, however, was bound to backfire, he added.

"If the federal government thinks it will earn the credit of the businessmen with this measure, they are mistaken," said the founder of the 10-year-old organization which helps car owners deal with complaints.

Edmonston said that the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association in Toronto had complained to the department of consumer and corporate affairs about overzealous consumer groups and this helped bring about the budget cuts.

The APA plans to form a common front with other consumer groups in Quebec to try and regain federal grants. Edmonston said he also asked for an urgent meeting with Quebec Consumer Affairs Minister Lise Payette for Quebec government help.

Since most of the 15 consumer groups in Quebec are also funded by the provincial government, "this means that the provincial government is going to have to carry the entire ball."

"They (the federal government) are playing into the hands of people who are saying federalism isn't a paying prospect, that it doesn't care about the people of Quebec."

Warning On Aircraft Sale

OTTAWA (CP) — The government should take a hard look at options available before rushing into any decision to sell the two aircraft companies it owns to the private sector, says David Golden, president of Telesat Canada.

In a report to Industry Minister Jack Horner released Monday, Golden says the government should sell Canadair Ltd. of Montreal and de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd. of Toronto as soon as it can do so on a fair and equitable basis, but this may not be the right time.

The report, requested last year by former Industry Minister Jean Chretien, advises the government to defer making a decision at this time.

The federal government bought the two aircraft companies in the mid-1970s with the stated intention of returning them to the private sector under majority Canadian ownership at the earliest possible opportunity.

It paid $38 million to acquire de Havilland from the Hawker Siddeley Group of Britain in 1974, saying this was the government's first step in establishing a new industrial policy for the aerospace industry.

Two years later it paid another $38 million to buy Canadair from General Dynamics of St. Louis Mo.

Since then millions of tax dollars have been chanelled into the two companies under a wide range of assistance programs. Between them, the two government-owned companies represent two-thirds of Canada's airframe manufacturing capacity.

Golden was asked to present the government a personal assessment of the range of options available in connection with public ownership of the two companies.

Maple Syrup Shortage Attacked

QUEBEC (CP) — There is a world shortage of maple syrup, Agriculture Minister Jean Garon said Monday and Quebec plans to quadruple its production to meet the demand.

Garon announced a program whereby the government will pay subsidies for installation of plastic tubes to collect maple sap using the Sysvac system to pump the sap out of trees.

BAN ON TESTIMONY

OTTAWA (CP) — A ban on publication of testimony was imposed Monday in the preliminary hearing of two men charged this spring after an alleged electronic eavesdropping device was found in the office of MP Elmer MacKay.

Charged with fraud, public mischief and possession of an illegal listening device are William Sandiford, 34, and Daniel McGarry, 45, both of Toronto.

The two men operated a security firm, Uniserv Ltd., which had been hired by MacKay (PC—Central Nova) to sweep his office for eavesdropping devices.

The firm said it found a "bug" beneath a chair in MacKay's office last October. A second device, later identified and dismissed as a harmless top-hat diode by Bell Canada, was found, the firm said, in the office of Conservative Leader Joe Clark.

Nordair Bid Wasteful, CAC Says

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government should not permit Air Canada to spend $25 million acquiring Nordair Ltd., if it is truly concerned about restraint in spending, the Consumers' Association of Canada (CAC) said Monday.

In a petition to cabinet, the consumer group claimed the proposed takeover of the Montreal-based regional airline by the government-owned national carrier is not in the public interest.

The CAC petition asks cabinet to overule a Canadian transport commission decision in July to permit the acquisition, opponents of which include Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan and the Quebec government.

"The outlay of $25 million of essential public funds ada and the desire of Nordair's controlling shareholders to realize on their investments by a sale to Air Canada rather than to a competing private sector buyer."

Air Canada has defended the proposed takeover by saying Nordair would be run as an independent subsidiary, and not be swallowed by the parent company.

receives annual grants from the federal government.

The petition also said the acquisition, if completed, would result in undue concentration of the aviation industry in government-controlled hands. Competition would suffer.

"In fact, there appears to be no rationale for the acquisition whatsoever except the aggrandizement of Air Canada without clear policy reasons at a time of restraint in public spending provides cause for disallowing the takeover," the petition said.

The federal government embarked this month on a massive austerity program, slashing the budgets of most departments. The consumers association expects to suffer from these cuts because it

ANIMAL USE PROTEST

OTTAWA (CP) — Demonstrators marched in the rain Monday in front of a hotel protesting the use of animals in scientific research.

Carrying umbrellas and plastic-covered placards, 15 protestors marched outside the hotel for about half an hour, while inside, about 200 scientists, researchers and laboratory technicians were gathered for the annual convention of the Canadian Association for Laboratory Animal Science (CALAS).

Demonstration organizer Harriet Schleifer said her Montreal-based group, the Animal Liberation Collective, chose to demonstrate at the convention because CALAS represented laboratory animal scientists.

In a heated argument with protesters, Dr. Harry Rowsell, executive director of the Canadian Council of Animal Care, said experiments are taking place as a result of pressure from consumers.

"You've got consumer groups who say that drugs have to be safe and efficacious," Rowsell said. "It's people like you, consumers, who say these products must be tested.

Smith Highlights Canadian Effort

WEST BERLIN (CP) — For Canadian swimmers, the third world aquatic championships which would up Monday were the best of times and the worst of times.

The best of times for Graham Smith of Edmonton, who won Canada's only gold medal in swimming and set a world record in the process.

The worst of times for other veterans such as Graham's sister, Becky, who had disappointing times in the women's medley events and may have to ponder her future in swimming.

Canada won six medals — one gold, one silver and four bronze — in swimming, which equalled the combined total from the previous two world championships. Overall in the four sports, the medal count was nine, including two gold and a bronze in synchronized swimming.

There were no Canadian medals in Monday's final swimming program.

Barbara Krause won the women's 100-metre freestyle in 55.68 seconds, to salvage a single gold medal for the East Germans, who were the big losers of the championships.

Tracy Wickham of Australia won her second gold medal winning the women's 800-metre freestyle in 8:24.94.

Dave McCagg of the United States won the men's 100-metre freestyle in 50.24, while the team of McCagg, Nick Nfeuid, Joe Bottom and Bob Jackson won the men's 4x100-metre medley relay in 3:44.63, to give the U.S. 20 gold medals in swimming, and 23 overall.

Canada's relay team of Wade Flemons of West Vancouver, Graham Wmith of Edmonton, Dan Thompson of Toronto and Gary MacDonald of Mission City, B.C., finished fourth in 3:50.10.

None of the races produced a world record, probably because the swimmers couldn't thaw out. The temperature in the open-air olympic pool was 12 degrees. And with strong winds thrown in, it felt more like fall football weather.

In all, 13 world records were set during the 10-day competition, including two by Tracy Caulkins of the U.S., who also tied another and had a hand in two relay records.

Caulkins, 15, won five gold medals and emerged as the new queen of women's swimming.

The U.S. is in a class by itself. East Germany, with only one gold, faces a rebuilding job and Canada is neither gaining or losing on everyone else.

There was at least one Canadian in most finals, and often two. But all too often, they never finished near the leaders.

Ten Canadian records were set this month, split equally between the Commonwealth Games and the championships. But there were 12 world records besides Smith's, meaning that Canada is barely keeping up with the leaders.

The closest thing to a surprise was the fine effort by 17-year-old Peter Szmidt of Pointe Claire, Que., who set Canadian records in the 200 and 400 freestyles, to erase memories of his bad showing at the Commonwealth Games.

Veterans Cheryl Gibson of Edmonton and Wendy Quirk of Pointe Claire, with two bronze medals each, proved they still have a lot of excellent swims in them.

Shamrocks and Petes Are Old Cup Enemies

bill walker

Let's see now—it was 1957 and the Shamrocks were in the Mann Cup final. They had been there twice before, losing one and winning one against Peterborough. That's the same place they visit this time around. The one they lost had been in Peterborough, the victory was here. That came in 1955, two years earlier.

Now it was supposed to be Peterborough again. But the Petes didn't like the dates and said they wouldn't come. The Canadian Lacrosse Association said: Too bad! We'll send the second best, Long Branch. They did. Long Branch was no problem. The Shamrocks won easily.

And why not? The Island was the power and glory in lacrosse then. In between the Rocks' two victories in the cup final, Nanaimo had been to the well and dipped deeply. The Timbermen were the best in the land in that in-between year. They won it all in '56.

Oh, yes, 1957. Whitey Severson, the alderman fellow, was the Shamrock coach. He doubled as player and wasn't bad. Matter of fact he was often excellent. He ended up in the Hall-of-Fame. Peewee Bradshaw, an eastern import, was the spark of the club. Peewee won the Maitland Trophy in 1957. That's for value to the team, service to minor lacrosse and sportsmanship. Peewee later was to meet with a tragic death in an automobile accident on the Malahat.

Jack Northup, now the portly one, was also an integral member of that club. Another Hall-of-Famer, Jack was awarded the Mike Kelly medal as the most-valuable performer in the Mann Cup. There had been precedence. Goalkeeper Geordie Johnston, recently elected to the Hall-of-Fame, had been similarly honored as a Shamrock in 1955.

Things were tough then. So was Nanaimo. It took the Shamrocks seven bitter battles to win that series. The Burrards-Shamrocks clashes of the past few years are just about carbon copies of those meetings. Matter of fact, in defeat in 1957, Nanaimo's Arnie Dugan was named the most-valuable playoff performer. He's another who's in the Hall. Dugan, Gogie Stewart and Skip McKay joined the Irish for the Mann Cup party that year.

Others, some of whom are still about town, were: Johnston, of course; Bert Bertoia, Bill Bamford (there was a fellow who could make the odd-man play tick); Allan Gill, Don Sherry, the two Greens, Art and Art; Lew Landess, Freddie Wooster, Tom Druce . . .

So it's another year, and 21 years later. A new breed, and probably just as tough. Certainly just as talented.

Lesser clubs might have given up in some of those games against Coquitlam. The Adanacs were playing it tough and, after all, this was a seven-game series. But the Rocks always had a little in reserve. You don't spot any club a lead in three straight games and then beat them unless you rank as superior.

Bob Salt said it best after the series. "We had them. I thought we should have won the second and third games of the series. But they kept coming back.

"Tonight," he said of Sunday's finale, "we had them again; but they came back, just like a machine."

Sure, a major penalty to Dave Cochrane for a wicked check on Ivan Thompson helped the Rocks. But that's the immaturity of the Adanacs, Salt was explaining. "You don't do those things. But things happen out on the floor you can't explain. And suddenly they're right back in it."

But also, the Shamrocks didn't panic; and five goals is a lot to get back, anywhere, anytime. But it was a team effort.

And there has to be kudos for other than the normal run of game stars too—Dan Green, who has fitted in almost perfectly on the power play . . . Norm Baker, who has had a fine year even if he still has to learn to cool it at times . . . Larry Bell, with his hustle and drive, and to think he might not even get to play in Peterborough. He has a rib problem. . . . Gerry Cadwallader, a fine defender—and, speaking of maturity, that's fast becoming one of his new assets . . . Chris Hall, for a guy who never played the game as a youngster, he's developed as better than all right. And Scott Marshall, the reluctant hero . . .

The question at the start of the season was: Who's he, and where's George (George being George Grover, the Shamrock goalkeeper of some vintage, who had given way, or retired, or whatever, so that Marshall could join the club)?

Well, Marshall has earned his gold star, not only for his steady performance during the season but more especially the manner in which he has filled the breach in the playoffs, first against Burrards and then on the weekend against Adanacs. Yeah, he can be something else.

And it would be fitting if Grover could make the trip east with the club as a reward for all those faithful years. He may have to if Larry Smeltzer's injury to his heel proves serious. Because here's a club man. It may not be generally known, but George was much sought after by Burrards after he "retired" from the Rocks. But where was he Sunday, when wanted? Back in the green and white as a backup man. He was only waiting to be called.

Still, it will be unfortunate if Smeltzer misses the series. This would be to his heart's desire—to go back East and show his old friends how. He is the No. 1 and has had a great season.

Then there's Ron MacNeil, Joe McCrea, Ivan Thompson, Ranjit Dillon, Dennis Somner, Charn Dhillon, Jeevan Dillon, Gord Lyons, Jerry Kustaski, Gerry McKenna, Art Webster, Doug Angrove, Jeff Whitney-Griffiths, Dave Thomson, Jim Gow, Andy Reid, Rick Baker, Bill Marechek and coach Nirmal Dillon.

What do you say, except that it's been a great season so far, guys, and you too, coach.

But now, let's win the big one. Norm Kowalyk would like that.

Mussels Are Key In Pennant Race

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

Walla Walla Padres left town this morning hoping Victoria Mussels will do unto Grays Harbor Loggers as they did unto them.

Mussels put a severe crimp in Walla Walla's hopes for a Northern Division title in the Northwest Baseball League by winning two games Monday night at Royal Athletic Park.

Victoria won 6-4 in the completion of a July 23 game that was suspended by curfew, Roy Moretti retiring the Padres without a run to finish the ninth inning, then beat them in the regularly scheduled game 9-6 by scoring five runs in the eighth.

The victories gave Mussels three of the five decisions in the Walla Walla series.

Victoria and Grays Harbor open a four-game set tonight at Athletic Park starting at 7 with the Loggers holding a two-game lead over Walla Walla in the standings.

A split would virtually clinch the title for Grays Harbor, like Victoria an independent club without a major league affiliation. That would put the Loggers in a best-of-three playoff against the Southern Division winner for the league championship on Labor Day weekend.

Walla Walla, meanwhile, closes its season at Bellingham against the Mariners.

After Moretti shut out Walla Walla in the completion game Monday, Mussels fell behind 6-0 early in the regular contest, Padres counting three in the third and three more in the fourth.

But Victoria came back with three of their own in the bottom of the fourth on three walks, an error by centre fielder Al Richmond, a double by Paul Kirsch and a single by John Bush. All three runs were unearned.

Another Mussel run in the fifth on a walk to Kirsch and Jim Thamann's single set the stage for the eighth-inning heroics.

Three more walks, a two-run double by Mike Carey and a three-run double by Kirsch did the damage and hung the loss on Bill Demo (3-3), second of three Walla Walla pitchers.

Kirsch had two doubles in four trips and three runs-batted-in. Bush collected three singles in five trips and Greg Schultz went two-for-three with an RBI.

Scott Harding weathered the early-inning shelling to go the rout for his fourth win against no losses. He scattered 10 hits, walked four and struck out seven.

There was good news for the Mussels earlier in the day with the announcement that pitcher Dale Mohorcie was selected to the league all-star team. Voting was done by team managers.

In other league games, Bend Timber Hawks moved within a game of first-place Eugene in the Southern Division race by romping to a 10-0 victory over Emeralds in Eugene and Grays Harbor lengthened its Northern Division lead with a 5-3 victory over Bellingham.

Sox Pull Out Another Win

There's a cliche that says a baseball game is never over until the last man is out. Where Boston Red Sox are concerned that last out never seems to come.

"With this club, I always feel we can pull out any game," manager Don Zimmer said Monday night after the Red Sox scored three times in the bottom of the ninth inning and edged Seattle Mariners 10-9 in a slugfest that produced 16 extra-base hits, including Jim Rice's 34th home run of the American League baseball season.

A day earlier, they came from behind with two runs in the bottom of the 12th to beat California Angels 4-3.

The Red Sox maintained their 7½-game lead over New York in the East when the Yankees beat California 4-1. The loss, coupled with Kansas City Royals' 3-2 victory over Chicago White Sox, dropped the Angels 1½ games behind the Royals in the West.

In the National League, Cincinnati Reds had played 705 consecutive home games without being rained out and wanted to extend one of their few positive streaks. They needn't have bothered.

They kept the non-rainout streak going by waiting two hours, 46 minutes for the monsoon to stop. But then they went out, got just two hits off John Candelaria and Ed Whitson and extended a negative streak in doing so: Pittsburgh Pirates won 3-1 to hand the Reds their fifth straight loss and the 15th in 21 games.

The loss left Cincinnati six games behind Los Angeles, which blanked Montreal 4-0 to extend its first-place lead in the National League's West Division.

In other games, Philadelphia Phillies clubbed San Diego Padres 6-1 and Atlanta Braves edged Chicago Cubs 4-3.

Elsewhere, Texas Rangers pounded Toronto Blue Jays 11-3, Milwaukee Brewers clobbered Detroit Tigers 10-1 and Baltimore Orioles downed Oakland A's 7-3.

Trailing 9-7 against Enrique Romo in the ninth, Boston's Fred Lynn hit his fourth single—he also had a triple—moved to second on Gary Hancock's single and scored when first baseman Dan Meyer threw George Scott's sacrifice bunt past third base. Butch Hobson then doubled home the tying and winning runs.

The rally made a winner of Bob Stanley, who has a 12-1 record.

DRIVERS INJURED IN HARNESS PILEUP

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — A seven-horse pileup in the third race Monday night at Monticello Raceway left three harness drivers in hospital and one horse dead.

Only one of the eight entries escaped the pileup just past the first quarter pole when Susan Mac N, a 12-year-old mare in the lead, turned and threw driver Frank Yanoti from his sulky. The animal then ran into an oncoming sulky.

Sent to hospital for checkups were drivers Yanoti, Dan Cappello Jr., and Peter Lutman. Other drivers involved were Stanley Buck, Joe Ricco Jr., Richard Yakin and John Gilmour.

Over Burden Back In Record Shape

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

The story at Sandown Monday was that Over Burden is back.

Over Burden is a four-year old son of Overtrick, is owned by Prince George Mayor H.A. Moffat and was the best of the lot here when the pacers arrived at Sandown Raceway in June.

He won two of his first three races, set the early track record and was generally regarded as "the one to beat".

Unfortunately, that lofty status didn't last long and Over Burden couldn't win for finishing fourth, fifth, fifth and seventh.

Naturally, the trackside feeling was that perhaps Over Burden really didn't belong in the exalted group with which he had been keeping company.

But trainer Jim Mohorich kept at his task and apparently not only found the problem but the cure.

Over Burden started to hit his stride, had a second and a third in a couple of condition-4 races and in his previous out was a handy winner against similar to what he met Monday.

That should have been the indicator.

Because on Monday it was Over Burden taking the lead on the first turn from the No. 7 post and romping home an easy winner in the track record-equalling time of 2:01 3/5. The record was set by Trevor John on July 29. Over Burden, driven by Mohorich, paid $3.70, $2.90 and $2.80.

Now it will be a question of whether Trevor John and Valiant Dauber, who is off campaigning in Calgary, can meet the challenge of the revived Over Burden in the final few features at Sandown.

Greg Tonkin was the only driver to win two races. He was in the sulky for Kahoka's Jeff ($20.40) in the first and Halcyon Harmony ($14) in the third, and he set up a couple of dandy exactors.

Kahoka's Jeff combined with Lennies Choice for a $215.30 payoff in the first but that wasn't the night's biggest reward. Halcyon Harmony and Relhom Duke got together for a $309 bonanza in the third.

Attendance was a modest 1,103 and the mutuel handle $63,472. Racing resumes Wednesday with an eight-race card. Results and entries are on page 19.

Bombers Top Alouettes In Healthy Quarterback

WINNIPEG (CP) — It has not been a good season for Canadian Football League quarterbacks in Montreal and Winnipeg.

The two clubs meet tonight with just one of four regular quarterbacks on the roster. Veteran Ralph Brock of Winnipeg is the healthy one.

The Bombers put Harry Knight on the injury reserve list this weekend because of a shoulder injury. They added Dee Jay Donlin, a recent cut from Minnesota Vikings.

And the Als, second in the Eastern Conference with four wins and two losses, will rely on Larry Lawrence, a brief standout with Calgary Stampeders in 1971.

Montreal lost Sonny Wade to knee surgery and Joe Barnes has dislocated fingers and a twisted knee. Barnes' knee is not damaged, just risky.

That situation should give Winnipeg a slight edge, but even that probably won't be enough to produce a Blue Bomber victory.

With just two wins in six games, the Bombers have fallen into a pattern of piling up impressive offensive statistics without producing many points.

Still, coaches Joe Scanella of Montreal and Ray Jauch of Winnipeg agree the Bombers are a better team than their 2-4 record.

"They have a super offensive team; probably the two best running backs in the league," said Scanella.

Jauch said after his club lost 14-8 to Edmonton last week that the Bombers "have a sincerity now. This team can win, and it's just a matter of time."

The Bomber offence, always erratic, sometimes brilliant but often unsuccessful, will face an angry Montreal defence that was criticized last game despite a 30-26 win over British Columbia.

The defence gave up three touchdowns and 445 yards total offence to the Lions, but Scanella isn't worried.

"I don't know why people are jumping on the defence. They played five fine games before the B.C. game."

The Winnipeg defence, meanwhile, will have one and possibly as many as three new faces. Defensive tackle Elton Brown was cut last week, defensive tackle Billy Howard has a knee injury and linebacker Bill Palmer is ready to come off the injury list.

The Bombers have added former Montreal defensive tackle Marvin Davis to the roster.

The Alouettes have won four games and lost twice, good enough for second place in the Eastern Conference.

Canadians Win

TOKYO (AFP) — Canada's women's field hockey team defeated Seijo University 10-0 Saturday for the second straight win of its Japan tour.

Vancouver Bids For Soccer Bowl

NEW YORK (AP) — Phil Woosnam said Monday that Colorado Caribous' application to move their North American Soccer League franchise to Atlanta has been denied.

A meeting of the NASL team owners and general managers gave the Caribous until Sept. 18 to meet the normal league criteria for a franchise move.

Woosnam also said New Orleans, Milwaukee and Montreal have again applied for expansion franchises.

"There is no expansion planned in the immediate future," said Woosnam. "There is the possibilty of one or two franchise shifts other than the proposed Colorado move, before the 1979 season."

In other matters, the league discussed the 1978 televison package with TVS. The ratings were down, and the explanation was given that not enough stations were cleared by the independent network for the weekly telecasts. The league will make an effort to sign a contract with one of the three major metworks.

Four cities have submitted applications to the NASL as sites for Soccer Bowl 1979: Detroit, New England, Vancouver, and the Meadowlands (New York Cosmos). A decision will be reached by the time of the annual NASL meetings in Chicago in October.

AFTER THAT TEMPTING EUROPEAN OFFER LAFLEUR FEELS CANADIEN 'IRON COLLAR'

QUEBEC (CP) — All-star right winger Guy Lafleur of the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens, in an interview during the weekend with Le Soleil, said that a European group made him a sensational monetary offer to play hockey on the continent.

Lafleur, who has won the National Hockey League's scoring title for the last three seaons, refused to name the country involved, but said during the interview that the offer was proferred while he was in Europe on vacation.

He told the Quebec City newspaper the proposal called for an annual salary of $150,000 for playing a 35-game schedule. It included a fully-staffed villa in an excepional location, an automobile and other benefits.

Lafleur admitted the offer sounded interesting, especially now he has proved himself the top player in the NHL. However, after signing with the Canadiens as their top draft choice for the 1971-72 season, Lafleur developed slowly through his first three seasons. As his play improved so did the contract terms offered by the club.

But last year, because of the vast improvement in his play and value to the club, Lafleur was reported to have signed a 10-year deal, including renegotiable clauses, as his career progressed with the NHL team.

Although no announcement of the deal was made by the club, it was believed Lafleur was guaranteed $1 million for the 10-year period of the contract.

He described the contract as an "iron collar" in this day of huge salaries granted some free agents in hockey. Lafleur said the latter development could provide him with food for thought toward his future.

About Golf Priorities, The Hahns and Things

When it comes to priorities, each to his own.

Members of the Gorge Vale Golf Club have approved a $60,000 expenditure towards course improvements. The motion passed at an extraordinary meeting last week.

The $60,000 is for "extensive course renovations." The main changes will see several sand-traps added to the course.

The renovations actually will cost only $38,000 because, I'm told, the architect's fee is expected to be about $22,000.

(Shucks, I can save them money. For a piddling $5,000, I'll tell them where to put the traps).

I'm surprised, primarily because Gorge Vale is not a bad track as it stands now. In this day and age, $60,000 is not a great sum but I would have thought Gorge Vale members would have placed a greater priority on a new or improved clubhouse.

The clubhouse issue is still being pursued and Gorge Vale members will probably have to cast another vote within six months.

Paul Hahn, Jr., could very well become the next king of golf's trick-shot artists. Extremely personable and, judging from the general reaction to his Sunday appearance at Uplands, gives you great value for your money.

I'll side with other oldtimers who still regard Joe Kirkwood as the best that was. There is bias towards Kirkwood because he could play (and win) tournament golf. When it came to trick shots, he did several that were never mastered or managed by others.

Paul Hahn, Sr., was good. Perhaps more entertaining than Kirkwood. The senior Hahn was all showmanship, as if manufactured in Hollywood. His wit and fast tongue added something extra to his trick-shot performances.

The younger Hahn is much like his father. The greatest similarity is in the hair. Paul, Jr., has the same, disgustingly-thick hair that was dad's feature.

Paul, Jr., also has his father's showmanship, including the usual comical banter and diplomacy. Junior, however, does not seem to be as extroverted as Hahn the elder.

The younger Hahn seems quieter and, perhaps, a shade more friendlier than most of his trick-shot predecessors. He's also one of the most honest, if Sunday's performance is a sample of his regular offerings. If you missed him Sunday, you'll be sure to enjoy him the next time he comes to town.

SHORT CHIPS: Scott Keenleyside, a former assistant at Colwood, came up with a man's hole-in-one the other day. . .He scored his ace on a 304-yard, par-four hole at the Greenacres club in Richmond . . . Scott forgot his own driver and had to borrow one from the club manager . . . It was a graphite job, and you can't blame Scotty for wanting to buy it now . . . Also connecting for aces recently were Tom Mawson, on the seventh at Colwood, and Emil Michaux, on Cedar Hill's sixth . . . Colwood pro Bob Hogarth has hired Dan McClintick as his third assistant.

And speaking of jobs, the big one at Point Grey now goes to Victoria-born Dick Munn . . . As of Sept. 1, he will be "Director of Golf" at the Vancouver club . . . In addition to his duties as head professional, Dick also will inherit greens superintendent's chores . . . Munn will oversee a staff of 37 . . . And a good job will soon be open when Jock McKinnon retires as Capilano professional . . . Jock is the only pro the North Vancouver club has ever had . . . He retires next spring.

Peter Venning defeated Chris Jenkins after four extra holes to capture the junior championship at Victoria Club . . . Third in the 36-hole medal test was Keith Austin . . . Gorge Vale, winning big at home, defeated Port Angeles in their annual home-and-home series . . . The CFAX-Metro Toyota tournament is the big event next weekend, at Cedar Hill.

JO JO SIGNS 'BEST' PACT

BOSTON (AP) — Jo Jo White has signed a three-year contract with Boston Celtics, one the nine-year National Basketball Association veteran calls the best of his career.

Length and terms of the pact were not revealed, but the Boston Herald American said it is for an estimated $825,000 over the three years.

Getting Tough . . . . . . At Cowichan Bay

Anglers Warned

Salmon fishermen who cross over into closed waters in Cowichan Bay face maximum penalties of a year in jail, fines of up to $5,000 and confiscation of their boat and gear, federal fisheries officer Trevor Fields warned Monday.

He said his department plans to crack down on offenders.

Fields, stationed in Duncan, says one charge has already been laid and others may follow if sports anglers continue to cross the closure boundary that went into effect weeks ago.

In order to protect spring salmon schooling at the mouth of the Cowichan River the bay is closed along a line drawn between white triangles on Skinner Point and the Government wharf.

Fields said fisheries officers have been patrolling the boundary line, warning fishing boats when they cross over.

"But frankly I think that's a waste of taxpayers' money. It's not our job to babysit fishermen," said Fields.

He said his department will not keep warning offenders in the future.

"There's not too much point in having a closure if you don't intend to enforce it," he said.

"We're going to enforce that boundary."

The bay was closed when early returns of spring salmon showed that stocks were badly depleted.

The Cowichan was once one of the most salmon-rich rivers in B.C. and is now the target of intensive fisheries enhancement projects.

The closure is in effect indefinitely, but could be lifted after fall rains push spawning springs into the river.

"Will I what?"

Who Will Get Most?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Leon Spinks is being paid $3.75 million for his upcoming championship fight with Muhammad Ali—$500,000 more than the former champ.

But Ali is getting some perks of his own, like 25 first class hotel rooms for more than two weeks and 40 free airline tickets for his friends.

Those details were spelled out in the contracts for the Sept. 15 fight on file with the Louisiana State Athletic Commission and state attorney general's office.

The contracts between the fighters and Top Rank Inc. of New York show that Ali will receive $3.25 million. It had been said that Ali would get less money than the man who beat him in February, but until the contracts were made public, it was not known how much less.

Ali will be able to soothe his ego with 30 first class round trip airline tickets and 10 economy tickets from anywhere in the United States.

And he will get four two-bedroom suites and 21 other hotel rooms for 16 days at sites approved by advisor Herbert Muhammad. He will also get three chauffer driven limousines for the same period and 200 free fight tickets.

However, Top Rank said in the contract that it would not reimburse Ali or Muhammad for liquor expenses, entertainment expenses or the cost of long distance phone calls after they arrive Aug. 31. And it cautioned hotels not to accept such charges either.

ELIMINATE WINTER TIRE CHANGEOVER

Goodyear Tiempo: The All Season Steel Belted Radial.

Now you can buy an all season radial tire that gives you the smooth quiet ride of a summer radial and handles winter like a snow tire. Over 10,000 biting edges give Tiempo traction and pull on snow and ice. . . without studs! How?

Tiempo meets Rubber Manufacturers Association standards as a snow tire yet on dry pavement the unique centre "whisper" rib design suppresses noise for a quiet ride.

Just think, you may never have to go to the expense or trouble of changing over to winter tires again.

Liverpool Bounced

SHEFFIELD, England (Reuter) — Liverpool, European soccer champion for the last two seasons, was knocked out of the English League Cup 1-0 by Second Division Sheffield United in a major upset Monday.

United's new signing from Argentina, Alex Sabella, set up the goal eight minutes from time, sending across a pass that Gary Hamson left-footed home from 15 metres.

Liverpool, beaten by Nottingham Forest in the League Cup final last season, dominated the match and missed a series of chances. Two shots were cleared off the line by defenders and Kenny Dalglish hit a post after 75 minutes.

Four Liverpool players were booked in one first-half incident when they formed a defensive wall for a free-kick, but failed to move back the required 10 yards.

In Scottish League Cup competition, Montrose and East Stirling struggled to a 1-1 draw in a first-leg match.

ANOTHER RECORD

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — Don Vesco, who broke the world land speed record for motorcycles last Friday, set another world motorcycle mark Monday, racing his 21-foot vehicle an average 318.598 miles an hour for a two-way run.

Monday's record compared with the 314.355 m.p.h. he set last week.

Test Cricket Sweep

LONDON (Reuter) — England completed a 3-0 sweep in the cricket test series against New Zealand when it won the third match by seven wickets at Lord's Monday.

Set to get only 118 for victory after New Zealand's second innings had ended for 67 runs, England had a couple of shocks when it lost Geoff Boycott and Clive Radley to successive balls from New Zealand pace man Richard Hadlee with only 14 runs on the board.

But David Gower, who made 46, and Graham Gooch, 42 not out, then joined in a third-wicket stand of 70 runs that steered England to a comfortable win.

Earlier, Ian Botham took two wickets to bring his figures to five for 39 as New Zealand fell to 67 all out from its overnight second innings score of 37 for seven. Bob Willis ended with four wickets for 16 runs, all taken on Saturday.

Scores: New Zealand 339 and 67; England 289 and 118 for three.

Cry over Injuries May Rise Again

By Associated Press

And now the season begins for real .... except for Bob Griese ... and Bert Jones ... and Ken Anderson ... and perhaps David Whitehurst ... and ....

It's not the brand of football the National Football League was hoping for this season, not after last year when 20 quarterbacks were sent reeling to the sidelines for various lengths of time by injuries.

On one murderous Sunday, Fran Tarkenton suffered a broken ankle, Bill Munson and Lynn Dickey each sustained a broken leg, Brian Sipe and Terry Bradshaw received shoulder injuries and James Harris limped off with a sprained ankle.

In the off-season, when the NFL wrestled with the problem of injuries in general; the hue and cry died down. It may well increase once more this week.

Last weekend, the final one of the exhibition season (when players are supposed to be working themselves into shape), another covey of quarterbacks bit the dust—along with the usual number of other players grounded by injuries.

Griese's left knee was torn up when he was tackled after throwing a pass during Miami's 24-20 victory over Tampa Bay. Griese will probably be out half the season. Don Strock, who threw just four passes in 1977, will quarterback the Dolphins.

Jones sustained a partial separation of his right shoulder when he, too, was tackled during Baltimore's 17-3 victory over Detroit. It's not known how long Jones will be sidelined. Bill Troup is the Colts' No. 2 quarterback—but he's also injured, so Mike Kirkland will probably end up with the job.

Anderson of Cincinnati and Whitehurst of Green Bay were injured in the Bengals' 17-14 triumph. Anderson received a broken middle finger on his right hand, an injury that will sideline him at least four weeks and make John Reaves No. 1.

Whitehurst, who became a starter last year in his rookie season when Dickey was flattened, received a mild dislocation of his left shoulder. Dickey still hasn't made it back from his broken leg—and if Whitehurst can't start next Sunday, Neil Graff will likely become No. 1.

In the rest of the weekend's final exhibitions it was Atlanta 10, Washington 7; Philadelphia 14, New York Jets 0; San Francisco 24, Denver 13; San Diego 17, New York Giants 6; St. Louis 12, Kansas City 7; Minnesota 30, Buffalo 27; Dallas 16, Pittsburgh 13; New Orleans 1, Houston 3; Los Angeles 28, Oakland 3, and New England 21, Cleveland 10.

New England's Sunday victory, built on No. 1 quarterback Steve Grogan's touchdown run and No. 2 quarterback Tom Owen's scoring pass, enabled the Patriots to wind up as the only unbeatean team in the exhibition season. On the other end of the spectrum, Buffalo and Chicago wound up as the only winless teams in the pre-season battles.

BRITISH RIDER SIXTH TO DIE THIS SEASON

Sharp's 350cc Yamaha touched a curb, crossed the road and hit a telegraph pole on the notorious Tourist Trophy course, which has been the death site of more than 100 riders.

He was the sixth rider killed this year. Five died at the Tourist Trophy meet in June and the toll now stands at 122 killed since the start of racing there in 1911.

Manitoba Wins Baseball Title

NANAIMO (CP) — Manitoba defeated British Columbia 10-3 in their second meeting Sunday to win the Western Canada senior B baseball championship.

In the first game, the Victoria All-Stars, who represented B.C., rallied from a 9-5 deficit to score five runs in the ninth and win 10-9.

In other games Sunday, Alberta beat Vancouver Mid-Island 4-2, while B.C. defeated Alberta 4-1.

Saturday, B.C. stopped Saskatchewan 12-8, Vancouver Mid-Island beat Saskatchewan 10-3, and Manitoba edged Alberta 4-3.

Kinneard, Baker Win

Nancy Baker topped the novice division with a 6-0 record in the round-robin affair while Jessie Kinneard won a three-way, tie-breaker playoff to capture the champions' division crown.

Kinneard defeated Vee Hewins of Victoria, who had the bye, 15-13 and downed Ada Sylvester of Canadian Pacific 16-14 after each finished round-robin competition with a 5-2 record.

Canada Rolls

Varouj Gurunlian of Montreal led the Canadians with 21 points and Jay Triano of Niagara Falls, Ont., added 15.

Twice as popular

So far in 1978, 12,674 little Chevy Chevettes have been sold compared to 4,225 sold in the same period of time last year.* A 200% increase. Maybe it's because we added so many more new standard features. Or maybe it's because it has so much built-in value. Apparently a lot of people this year have chosen Chevette over other competitive cars in its class.

Now Chevette (except Scooter) gives you a fully equipped car at a lower price than most imported small cars. You get an AM radio, whitewalls, reclining seats, console, sport steering wheel plus over a dozen other style and convenience features at no extra cost. You can buy a 3-door or opt for a 5-door, and either way you get the extra door at no extra charge, 'cause every Chevette's a hatchback. And with Chevette's 1.6 litre engine and 4-speed manual transmission, it delivers a dollar-saving 67 km/gal. combined city and highway driving. Finally, something no import can offer you: General Motors Dealer Network. Over 1,000 dealers stretching coast to coast to provide you with parts availability and quality service.

Buying or leasing? See your Chevrolet dealer today and drive a best seller.

Motorbikes Chewing Up Rangeland, Says Scientist

Motocross and trail bikes have become a rangeland hazard in the Kamloops area, a research scientist said Monday.

Kent Watson of the University of B.C. faculty of forestry told delegates to the fifth Canadian Symposium on Remote Sensing that motorcyclists are chewing up the sidehills and destroying natural grazing grasses.

In some places the damage is greater than caused by livestock and is compounded by the fact that motorbikes spread the seeds of the noxious napweed which comes back in the place of natural grasses, Watson said.

He showed color slides of fan-shaped paths and furrows carved on grassy hillsides of the interior drybelt.

The napweed, a native of Europe which was introduced with alfalfa after the turn of the century, is not good for cattle but it thrives in this country because it has no natural insect pests to control it.

To correct that imbalance, scientists are trying three imported insects as a control measure.

Meanwhile, said Watson, there are few controls on motorbikes and all-terrain vehicles, which are not required to be licensed to operate on Crown lands or private land other than public roads.

There is some support for co-ordinated use of Crown grazing lands to permit both agricultural and recreational uses, and areas have been posted to designate areas set aside for all-terrain vehicles. However, Watson said, it is hard to exercise any control over unlicensed vehicles, whether or not they use designated areas.

Watson's research has pioneered rangeland resource mapping and plant identification in the Kamloops area using satellite information and he is now writing a book on the subject.

He told delegates that the inventory of rangelands in B.C. is almost non-existent and that grassland management would benefit from some kind of classification system. Some of the maps being used today date from 1932 and have not been updated, he said.

The different zones, types of grass, trees, irrigated lands, soil pits, pasture and sagebrush should all be identified.

People involved in rangeland management like the classification system Watson has devised but are not yet ready to pay for it, he said.

Cowichan Fisheries Concern

Federal fisheries officers in Duncan are biting the bullet this week while city construction crews dig a trench across the Cowichan River near the Trans-Canada Highway.

Fisheries officer Trevor Fields said Monday the dredging operation "is just one of those evils we have to put up with."

Fields says a new water main is being run underneath the river, necessitating the removal of a considerable amount of gravel.

He says the operation is creating some silting problems that could damage spawning beds in the area, but so far impacts have been minimal.

Fields says his department is keeping a close eye on the operation and could order a stop if necessary.

He said the possibility of installing filters downstream from the project is also being considered.

"But so far it's not too drastic a problem," said Fields. "Granted, it's in the public eye and it looks messy, but it's not too bad for silt yet."

He said the operation has a Thursday deadline, which should get all of the equipment out of the river well before the first big runs of salmon enter.

Spring salmon are beginning to school at the river mouth in Cowichan Bay but Fields says that so far only a few fish have entered fresh water.

The situation could be complicated, however, if it rained heavily for several days and brought the fish in.

Fields said that usually the river is dry at this time of year — "it's just bad luck we've had a wet August."

Fish and Wildlife branch conservation officer Ken Broadland said his department is concerned about the operation.

Satellite Surveys Of Forests Lauded

By AB KENT
Times Staff

Remote sensing is more efficient and thorough than on-the-ground resource survey methods, but is still not widely used or accepted, a forest researcher told a scientific gathering Monday.

Delegates to the fifth Canadian Symposium on Remote Sensing at Newcombe auditorium heard a description of large-scale photography used an an inexpensive means of identifying forest cover shown in satellite images transmitted from space.

Cam Kirby of the Northern Forest Research Centre in Edmonton said about $350 million a year is spent in reforestation of cutover coniferous woods and unregenerated lands. Such expenditure merits better classification surveys such as the method he described.

The system requires a stable aircraft, accurate radar altimeter, large scale camera and a mini-computer classifier to verify the satellite data. Kirby said a 12-inch lens using color, black and white or infrared film exposed at low altitude would produce enough detail to show seedlings.

Jean Beaubien of the Laurentian Forest Research Centre in Quebec said provincial forestry departments should consider adding computer-oriented techniques coupled with satellite surveillance of the forests.

Between 1972 and 1976, he said, satellite surveillance of forests in the Laurentian plateau had classified trees as to maturity, species, and infestation and recognized burned-over, logged and regenerated areas by means of spectrometry.

Director-general Dr. L.W. Morley of the Canadian Centre for Remote Sensing in Ottawa, who also is president of the Canadian Aeronautics and Space Institute, said B.C. had become the province most advanced in the development and use of remote sensing techniques.

He cited federal and provincial agencies such as the Institute of Ocean Sciences, the Pacific Forest Research Centre, the provincial forestry department and University of B.C. among the pioneering users, and the Vancouver firm of MacDonald Dettwiler Associates Ltd. as a world leader in designing and making electronics for surveillance data processing.

Morely said he was pleased B.C. is setting up a task force to report to its environment minister on the acquisition of new remote sensing information processing facilities to permit continuous monitoring.

"And for the first time in history this is economically possible," he said.

Canada rates next to the U.S. in development of data-handling processes, Morley said, and in the case of the LANDSAT satellite, MacDonald Dettwiler had come up with a $2.1 million system that compares with a ground-breaking system that cost the United States $30 million.

Canada is helping in the upcoming LANDSAT D project slated for 1981 which will have advanced capability for resolving small areas of the earth in a choice of seven color bands to increase the range of objects it will be used to indentify.

The Canadian Centre for Remote Sensing provides satellite information obtained by agreement with the U.S., for government or private purposes. Ultimately, Morley said, CCRS hopes Canada will have its own satellite — SURSAT, for surveillance satellite — a $100 million project to provide a wide range of capabilities including Arctic ice monitoring, oil tanker routing, forest inventory, fisheries control and search and rescue guidance.

Such a Canadian-designed satellite would also have retransmission capacity, enabling earth monitoring equipment such as tide and stream guages to broadcast data to receiving centres via satellite.

Canadian Astronautics, a private firm, has recently been awarded an $80 million contract by the department of supply and services to make a conceptual survey for SURSAT in time for presentation to cabinet in April.

Of prime concern is whether SURSAT will be able to monitor Canada's 200-mile territorial limit. If so, it will replace expensive maritime patrols by air and sea, besides having the additional advantage of being able to report on sea-state, oil spills, shipping and other maritime tasks set up through integrated ocean information centres.

Hotel Workers Vote

VANCOUVER (CP) — A tentative contract settlement was reached Monday in talks between the B.C. Hotels Association and the Hotel Workers Union, a union spokesman said.

Ron Boner said Monday that no details will be released immediately but both sides had agreed to recommend acceptance to their members.

He said two outstanding issues are to be worked out by provincial mediator Ed Sims and both sides will receive written decisions.

The 10,000 workers employed by 300 hotels in B.C. were to vote by mail and results will be known in the next few weeks.

The World Can't Wait For Armchair Reformers

Helen: Canada's own peace woman

Helen Tucker is a world citizen.

That means she's a person concerned about the state of Earth and she accepts responsibility as an inherent member of the world community.

It also means that as vice-president of the World Federalists of Canada and secretary of the World Citizens Assembly she believes that the only way to have peace is to have understanding, and the only way to have that is through communication.

So, she works continuously for international understanding on the world front.

Existing sovereign countries around the world are unable to deal with world problems because they are locked into power blocks, she says.

"Therefore, we have to come to realize some sort of law and order through ourselves."

She is sure this can be done and she is prepared to work towards it.

Mrs. Tucker was in Victoria for the three-day international conference of World Federalists, just concluded at Lester Pearson College of the Pacific.

During the conference she chaired a panel discussin on Action at the International Level.

She also presented a report from the special session on disarmament, sponsored by the United Nations General Assembly, earlier this year.

Among her impressions of that session is the fact that Third World Powers or non-aligned nations, expressed the frustration of the people in general.

Therefore, in her opinion, the goals of World Federalists should be set as people who see themselves responsible for what happens in the world and to the world.

"We can no longer enjoy the relaxed position of armchair reformers," she said.

"As much as any member of parliament or prime minister, we need to look to our own role as world citizens responsible for informed discussions and wise decisions at whatever level we have contacts, good communication and voting power."

In a brief interview Mrs. Tucker told me that World Federalists and the World Citizens Assembly have jointly produced a constitution calling for a Federation of Earth.

This constitution was approved at assemblies of both world groups at Innsbruck, Austria, in 1977.

It calls for the establishment of a democratic federal world government, with adequate powers and means to provide the framework within which supra-national problems could be solved for the good of all.

Hope is that, by 1982, it will be ratified by 25 countries around the world.

"In this connection World Federalists have a five-year plan, commenced in 1977 and ending in 1982," Mrs. Tucker said.

And she believes, during those years, "we must stick to our commitment to federal world government as the political structure whereby we can most effectively bring into being the new world order of peace, justice, freedom and humanity."

If progress is not made in that direction, at the end of this five-year plan, she warns "we'd better prepare for disaster."

The World Citizens Assembly, with which World Federalists is closely aligned, is focussing its present activities in four important areas.

These are to stop the arms race; to meet basic human needs and preserve the environment; to promote education for world community and citizenship and to develop supra-national and global institutions.

It has adopted the town meeting format enabling several groups to hold annual meetings at the same time and place.

For example Mrs. Tucker explained, those meeting at the same time as the Assembly and the Federalists in 1977 were the World Constitution and Parliament Association, Club of Rome, Emergency World Council, World Federal Authority Committee, Association for World Education, Unity of Man and non-governmental organizations accredited to the United Nations.

Through such joint gatherings "ways are being developed for common endeavor and co-operation."

As a world citizen Mrs. Tucker has been promoting all these ideas for mankind over many years.

Why?

Because, as she has said on other occasions and to other columnists and reporters:

"I keep at it because I feel we are making progress toward one of the greatest achievements — the search and research for peace and a new approach to world problems.

"I can't give up!"

Postscript — Would you like to become a member of the World Citizens Assembly?

To recognize your responsibility to the world community without reducing, but rather enhancing your political commitment to your town, city, province or country?

If so, write to Helen Tucker, Director, International Registry of World Citizens, World Citizens Centre, 1524 Douglas Drive, Mississauga, Ont. L5G 2W8.

That address happens to be Mrs. Tucker's own home where she now has "a filing cabinet full of information on people and groups around the world who are going beyond simply voting and are expressing themselves on contemporary issues."

MELVIN IN SUCH A BIG HURRY HE TOOK A FIRE TRUCK HOME

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Melvin Jones was in a hurry.

When doctors kept him waiting too long for treatment of an injured toe cut by a lawn mower, Jones, 26, hobbled out of Allegheny General Hospital Thursday night and started making his slow and painful way home.

Then Jones passed the new police and fire station on the city's North Side. A shiny red fire truck was sitting out front, so he hopped in and drove away.

"He just walked in and took it," said Fire Capt. Sheldon Henry. "We leave the keys in the ignition, because when we have to go, we can't be fishing around for them."

Police found the fire truck an hour later, parked in front of Jones' home. He reportedly became abusive when police tried to arrest him, so rather than risk a confrontation, police said they decided to delay his arrest.

But Jones got impatient again.

Police said he left the home and limped down a nearby street, where he was arrested. He was charged with burglary and returned to the hospital for treatment of his injured foot.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: I'm sitting here in the country jail and I have a problem I need help with. Since I've been here I have fallen in love with a wonderful guy who is locked up on the floor below me. We have been talking through a crack in the floor, and have really gotten to know each other very well. We went to the same high school together, but we never dated.

We did a lot of talking back and forth, and he wants to marry me when we get out. Do you think it's really love, or are we just lonesome? I am nearly 20, and he is the same age. I could sure use some good advice, so please answer soon. — IN LOVE AND IN JAIL

DEAR IN: Being locked up and lonely can distort one's thinking, so don't make any decisions until you are free.

Get to know each other better, and then decide whether you want to marry. "I do" is a two-word sentence — for life!

DEAR ABBY: I am a faithful reader of your column, and I kept hoping to come across a problem similar to mine from one of your readers, but so far no one has dared to declare himself.

I know I need help, but I don't know how to get it without incriminating myself. I am a shoplifter. I have been shoplifting for a long time, but it just dawned on me that I am doing wrong and I must stop myself before I get caught and disgrace myself and my family.

I am a woman in my late 50s. I have a wonderful husband and family, all the money I need, plus charge accounts in all the best stores.

Most of the things I take I neither need nor want.

Please direct me to the right place for help. — CAN'T SIGN

DEAR CAN'T: Your problem is a medically recognized illness. Ask your family physician to recommend a psychiatrist or psychologist. And don't delay treatment out of shame. Your problem is not as uncommon as you might think.

DEAR PET OWNERS: With summer here, please do not take your pet along for the ride and leave him locked in a parked car while you do errands and shopping.

When the temperature is 85 degrees outside, the temperature inside a parked car (even with the windows slightly open) will reach 102 degrees within 10 minutes. And in 30 minutes it will reach 120 degrees!

The normal body temperature of a dog is approximately 102 degrees, and it can withstand approximately 108 degrees for a very short time before suffering irreparable brain damage or death.

So the next time you're tempted to take your dog along for the ride on a hot summer day, if you must leave him locked in a parked car — leave him home!

P.S. My pet consultant says, "NEVER park a car in the sun — even with the windows open — if a pet is inside."

New Techniques In Transplants

My father is a candidate for a kidney transplant. I am trying to collect as much information as possible about transplants. Are they doing much scientific study to be sure the transplant will take and that it won't be rejected by my father?

I know this sounds like a selfish letter, but you can understand how important this information is to me and my family even though it isn't a problem of interest to everyone. — T.D.

Dear Miss D.:

You phrase so gently your request for information. No, there is nothing selfish about your desire to learn more about transplants so that you, your family, and father can be psychologically supported by the knowledge of the newer techniques that are available.

Vast strides have been made in the understanding of why some transplants are successful and others are rejected. Investigation continues all over the world by dedicated scientists who unselfishly pool their information in the hope that a single life will be spared.

Tiny bits of information accrue and then are matched with others to build a superstructure of knowledge. Here in New York City, Dr. Mark A. Hardy and his co-workers in the department of surgery, tranplantation service at the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons and the Albert Einstein College of Medicine devote great energy to the problems of tranplantation. In preliminiary studies on humans, renal (kidney) tranplantations were treated with special types of globulin and immunosuppressive therapy. A conclusion the researchers arrived at shows the hope that lies within the framework of such exacting scientific study. They said, "There was significant decrease in the number of observed acute rejection reactions. No kidneys were lost from rejection and no patients required return to hemodialysis."

That sounds highly technical, and it is. I deliberately allow myself that indulgence because this and other scientific progress can be extended only if monetary grants are available to the thousands of scientists who are willing to dedicate much of their own lives to scientific inquiry.

In laboratories, hospitals, and medical schools such work must be encouraged if the final answer to rejection is to be found. Time and money are powerful forces that can uncover those carefully guarded secrets that can give a human being another chance at a life filled with hope.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH . . . After severe infection or after surgery, patients should indulge themselves with a little extra time for convalescence. Only in this way can long-standing invalidism be reduced to a minimum.

Youth Clinic

Young readers' questions on human relations and sex are answered by a panel of experts: Marion Powell, medical doctor; Graham Cotter, clergyman; and Bruce Vichert, social worker. Send questions to Youth Clinic, The Victoria Times, 2621 Douglas St., Victoria, B.C., V8W 2N4.

Dear Dr. Cotter: I am a 16-year-old guy. I'm very short for my age — just 5 feet. Everytime I try to do something my size always holds me back. I can't get a job because everytime I apply I get laughed at. Even if I'm better qualified for the job I get turned down because I'm too short. One man patted me on the head and told me to come back when I'd grown a foot. I'm just like anyone else — I want a job, I want some independence.

My Dad just says I don't really want a job. My Mom just says to give it time. Every adult just wants to comfort me and then get me out of their hair. When I tell Mom I want to do something she usually approves, but then my Dad steps in and has to show me every step of the way; if I get upset then my Dad does his little routine about how I'm the biggest disappointment of his life.

I can't even talk to my parents about anything anymore because they just don't understand that I can do anything on my own. The only time I enjoy myself now is when I'm with my friends. I can't stand being at home.

ANSWER: Being short is not nearly so big a problem for you as being short-changed by your parents, who should give you more moral support and encouragement. Ordinarily, very short people just have to work harder to prove their ability, like other minority groups; but you have the additional handicap of unfairness at home, especially from your father.

Your friends and your Mom seem to be the best bet, if you can get some advice and help from your Mom without your Dad interfering. You may have to consider leaving home early. Has Guidance at your school been any help? Remember, another part of your problem is that most kids of 16 feel they can't talk to their parents. So "time" is important.

Dear Dr. Powell: My girlfriend and I are both 17 years of age. We have had sex before but without any birth control devices.

As yet she has not become pregnant. We had a good talk and have decided that if I asked her to, she would go on the pill. She doesn't know I am writing but she told me there is a greater chance of cancer. I though it was only if she smoked while on the pill. Is she right? If so, is there a safe way, but without the risk of cancer?

ANSWER: You are fortunate she has not become pregnant if you have been having intercourse without using any birth control. There are contraceptives available at the drugstore and both condoms and contraceptive foam provide good protection against pregnancy.

I think your girlfriend has to be sure she wants to go on the pill not just because you asked her but because she feels it is the best method for her. The pill is an excellent method of birth control and provides the best protection against pregnancy. Despite concerns about the pill it is still the most widely-used method.

There is no demonstrated increased risk of cancer but for older women, particularly if they smoke, there is an increased risk of heart attack.

I would recommend that both of you go to a family doctor and discuss the pill.

Dear Mr. Vichert: I'm 11 with buck teeth but I'm going to get braces soon. All the boys in my class at school and the majority of girls are teasing me about it. At first I though they were just jealous of my good marks but it's gone too far. I can't even go to church without someone calling me a name. I never make anything of it but inside it's just ruining me. What can I do?

ANSWER: I know that you will be relieved when you get your braces and have your teeth fixed. So many people wear braces, it is almost a part of growing up, and when you have your braces I hope that the teasing stops.

It is very cruel of the kids in your class to tease you because you teeth are not the same as theirs. I feel it is an extreme form of cruelty to tease people because they may be physically different in some way.

People fail to stop and think how it must make someone feel to be teased in this way. I feel very badly for you that the teasing is making life difficult fo you. I only hope that you will not let it make you like them, and cause you to be cruel. I know that it may be difficult not to become very angry at your classmates, but somehow you will have to find a way of being better in your feelings than they are.

I cannot suggest a solution that will make your classmates stop teasing you, but I hope that you will find the inner strength to not let it ruin you, and that you will realize that you have abilities that they may be jealous of.

Teasing people, like your classmates tease you, is such a dumb thing to do that I hope your classmates will soon realize that it is smart to care for people and dumb to hurt people.

Dear Dr. Shaw: My boyfriend and I were best of friends for two years before we started to go out with each other, four months ago. Since then, he has changed immensely. He's always talking about getting married and having sex (neither of which I want right now).

I liked him better as a friend. When I tried to tell him my feelings about this, he cried. If this continues, our relationship will soon end, and I really don't want that to happen. We are both sixteen.

ANSWER: Your boyfriend is in great need of security. He wants to feel loved and to be sure that it will last. His talk about marriage and sex indicated his need for affection and for the assurance that he will not be "dropped."

Don't increase his insecurity by arguing or debating with him. Show your interest and real friendship, but don't give him any wrong ideas about what you mean. It is friendship because you like him; not marriage, not sex, not forever.

We all need security and as teens we especially need a safe and dependable spot in a shifting world. He wants you to be that safe spot. That's reasonable, but it is just not for you at this time. He can gradually get the message, especially if you are consistent in your genuine interest in him.

Bio-dex

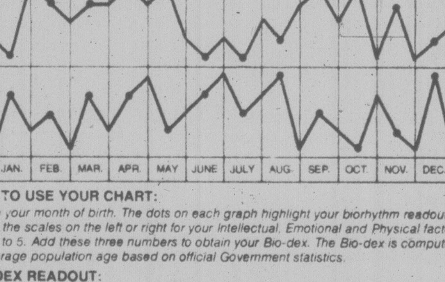
Your computerized biorhythm

© BIODEX PRODUCTIONS 1978

Dist. by Toronto Sun Syndicate



HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle-	Someone is opposing you. Check out your facts, for he may be right.
6-10 Neutral Cycle-	Don't try to get what you want by force. You need to think about things for a while.
11-15 Positive Cycle-	Sometimes the right moment to act is lost by too much debate. Don't hesitate.

It's easy to spot a cynic, He's the one who can't stand cynicism in others. He derides those in authority but does nothing to change the situation. Beware — don't let the cynic sweep you into the same trap. The danger is especially great when your emotional Bio-dex is low. Think positively, and put your decisions into action. Ignore the cynics who are trying to hold you back.

Ney Endorses Plan for Stations

Premier Bennett's offer of financial assistance to Vancouver Island communities prepared to enter agreements with the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway to upgrade stations was welcomed today by Nanaimo Mayor Frank Ney.

He said the stations should be fixed up as part of the general promotion of the Dayliner service between Victoria and Courtenay.

The Nanaimo station is "terribly run down" but Canadian Pacific, owner of the railway company, has been limited in what it could do because the city has declared it a heritage building.

Ney said the station could become a tourist focal point and he expected the city will negotiate improvements with the railway once Bennett's letter is studied.

The premier, in a letter to mayors of all communities along the railway line, said it would be impossible for the government to provide aid to the railway but it could make grants directly to the municipalities.

Before a full promotion program could be effective, he said, stations and waiting rooms would have to be improved.

"If any of the communities along the line are indeed interested in pursuing this proposal I would ask you to work out with the E & N Railway Company the suggested basis upon which we could move," he said.

"This would be one way of bringing the community into the process whereby these station facilities can be upgraded.

Library Course

A free course on how to use a public library will be given at 8 p.m. Wednesdays — Sept. 13, 20 and 27 — at the Greater Victoria Public Library, 794 Yates.

The course, to be conducted by library staff, is given in co-operation with Prime Time and is open to men and women wanting to make effective use of the library.

People wanting to take the course should pre-register as soon as possible by phoning 382-7241.

A general introduction and orientation tour will be given on the first evening. During the next two sessions instruction will be given on the use of the card catalogue and the book, periodical and pamphlet collections.

Training will also be given in the use of encyclopedias, bibliographies, indexes and other reference materials.

Land Bought

The B.C. government has purchased a parcel of 302 acres adjacent to Kikomun Creek provincial park in the East Kootenays for $250,000, Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf said Monday.

Bawlf said the land was bought from the Devonian Foundation of Calgary, which purchased it for $495,000.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

Arthur James Moffit, 1346 Balmoral, was charged with throwing the incendiary device at a vehicle in which his recently-separated wife was a passenger.

Judge Blake Allan ordered Moffit's release on $1,500 recognizance and on condition that Moffit report to and cooperate with the Forensic Psychiatric Clinic.

"I hope counsel is right suggesting he be released," Allan commented after Crown counsel Nicholas Lang consented to Moffit's release on those conditions.

Moffit was remanded until next Thursday for election of his trial method.

Richard Byron Barker, 804 Foul Bay, was charged with theft over $200 and possession of stolen property from Smith's Book and Card Shop, 736 Yates, and with wilful damage.

Barker was remanded to Friday for election.

A 30-year-old construction worker who punched his girlfriend July 22 was handed a 30-day jail term after the judge heard that the two still intended to get married.

Ronald Kenneth Sparling, 340 Island Highway, pleaded guilty Aug. 10 to assaulting causing bodily harm and was remanded until Monday for a pre-sentence report.

Court was told on the earlier occasion that Sparling went to his girlfriend's residence at 855 Ellery at about 10:40 a.m. and an argument errupted over the woman's objection to her children being taken out by Sparling because he had been drinking.

Allan was informed Sparling punched her in the face three times, fracturing her cheekbone. The injury required surgery.

"This is a brutal assault," said Allan, who also noted a previous conviction for an assault and one for robbery with violence.

Defence lawyer Robert Metzger said the couple were separated at this time but still intended to get married. Metzger had told the court previously both parties had been attending Alcoholics Anonymous together.

Allan also placed Sparling on 18 months probation, ordered him to attend the Drug and Alcoholic Rehabilitation Society for counselling once a week, and said a recommendation for work release would be made.

A 35-year-old man received fines totalling $1,300 for two counts of impaired driving and one count of refusing a breath test demand.

John Alexander Boyd, who attended court Friday with his wife and two children and was ordered detained in custody over the weekend, was fined $500 on each of the two impaired driving convictions and a further $300 for refusing the demand made by Sooke RCMP.

Boyd, of 1543 Morley, was involed in a single-car mishap June 4 on Whiffin Spit Road and made three unsatisfactory attempts at a breath test later. Two days later, court was informed, Boyd was involved in another accident, this one at Wharf and Fort, and readings of .08 and .10 were obtained by Victoria city police.

Boyd had four previous convictions for drinking driving offences between 1969 and 1972.

"You have a very bad driving record," Allan said. "It's a shocking record. You're a very dangerous driver."

Allan said it was difficult to justify not sending Boyd to jail but said that his family and an employer's good recommendation were in Boyd's favor.

Boyd was also placed on two years' probation, ordered to report to DARS for counselling at least once a week, and prohibited from consuming or possesing any liquor during the probation period.

$24,500 Granted for Testing Water Weed Control Machine

KELOWNA (CP) — A $24,500 research contract to fund tests of an amphibious water weed control machine was announced Monday by federal Environment Minister Len Marchand.

The money will enable Gordon Jennens, a retired marine engineer, to test his aquatic weed harvester in the Okanagan Lake area which is threatened by Eurasian milfoil weed.

He said the contract brings to $980,000 the total of federal spending on water weed control research this year.

Saanich Town Centre Office Project Okayed

A land-use contract governing construction of the first new development in the proposed Saanich town centre was approved by council Monday night.

There was no public opposition to the two-storey, 21,000-square-foot office building at 856-858 Seymour which, council was told, will be coordinated with the municipality's concept of a civic core in the area between Seymour and Vernon.

However, Ald. Ian Cass repeated an earlier request for the preparation of a zoning plan covering the Seymour-Vernon area, before council considers any further development proposals there.

Council approved his motion to that effect.

In other public hearing matters, council cleared the way for applicant Frank Wille to operate a Chrysler dealership, by rezoning a 1.6-acre site on Douglas between Dupplin and Kelvin.

But a decision on a planned tent crusade on the Royal Oak Inn's property was tabled until a special council meeting Wednesday.

Initial legal advice submitted Monday night indicated that the "air cathedral" envisaged by the Church of the Way for its planned crusade Sept. 8-24 would not meet the zoning requirements.

Donald Censures Minister's Stance

VANCOUVER (CP) — Senior Crown prosecutor Bruce Donald has criticized Consumer Affairs Minister Rafe Mair for comments he made about action taken against a Japanese film last week.

Donald, in a letter to Attorney-General Garde Gardom Monday, said he sanctioned the threat by prosecutor Richard Israels to take legal action against the Varsity Theatre and Odeon Theatres if the film In the Realm of the Senses was shown a second time. He also stated that Gardom, in a meeting with him last week, approved the action.

Mair said that Israels' action was reprehensible and that he intimidated the theatre by threatening obscenity charges.

However, Donald said the confusion arises over the understanding of the role of the British Columbia film director, who views and classifies films.

The director's role is simply to inform the public and it is up to the attorney-general's ministry to take legal action, he said.

The letter asks Gardom to speak with Mair about the matter.

The film, shown here once as part of an international film festival, deals with sex and mutilation.

Three Hurt

Three people were treated and released at Saanich Peninsula Hospital following a two-car collision Monday afternoon at McTavish and Cresswell in North Saanich.

Sidney RCMP said Margaret Timmons, 51, her 12-year-old son Colin, of 170 Island Highway and Penny Lynn Shelestynski, 19, of 1360 Hillside, received minor injuries.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

In today's deal, one of the defenders made an error in his defense, therefore enabling South to fulfill a contract that he otherwise might not have made. It is your job to bring the defensive error to light.

Neither side vulnerable.
South deals.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ◇.

Dummy's queen was put up on West's opening diamond lead, East covered with the king, and South captured the trick with his ace. The board was then entered (for the first and last time) via the spade ace, after which the deuce of trumps was led. When East followed suit with the ten-spot, South put up the king.

West won the trick with his ace and cashed the high jack of diamonds. He next led another diamond, which South ruffed. The queen of trumps was led. When East followed suit with the ten-spot, South put up the king.

West won the trick with his ace and cashed the high jack of diamonds. He next led another diamond, which South ruffed. The queen of trumps was laid down next, felling East's jack. South's nine of trumps now picked up West's remaining trump. South then conceded a club trick and claimed his contract. What was the defensive error?

When South led dummy's singleton trump and put up his king, West should have allowed the king to win. Surely South had the queen of trumps (and maybe the jack) for his direct leap to game over North's one-spade response. Thus, nothing could be lost by allowing South's king to win — West's ace would always be able to take a trick later on.

Suppose South had been permitted to win the initial lead with his king. What would South have played next? What would you have played?

With the king winning, South would have had this problem: was East's original trump holding the doubleton J-10, or was it the doubleton A-10? If it was the former, then the winning play would be to next play the queen. If the latter, then a low trump would be the winning play, since East would be compelled to take the trick with his ace. South's queen would subsequently pick up West's (hypothetical) now-singleton jack.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Wednesday, August 30
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You can make some marvelous, new contacts. Create, originate, shake off doldrums. Imprint your own style. Highlight independence. Take a chance on your own capabilities, ideas. Leo figues prominently. Yes, love is very much in picture.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Have basic material available. Collect needed data. Check sources. You may be quizzed. You'll have answers if you give full play to intuitive intellect. Means don't permit tension to block flow of thought.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Key is to adapt, to be versatile, flexible, to express ideas in modern dress. Humor is an ally. Avoid heavy-handed, high-blown methods, explanations. Friendly call or message now brings desired results.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Past efforts pay dividends. You get credit long due. There is reason to celebrate. Cash flow improves. Aquarian figures prominently—and so does the number 4. If thorough, your find what was "missing."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accept challenge. Put ideas, feelings on the line. Take independent course. Cycle is such that pieces fall into place. Your decisions bear fruit. You gain allies. Member of opposite sex is attracted and you'll know it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Family conference could be on agenda. Diplomacy is a necessity. Give a little and you could receive much. Taurus, Libra persons figure prominently. You'll get information which resolves financial problem.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emotions dominate. Give logic some room. See places, people as they are, not merely as you wish they might be. Avoid deceiving yourself. Define terms. Friend could be sincere but misinformed. Do your own research.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): This could be your power play day. Know it, take aim at goal, strive to fulfill responsibility—and be sure you are compensated for time, efforts. Member of opposite sex both loves and is envious of you. It is a dilemma—you can resolve it!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Universality, the circle of completion, spirituality and love impinge on your consciousness. Yes, you are in a whirl of metaphysics, which means ordinary methods won't suffice. Extend yourself. You emit an aura, a glow which others will respond to—and you'll benefit.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You gain rare insights—special relationship and survival principle are involved. Scorpio figures prominently—and so does the number 8. Money commitment is recorded. Partner or mate is on your side, despite emotional fireworks.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take conservative course. Avoid leading with your chin. Lunar cycle is such that you do best now by listening, observing, reviewing legal rights and permissions. Another Aquarian is in picture. File away bits of imformation. You'll soon have use for them?

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Go back, apply finishing touches to project. A relationship can be "mended." Aries is in picture. Money dispute will be amicably settled. Don't burn bridges. Keep ultimate goal in focus. Check with individual who "knows about" nutrition.

IF AUGUST 30 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have fine sense of humor and a possible weight problem. Gemini, Sagittarius persons could play important roles in your life. You have opportunity for new starts, fresh contacts—and love in October. You are on the verge of a more creative, productive, happier life. You have opportunity for new starts, fresh contacts—and love—in October. You are on the verge of a more creative, productive, happier life. You are critical, analytical, capable of piecing together bits of imformation and coming up with complete story.

A Broken Heart Killed Boyer

LOS ANGELES — Charles Boyer, the romantic French lover of movies of the 1930s and 1940s, kept watch for five months at the deathbed of his wife of 44 years, then committed suicide two days after she died.

"If ever a man died of a broken heart, it was Charles," Mrs. Marjorie Everett, a close friend of the Boyers, said Monday.

It was at her home in Scottsdale, Ariz., that Boyer was found dead Saturday morning.

She said Boyer had kept from his wife, Patricia, 68, a former British actress, the knowledge that she was dying of an incurable cancer, and when she died Thursday, he took his own life.

They were married in 1934, the only marriage for each.

"I have never seen such a devoted couple," said Mrs. Everett. "He was totally devastated."

Although it was thought at first that Boyer suffered a heart attack, the medical examiner's office in Phoenix Monday classed the death a suicide by overdose of barbiturates.

"There was an extremely high level," of barbiturates in his blood, said assistant county medical examiner Eloy Ysasi — "three times the lethal amount."

Boyer was buried Monday — on what would have been his 79th birthday — at Holy Cross Cemetery in Inglewood, Calif., beside the freshly dug grave of his wife and an older tombstone reading "our beloved son," the grave of their only child, Michael. He shot himself to death in 1965 at the age of 22.

VANCOUVER POSTING FOR RUTTER

VANCOUVER — Frank Rutter, London correspondent of the Victoria Times, has been appointed editorial pages editor of the Vancouver Sun, effective in mid-September.

He succeeds Dave Ablett, 37, who resigned July 1.

Rutter joined the Sun in 1964 as a reporter after working for the Winnipeg Tribune and the Victoria Times.

In 1969 he was awarded a Professional Journalism Fellowship at Stanford University in California.

He has served in the London posting since May, 1977.

A $54M Stampede

PHILADELPHIA — A rumor that an elderly woman had $54 million in cash stashed in her tiny North Philadelphia house drew a crowd of 300 persons that milled about, ignoring requests to leave, police said.

There have been 12 attempts to break into the home since rumors of the cash began circulating, police said.

Meanwhile, the woman moved out and police have been guarding the house around the clock.

The rumor first began circulating last week, police said. At first, the money was said to amount to $35,000, but that grew to $45 million by Monday afternoon and reached $54 million by nightfall.

After two burglary attempts, police sent one officer to guard the home. The number was increased to four officers Saturday, and by Monday night 12 officers were on duty trying to maintain order in the crowd. Another 35 officers were on a bus parked a few blocks away, officials said.

"She's just a little old recluse," said one officer who had been in the house."

Constables Corrected

LONDON — At least 14 paintings and sketches attributed to the English painter John Constable have been found to be the work of his son Lionel, also a painter, The Daily Telegraph reported today.

Additional paintings, sketches and drawings attributed to Constable in some major collections in Britain, the United States and Germany are the work of other members of his family, the newspaper said.

Leslie Parris, deputy keeper of London's Tate Gallery, and art historian Ian Fleming-Williams made the findings in what the newspaper described as as "a remarkable piece of art detective work."

The findings are to published next month in the Burlington magazine and force the reattribution of some works in the Tate Gallery, the Paul Mellon collection at Yale University, the Philadelphia Museum of Art, Berlin Staatliche Museum, Munich Kunsthaus and Ashmolean Museum at Oxford University.

GONGS STILL RINGING

EDMONTON — The Second World War has been over for 33 years, but for Alberta Solicitor-General Roy Farran, the medals are still trickling in.

Farran said Monday he recently received a medal in the mail from the Greek government.

An official of the Greek embassy in Ottawa said the medal was being given to all Canadians who served in Greece during the war.

He said the medals are being awarded at this late date because Greece has had trouble locating the names and addresses of foreigners who fought in Greece.

Farran's list of decorations include the Distinguished Service Order, the Military Cross, the Legion of Merit and the Croix de Guerre.

Motherhood?. . .Bah!

PALO ALTO — Bob Peters, former Stanford All-American defensive end, former marine, former Palo Alto Jaycee Man of the Year, says he is a beaten man.

He signed a 70-day "motherhood contract" with his wife but couldn't hack it. He says it's an impossible task for any human being.

Since June 10 his wife, Pat, went off each day to work as a school secretary, Peters took care of the house and their four children, aged 4 to 16, under an agreement that expired today.

"I really didn't realize it was so hard," said Peters who bench presses 400 pounds and coaches a high school's football and wrestling teams.

BIKINIANS LOATH TO LEAVE ATOLL

ABOARD THE M.S. MICROCHIEF (UPI) — Families on the radioactive atoll of Bikini have refused to allow their personal effects to be loaded on a cargo ship for evacuation to a safer island.

The captain of the cargo ship M.S. Marshall Islands, Aikjai Lapauch, sent a radio message to the M.S. Microchief from Bikini today saying the islanders were insisting on waiting for the arrival of Trust Territories High Commissioner Adrian Winkel before continuing with the loading.

The Microchief is among a fleet of U.S. Trust Territory ships headed for Bikini to evacuate about 140 islanders.

They were ordered off the island after recent tests showed that Bikini, a site for U.S. nuclear weapons tests from 1946-58, is still too radioactive for habitation.

High Commissioner Winkel, aboard one of the Trust Territory ships, was carrying a "memorandum of understanding" under which he said the United States accepts responsibility for the damages done to Bikini in the atomic tests.

But Bikinian Henchi Balos, who was aboard the Microchief as an observer, said he was "so upset" over past broken promises to the islanders that he was considering a "show of resistance" when it comes time to leave the island.

The first evacuation came in 1946 when the United States decided to use Bikini, the main island in a remote atoll that forms part of the U.S. Trust Territory in the Marshall Islands, for the first peacetime atomic weapons tests.

A total of 23 nuclear tests were made on the island before they were halted in 1958.

The islanders were allowed to return in 1968 after massive radiation cleanup efforts were undertaken, but a new survey last spring showed dangerous levels of radiation remained.

Before the testing started in 1946, the islanders were moved to several temporary island resettlement areas, finally stopping at Kili, where many Bikinians still live, before they were permitted to return to their home.

The vessels were scheduled to arrive at Bikini Wednesday, pick up the islanders and arrive at Kili on Saturday. They were to stop at Kwajalein, a major U.S. installation for missile testing, en route to pick up supplies.

Chapel in Antarctic Levelled to Check Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chapel building at the main U.S. station in Antarctica had to be plowed over by firefighters to check a blaze that threatened other structures and communication cables.

The National Science Foundation, which manages all U.S. activities on Antarctica, said Monday that the Chapel of the Snows at McMurdo Station was destroyed Aug. 22 because of danger to the rest of the base.

Foundation spokesman Jack Renirie said radio reports from the station show the blaze apparently started in the structure's heater room.

U.S. Navy firefighters were unable to contain the fire which spread rapidly between interior and exterior walls of the chapel. They used up all the dry chemical extinguishing material at the scene and, because sparks were spreading through the air, used bulldozers to level the structure.

"Fire is always a major problem in Antarctica and it is probably the greatest danger," Renirie said. "The atmosphere is so dry that everything gets tinder-dry and can go up easily."

Antarctic fires must be fought with chemicals because there is little liquid water available and low temperatures would freeze it before it can extinguish a blaze.

FBI Enters Fish Row In Wash.

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The FBI is investigating possible violation of Indian civil rights stemming from a clash between non-Indian fishermen and Indian purse-seiners off Point Roberts over the weekend.

"Our jurisdiction is possible civil rights violation," Ray Mathis, FBI public information officer in Seattle, said Monday. "We are looking into it at the request of the U.S. attorney and we will turn our findings over to him."

Tension over Indian fishing rights erupted into pushing, shoving and shouting between Indian and non-Indians Sunday morning.

"There was some ramming and shoving of boats," a Coast Guard spokesman said. "Several Indian vessels were damaged. Obviously there was some reckless operation of vessels."

. . . and another good thing about shopping at home is convenience

If it doesn't fit, it's the wrong color, or you get two of them as gifts—What do you do? Drive all over creation for a refund or an exchange?

Not if you've shopped right here in Victoria.

Here, you are doing business with retailers who depend on you as a customer and are eager for repeat business from you.

The total value of any new purchase is measured in more than just the listed price.

You must also be sure that should you need further information or should you have some problem, that the salesman or businessman is available for fast action—whether for warranty work or even a friendly refund.

And the most convenient thing about shopping at home is that you can check out information on products in the comfort of your own home — Through the pages of your two Victoria Daily Newspapers.

The advertisements, inserted by businesses, large and small, keep you informed of the latest market prices, the opening of new stores, special offers, credit terms, hours of operation, parking facilities etcetera.

The progressive Victoria retailers who advertise their goods and services in your daily newspaper not only offer competitive prices and good selection but also back up their sales with on-the-spot availability should you need more information, parts or servicing, or—dare we say it, should you have any complaints to make.

It's so easy especially with the help of Victoria's Two Daily Newspapers

$1M Buys S.S. America

NEW YORK (AP) — The Greek shipping line that sold the S.S. America for $5 million four months ago bid slightly more than $1 million at a court-ordered auction Monday and reacquired the once-proud cruise ship.

Chandris Cruise Lines of Piraeus, Greece, repossessed the ship for $1,010,000.

The firm's president, Antony Chandris, said his company will sail the vessel back to Greece probably by the end of this week.

Chandris, who came from Athens for the sale, said his company will spend $2 million to refurbish the ship, rename it the S.S. Australis, and use it as a luxury liner beginning next April for cruises in the Mediterranean.

Auctioneer Bill Mollard began the proceedings, held in the ship's smoking room, by reading conditions of the sale. He fixed the opening of bidding at $1.2 million, but there were no takers.

Bidding finally began at $500,000 and rose to the $1,010,000 bid by Chandris.

Mollard tried vainly for two minutes to get a better bid before announcing, "Sold!" and pounding his gavel on the smoking room table "placed in the spot where Churchill and Roosevelt met during the Second World War," the ship's captain said.

The red, white and blue liner, once used to transport troops in the war, was bought by Venture Cruise Line last April from Chandris.

The America's maiden voyage for Venture was the June 30 Cruise to Nowhere, a three-day sail to the Atlantic and back. About 200 of the 900 passengers on board did not have rooms, toilets did not work, cockroaches were reported all over the ship, and meals were served late, if at all.

Within 12 hours, the ship returned to New York harbor to let 250 angry passengers off. And Venture was soon hit with other problems.

The crew claimed it had not been paid, and the vessel was seized by U.S. marshals after the Nowhere cruise and another to Halifax.

Mexican Women Protest Alleged Political Jailings

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Eighty women who came from the mountains of Guerrero state to Mexico City began a hunger strike Monday at the Metropolitan Cathedral, demanding that President Jose Lopez Portillo grant amnesty to alleged political prisoners.

"Soldiers came four years ago and took my two sons, my two brothers and two nephews," said Polita Icturiu, 63, who lives in the community of San Andres de la Cruz in the Pacific coast state of Guerrero, not far from the Acapulco.

"We want to find them. My mother is very old and she spends every day crying."

One of the women holding hand-painted signs listing their demands was Margarita Cabanas, who told The Associated Press in an interview four years ago her husband and 11-month-old baby had been taken.

"A few days after that interview, they returned the baby girl but Miguel has only sent one letter in which he says he is a prisoner in a military camp," she said Monday. "But I haven't been able to see him."

Women across Mexico have formed an alliance with 50 union, student and intellectual groups that are pressing Lopez Portillo to grant amnesty to the alleged political prisoners.

In a paid advertisement in Mexico City newspapers, the National Committee in Defence of Jailed, Persecuted and Missing Political Exiles said its representatives were turned away from the president's palace. It said it wanted to give the president a petition.

Committee leader Rosario Ibarra de Piedra said the hunger strike is intended to make the government provide information "on our children and husbands. If we cannot get them back at least (we would like to) know where they were buried so we can live in peace and not continue witb this uncertainty of where they are and how they are."

The women claim their sons or husbands have disappeared or are in prison and say they will not eat until the president receives them to discuss the situation.

The group claims there are 253 political prisoners in Mexican jails, 52 persons are in exile and 600 are missing.

Syphilis On Rise In U.S.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — After decreasing steadily for more than two years, reported syphilis cases have increased significantly in the first half of 1978 in six areas of the United States, the Centre for Disease Control (CDC) reported.

The number of cases increased across the country by one per cent in the six-month period, primarily due to the increase in those six years the CDC said.

Increases of 90 or more cases during the period were reported in Georgia (excluding Atlanta), 106; Atlanta, 92; Chicago, 266; Texas, 240; New York City, 216; Los Angeles, 168, and Mississippi, 122.

Hua Aims More Abuse In Kremlin's Direction

PULA, Yugoslavia (Reuter) — Chinese leader Hua Kuo-feng, at the end of a nine-day visit to Yugoslavia and talks with President Tito, delivered another blast Monday night against the Soviet Union.

In a speech at a dinner in his honor on Tito's island retreat of Brioni, Hua again called for struggle against "imperialism, colonialism, hegomonism and all other forms of domination."

By hegemonism, China means specifically Soviet attempts to dominate other countries, and Hua's use of the term during his trip to Romania and Yugoslavia already has drawn a furious reaction from the Kremlin.

In other remarks apparently addressed to Moscow, Hua called for respect of the principles of sovereignty and stressed China's wish that big and small countries be equal.

Earlier Monday, the Chinese and Yugoslav leaders ended their talks by declaring that the visit to Yugoslavia by Hua — once denounced by Peking for betraying communism — was a turning point in the two countries' relations.

BUSNAPPER'S PAROLE DENIED

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — The only convicted kidnapper eligible for parole in the Chowchilla kidnapping case has been declared "unsuitable" for release.

After a two-hour hearing Monday of the Community Release Board, officials announced the finding concerning Richard Schoenfeld, currently in San Quentin state prison for his role in the 1976 kidnapping of 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver.

Gary Macomber, a state parole board spokesman, said the board denied the 23-year-old man's bid for freedom on grounds that six months was "insufficient time for an in-depth evaluation of his suitability for release." He said Schoenfeld will be eligible for another parole review in a year.

Under a youthful-offender's law in effect at the time of the abduction, Schoenfeld was eligible for parole consideration after six months behind bars.

The other convicted kidnappers, Schoenfeld's brother James, 28, and Fred Woods, 26, were sentenced to life in prison without the possibility of parole.

On July 15, 1976, driver Ed Ray was forced to halt a bus carrying 26 children near the San Joaquin Valley farming community of Chowchilla. The captives were put in vans and driven to a quarry at Livermore where there were placed in a buried van.

About 28 hours later, Ray and the children dug their way out of the makeshift prison.

By July 29, the Schoenfelds and Woods were in custody. Less than a year later, they pleaded guilty to 27 charges of kidnap.

Judge Blisters Times Over 'Laundered' Files

HACKENSACK, N.J. (UPI) — A judge has accused The New York Times of laundering its corporate files on the curare murder case before turning them over to court in its bid to have a contempt citation and $5,000-a-day fine lifted.

Superior Court Judge Theodore W. Trautwein Monday refused to lift the citation He called the files he was given "useless" and held the newspaper accountable for the refusal of jailed reporter Myron A. Farber to turn over his notes on the case of Dr. Mario E. Jascalevich.

Trautwein said, "The files of the Times were clearly and unequivocably sanitized before the search" of the material taken from the newspaper's corporate records and submitted to the court Aug. 18.

"I don't know if there was a break-in or if anyone other than a Times employee did it," he said.

After the hearing, Times attorney Floyd Abrams denied Trautewein's allegation. "There was not a sanitization ... no acts by anyone at the Times to clear out the files," he said.

He also reiterated that the Times would not ask Farber to turn over his files and said they would appeal Trautwein's decision.

Trautwein's ruling came after a two-day hearing last week on the Times' request to purge itself of contempt. The judge called that hearing a "charade." "It defies reason, sense and probability that the newspaper ... would have the effrontery to turn over this useless material and say we had complied."

The Times has been fined $5,000 a day since it was found guilty July 24 of civil contempt for withholding material sought by defence attorneys in the trial of Jascalevich.

Farber, who wrote a series of investigative stories on the deaths that led to Jascalevich's indictment for murder, has been jailed since Aug. 4 for refusing to turn over his notes on the case.

Trautwein, blaming the Times for Farber's stand, said, "In a word, control is the key. The Times has the power, the right and the duty to say to Farber 'turn over the materials called for in the subpoena.'"

Salisbury Police Kill Guerrilla

SALISBURY (AP) — Four persons, including a policeman and a black nationalist guerrilla sought in a nationwide manhunt, were killed in gun battles in the black townships of this Rhodesian capital Monday night, police reported.

It was the fourth major clash in the last five weeks between police and guerrillas in black townships located within 13 kilometres of the centre of Salisbury.

A police spokesman said the slain guerrilla was the "sole remaining member" of a six-man group loyal to Joshua Nkomo's Zambia-based insurgent forces who have been operating in Salisbury and the southern cities of Gwelo and Bulawayo for the last month.

The guerrilla, who was not identified, opened fire on a police patrol car in Salisbury's Glen Norah township Monday night, killing the 23-year-old white policeman who was driving, the spokesman said.

South Africa Troops Still Attack - SWAPO

LUSAKA (AP) — The leader of black guerrillas fighting for the independence of South-West Africa claims South African forces still are shelling and bombing targets inside Zambia's western border, including the town of Sesheke.

Sam Nujoma, president of the South-West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), made the statement in a Zambian television interview.

"South African troops shelled Sesheke by tanks, artillery and French Mirages and the fighting still continues in the western province," Nujoma said.

South Africa's white minority government announced last week that its forces launched a hot-pursuit raid across the Zambezi River into Zambia after an attack by SWAPO guerrillas Wednesday on the town of Katima Mulilo in the Caprivi strip.

On Saturday, South African Maj.-Gen. Jannie Geldenbuys said the raid had been successfully completed, indicating his units had withdrawn from Zambia.

There have been conflicting reports on casualties in the raid.

Nujoma said SWAPO losses were "small, since our guerrillas fight in small groups."

One report from the area said the death toll was 10 South African soldiers, 16 black guerrillas and 12 Zambian civilians, while a South African newspaper, the pro-government Johannesburg Citizen, said Monday as many as 750 guerrillas were killed.

SWAPO guerrillas operate from bases in Zambia and Angola, and South Africa also has launched assaults into southen Angola.

Turf Needs Proper Feeding

All established lawns require a regular feeding to maintain a healthy vigorous turf. We have to admit that most of us home gardeners use fertilizers on our lawns in a more or less hit and miss manner.

A lot of lawn troubles which cause the homeowner near panic would never occur if the turf were getting the food it needs for healthy growth.

Grass plants take food from the soil to make growth. We cut off this growth and put it on the raspberries or the compost heap. In doing so we remove from the lawn area a certain amount of plant food that has to be replaced.

We also water the lawn freely in summer to keep it green and to make plant food available. The quantity of water applied in a normal dry summer carries away fertilizer salts as it sinks into the subsoil. In winter the heavy coastal rainfall continue the job.

With this high rate of food loss, it would be reasonable to expect any lawn to become hungry and sick unless replacement is made at a level which slightly exceeds the rate of loss.

The soil scientist can compute the losses and the replacements that are necessary, but no home gardener is gong to worry about the mathematical side of the problem.

Humus in the soil around the grass plants will hold the fertilizer solution at root level long enough for the plants to take their present requirements. For this reason the soil for a new lawn should have plenty of humus mixed to a depth of six inches.

This humus will, in time, be converted to soil. Since we do not lift our turf and add humus to the soil for replacement, the lawn has to be dressed with one-half inch of humus every spring, which is worked to soil level with a corn broom so that the grass foliage is not smothered.

This adds some humus every year to replace that which is converted, and the new plant roots grown into it for the nourishment it holds.

The soil scientist has already told us the minimum amount of fertilizer needed by a lawn in this coastal climate. When this amount is applied regularly, the lawn can hold its own; but if you want a lawn similar to a golf-course putting green much heavier applications will be needed.

The main loss from local lawns is of available nitrogen, and it is replaced with sulphate of ammonia which is slower acting than the nitrate form and has an acid reaction in the soil.

The lawn cannot live on nitrogen alone. It also needs phosphates and potash in a balanced mixture, which is found in a complete lawn fertilizer.

This brings us to the minimal basic fertilizer schedule for local lawns:

First a complete lawn fertilizer compounded for local soils, which is 10-4-7 or a 10-6-4, applied in April, June, and September, preferably during the first week of each of these months.

Next, the sulphate of ammonia every thirty days between the applications of the complete fertilizer, with the last application in August.

The amounts to apply will be printed on the fertilizer bag. Measure the lawn area and apply only the stated amount, any more is wasted.

Moss appears in lawns when the soil is depleted and the grass scalped. Moss killer will kill the moss but will not remedy the cause. Three years of the above feeding schedule will build up the soil and the loss will disappear.

COLUMBIA 8.3 (27')
The roomiest 27 on the market. All teak interior with 6'1" headroom, pressure water, teak sole, and lots of storage space. Yanmar 2 cyl. 15 h.p. diesel, Lewmar 2-speed winches, North sails, bow and stern pulpits with double lifelines and boarding gates, plus standard features most boats can't even offer as options. If you are looking for a high quality cruiser that really sails this could be the boat you have been looking for. Sailaway price reduced from $35,500 to $33,500.

COLUMBIA 7.6(25')
With full 9'2" beam this boat can offer two double berths, and a beautifully laid out interior. Yanmar diesel, bow and stern pulpits with double lifelines and boarding gates, Lewmar winches, Ratsey-Lapthorn sails, teak cabin sole, and much more. As with the 8.3, her standard equipment list is extensive, and the price has been reduced from $26,395 to an attractive $23,500. If you are looking for a roomy, well finished boat that you can afford, this is it.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT SASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

Many Trucks Found Unsafe

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — More than half of the 711 trucks inspected by federal officials on a busy Pennsylvania highway recently were immediately ordered off the road because they are too poorly maintained to be safe, the Department of Transportation said Friday.

Most of the 382 trucks that flunked the federal inspections had faulty or even inoperative braking systems, federal officials said.

W. R. Fiste, of the Bureau of Motor Carrier Safety, which conducted the inspections, said it was the highest failure rate we have ever encountered."

Fiste said that, for a truck to be ordered off the road, it had to have a maintenance problem that made it "immediately hazardous."

Forty trucks were removed from the road for inoperative lights, 25 for bad suspension systems and 21 for tire problems.

Additionally, 24 drivers were found to be violating the federal regulation that limits the amount of time they can be behind the wheel.

Inspectors made a cursory check of every truck, then singled out the 711 for intensive inspection. Normally, Fiste said, 25 to 30 per cent of the selected trucks would be placed out of service because of maintenance defects.

The bureau started its unannounced intensive inspection program in September, 1977. It has been under considerable pressure from Congress to beef up its truck inspection activities.

At the same time, however, the bureau has only 133 inspectors nationwide for five million trucks. Twenty-six more inspectors are included in new budget proposals.

Scientologists Make Pleas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine of the 11 defendants in the federal government's conspiracy case against members of the Church of Scientology pleaded not guilty today to charges that include stealing government documents and planting bugging devices in government offices.

The remaining two defendants are in England and the government is seeking to extradite them.

Federal Judge George Hart gave the defence lawyers until Nov. 20 to file pre-trial motions, indicating the trial probably will not get under way until next year.

The defence lawyers contended they need extensive time to prepare their defence because they said the case is complex and may involve thousands of documents.

The government has charged the members of the Church of Scientology with conducting a conspiracy against the government to obtain confidential files. Specifically, the defendants are accused of breaking into offices and planting electronic eavesdropping devices. In related charges, they are accused of lying to a grand jury and obstruction of justice.

The most serious charges carry maximum penalties of five years in prison and $10,000 fines.

The church contends the government has been waging a campaign of harassment against the Scientologists for nearly 30 years. The church has admitted copying government documents but said it did so only after trying unsuccessfully to obtain the information through the Freedom of Information Act.

Present in court today were Mary Sue Hubbard, wife of the church's founder, L. Ron Hubbard, and eight other church officials and members—Duke Snider, Henning Heldt, Richard Weigand, Gregory Willardson, Mitchell Hermann, Cindy Raymond, Gerald Wolfe and Sharon Thomas.

The government is seeking to extradite from England, the international headquarters of the church, Jane Kember and Morris Budlong.

U.K. Vote Expected October 5

LONDON (UPI)—Pime Minister James Callaghan returned from a three-week vacation today amid growing speculation he will stake his minority Labor government's fate on a parliamentary general election Oct. 5.

Callaghan was scheduled to address the annual convention of the 12 million-member Trades Union Congress at Brighton Sept. 5. Political sources said his speech, billed as a major political pronouncement, will be a call to battle to the unions and to the Labor Party, which depends on unions for most of its financial support.

He has summoned his cabinet for a session Sept. 7.

The following weekend he will pay the annual ritual prime minister's visit to Queen Elizabeth at Balmoral Castle in Scotland and was generally expected to inform her then of the election date.

All that then would be needed would be a short announcement of the date Sept. 13 followed two days later by formal dissolution of the present parliament elected Oct. 10, 1974.

Grocery Prices Dip In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government said today U.S. consumer prices increased only 0.5 per cent in July as grocery prices declined for the first time in a year.

The July increase compared with price gains of 0.9 per cent in each of the previous three months and was the smallest rise since a 0.4-per-cent gain last December.

The labor department attributed the improvement to a 0.4-per-cent decline in grocery prices, the first drop since July, 1977, and an 0.6-per-cent drop in the price of clothing, particularly for women and girls.

The July increase of 0.5 per cent, if continued for an entire year, would result in a 12-month inflation of six per ent. The annual rate of price inflation in the three previous months was 10.7 per cent.

Terrified Woman's Pleas, Fatal Gunshot Taped

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — A dramatic tape recording of a woman's phone call to police contains her desperate pleas as she was attacked by her estranged husband and also the sound of the shot that killed him.

Officers got it all on tape Aug. 18, a recording the district attorney's office used to declare the shooting of Walter Lysick justifiable homicide. The wife, Therese, was released after being questioned.

Police said the shooting culminated years of terror for Mrs. Lysick, 33. They gave this account:

Lysick, 36, was jailed a year ago after police grabbed him while he was armed with a gun and prepared to attack his wife, from whom he had already been separated. Before Lysick could do any harm, the gun was wrested from him. He was jailed on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

After that, Mrs. Lysick moved about 32 kilometres south to Santa Clara from San Mateo and—as a result of several beatings by her husband—she obtained a restraining order requiring him to stay away.

But she told police she was still terrified of her husband and kept a loaded .44-calibre revolver next to her bed.

She said she had been asleep in bed with one of her three small children when Lysick began kicking in the front door. She called the police. The call was recorded as follows:

"Please hurry up, please . . . he's breaking in right now, please hurry."

"Walter?"

"Hello, hello," the officer called out on the phone.

"Leave me alone, leave me alone . . . Why did you break into my house? Leave me alone."

"You're going to die," said Lysick.

"No, I'm not going to die . . . leave me alone."

"Mrs. Lysick? Hello!" said the officer.

"Why? Why?" Mrs. Lysick asked her husband.

"You don't understand?" he replied.

"What don't I understand?"

"You don't understand why you're going to die," said the enraged husband. "You're going to die, you're going to die!"

The officer tried again, "Mrs. Lysick?"

Suddenly Mrs. Lysick shrieked, repeatedly, in short bursts. "Leave me alone! Leave me alone! Oh, God!"

Then came another scream, a piercing shriek that lasted fully 10 seconds.

KORCHNOI RELAXES

MANILA (AP) — With his opponent only two games away from victory, challenger Viktor Korchnoi postponed the 18th game of the world chess championship match today.

Interviewed in Manila, Korchnoi said he wanted to relax, and the head of his delegation said he would not quit the competition.

Asked if Korchnoi was preparing to concede to Anatoly Karpov of the Soviet Union, who leads 4-1, Petra Leeuwerick said: "Of course not. No. The match will continue."

Korchnoi scheduled a news conference Wednesday and said he would "tell the world how bad the situation is in Baguio," the mountain resort 200 kilometres northwest of Manila where the match is being played.

"I'm not satisfied with the arrangements of the organizers," he said. "The arrangements are all for the Soviets, so I want to tell the world of the gloomy situation."

Buster Brown Shoes

Hi Ho. Hi Ho. It's off to school we go.

Once upon a time there were seven little dwarfs. They went to school every day and that kept them very busy from dawn to dusk. Especially at recess time. Why, they ran, and jumped. Climbed trees, and chased kitties under fences. The seven little dwarfs knew that when you work and play as hard as they do, you have to have shoes built to take it. That's why they all wear Buster Brown shoes. Buster Browns can take all the punishment a little person can dish out. And they last and last and last. So, Buster Brown named these little shoes after our little dwarfs.

POCKET-SIZE TYPEWRITER

LONDON (Reuter) — An American-born film director living here has invented a computerized pocket typewriter he predicts will revolutionize typing.

"I personally think that everyone who writes will use this machine — well, maybe the executive with a perfect secretary who can't spell himself will be slow to switch over," said Cy Endfield.

His device fits into the palm of a hand and is operated with the fingers and thumb of one hand. It has five buttons used constantly to produce all letters, numerals and punctuation marks.

Letters are entered by punching more than one button at once, the fingers mimicking the shape of the letter. The letter "I," for instance, is made by depressing simultaneously the buttons under the thumb and index finger to resemble the vertical stroke of the "I."

The typed words roll across a small read-out window similar to that of a pocket calculator.

The tiny device, based on the technolog of silicon microprocessor chips, has upper and lower cases, can delete characters or words, read backward and forward and do "everything the most sophisticated word processor (electric typewriter with memories) can do," Endfield said.

The "microwriter" is connected by wire to an automatic typewriter, which prints out what has been written on it.

WORKS STAFF WINS MEETING

Pickets Shut Legislature

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

The process of government ground to a near-standstill for three hours this morning as disgruntled former public works employees threw up pickets at the Legislative Buildings.

The Government Employees Relations Bureau's promise of an immediate meeting to discuss their problems led to the removal of the pickets at 10:30 a.m. and about 400 civil servants returned to their jobs.

At stake is the future of some 250 B.C. Government Employees Union members who once came under the jurisdiction of the public works department, but haven't been offered satisfactory jobs with the agency which replaced public works, the B.C. Buildings Corporation.

The employees now receive their pay cheques from the highways department while waiting for options for future work to be clarified.

They say the government unilaterally abrogated an earlier agreement that clearly laid out the future options.

One of the options — that of severance pay — will not be offered after Sept. 30, six months before some of the other options such as alternative work locations will be known.

Pat Burns, BCGEU staff representative in Victoria, said Finance Minister Evan Wolfe double-crossed the union members when he sent out the letter informing them they had to make a choice on the severance pay option by Sept. 30.

The objective of this morning's picketing was to get on with the negotiations of the various options and to have the severance pay deadline pushed back to March, 1979 — the deadline for the other options.

As one picketer put it: "How can I choose if I want to take severance pay right now when I don't even know what other jobs will be available?"

When BCBC took over public works two years ago, four options were offered former public works employees — severance pay, jobs with BCBC (but a union spokesman said these have now been filled), one job offer in the same location at the same pay, or two offers at outside localities.

The union members want to know what the other jobs will be before opting for the severance pay. Many have not received any of the three alternative job offers.

Today's information pickets began appearing at 7:30 a.m. but due to a lack of picketers all doors weren't covered in time to prevent dozens of government personnel from entering the buildings.

However, most union employees later trooped back outside to honor the belated picket lines.

Management personnel and exempted secretarial staff stayed on the job; but the postal service, library, motor-vehicle branch and financial department were effectively closed for the duration.

One union spokesman commented on the speed with which the government agreed to discuss the matter: "They saw how effective we can be. When you close down the cheque-writing machine for 35,000 people it upsets a lot of people."

3 Top Unionists Quit AirCan Talks

Times News Services

MONTREAL— Three key members of the union negotiating commitee for Air Canada's ground services workers, two French and one English-speaking, resigned today, throwing a grave new complication into talks aimed at ending a five-day shutdown of Canada's major air carrier.

Barry Shaw, chairman of the negotiating committee for the International Association of Machinists, said the remaining members of the committee would continue efforts to end the dispute.

But, he said, a meeting with the airline has been postponed at Air Canada's request.

The three members who resigned were all from the Montreal local, where more than half of the IAM's 7,500 members are based. Shaw would mot identify them.

Shaw said it was hoped that alternate delegates elected by the Montreal local would agree to step into the vacancies but acknowledged he had no information they would.

The resignation came as the IAM committee had spent the last three and a half days in more than 26 hours of private consultation among themselves, indicating severe differences of opinion within the committee.

The airline told IAM members Monday, Shaw said, that no matter how long the labor dispute continued it was not prepared to budge on issues involving an extension of disciplinary suspensions and creation of a new job category involving cargo handlers.

The two sides had recessed Monday night after five hours of bargaining.

An Air Canada spokesman said there "was no implica-

ASHTRAY SHIELDS FOR CADILLACS

DETROIT (AP) — Cadillac will mail ashtray heat shields to owners of about 390,000 1977 and 1978 models because at least a dozen people have been slightly burned in small fires, General Motors said Monday.

The automaker said the shields are easy to install and suggested owners can do it for themselves. But it added any Cadillac dealer will do the work free of charge if asked.

All 1977 Cadillac Devilles and Fleetwoods and some early 1978 models of the same cars are affected, the General Motors division said.

Cadillac spokesman Norb Bartos said the company had reports of 12 persons suffering hand or other burns, apparently when they noticed smoke and tried to remove the ashtray. None required hospital treatment and the cars were not extensively damaged, Bartos said.

Lebanon Near Flashpoint

BEIRUT (UPI) — Faced with the threat of flat-out Syrian-Christian war in Lebanon and possible Israeli intervention, President Elias Sarkis today met with a Christian leader to discuss ways to defuse the tensions.

Sarkis conferred at the Baabda Presidential palace with Pierre Gemayel, chief of the Phalangist right-wing party that maintains up to 15,000 Christian militia troops, the largest such force in Lebanon.

Foreign Minister Fuad Butros returned Monday from a meeting in Damascus with Syrian President Hafez Assad at which they discussed the fighting between Syrian peacekeeping troops in Lebanon and the Israeli-backed Christians.

Assad told reporters after the talks that Syria "won't run away from Israel if they attack us."

The Syrian army provides most of the 30,000-man Arab League peace-keeping force in Lebanon.

In Israel, a powerful member of the Knesset (parliament) delivered a stern warning to Syria against what he termed a "massacre" of Lebanese Christians.

"All of us are agreed that we are not going to stand by idly if the Christian population is going to be massacred," said Prof. Moshe Ahrens, chairman of the influential Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee.

In Moscow, the Soviet goverment newspaper Izvestia said Monday that Israel is deliberately heightening tensions in Lebanon to strengthen its hand at next month's Middle East summit at Camp David.

Christian militias have been battling the Syrian troops since last February, with the most recent clashes taking place in the hilly Batroun district some 30 miles north of Beirut.

$6-A-POUND SEEN FOR STEAKS SOON

WINNIPEG (CP) — A beef marketing specialist says consumers face an imminent shortage of beef and substantially higher retail prices as a result.

Art Dilworth, manager of Manitoba Pool Elevators livestock division, said in an interview that beef producers are hesitant to increase supply despite recent trends towards higher prices.

"I have a prediction myself, and I could be way off base on this one, but I can foresee maybe a year and a half down the road you could conceivably see some of the better steaks retailing at $6 or better a pound."

And, said Dilworth, if the stage is reached where retail beef costs get to a certain level, the possibility arises that government may set controls on prices.

"You have to recognize that consumers are pretty powerful politically and if the price gets too high, a lot of pressure goes on government."

But he said any such control, taken when producers are in a position finally to recoup some of their losses, would result in a lot more cattlemen packing up their operations.

Competition Lack Cost Consumers $632.9B

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumers paid at least $632.9 million more than they should have between 1974 and 1976 because of the failing competitive position of domestic agricultural industries, a report released Monday by the consumers affairs department says.

It analyses monthly prices and price spreads between Toronto and selected U.S. markets for pork, beef, chicken, turkey and eggs between 1970 and 1976.

It found there was "a dramatic difference in performance" between Canadian and U.S. markets between 1974 and 1976 — with prices to Canadian producers consistently higher than U.S. prices — after a good performance between 1970 and 1973.

Between 1974 and 1976, the study says, farm-gate prices in Canada averaged eight per cent higher than in the United States for pork, 19 per cent higher for beef, 47 per cent more for chicken, 37 per cent more for turkey and 25 per cent higher for eggs.

The report says the major factor in the deterioration of the competitive position of the domestic industry, particularly for turkey and eggs, has been higher prices paid to producers.

Of the more than $600 million extra that consumers have paid because of less competitive domestic industry, about half of the amount is attributable to the poultry and egg industries alone.

But the study gives Toronto-based retailers "a relatively clean bill of health." It says in 1976 retail profit margins were lower in Toronto than in the United States by an average of 26.6 cents a pound for pork products, 17.6 cents for beef, 4.4 cents for chicken, 14.1 cents for turkey and 15.8 cents a dozen for eggs.

Looking to the future, the report says the key factor for future consumer prices is whether or not Canadian retailers will keep operating at the profit margins found during the study.

"Should Canadian retail margins rise to U.S. levels and farm-gate prices and processor margins remain unchanged, Canadian food prices can be expected to rise dramatically," the report warns.

The study is only a working paper, prepared as a response to the federal white paper titled A Food Strategy for Canada that was released last year. It is intended to guide continuing research into the food processing, distribution and retailing industries, the report says.

Third Hike In U.S. Interest

NEW YORK (WP) — The U.S. Federal Reserve Board moved Monday to tighten monetary policy and raise interest rates again for the third time in less than two weeks, nudging the key federal funds rate up to 8.25 per cent.

The latest move surprised the financial markets and drove bond prices down as much as 1-2 a point while stock prices tumbled.

Unlike the last two increases, which were related to the plight of the sinking dollar, the latest tightening move appears to derive from concern on the part of the Fed that growth in the basic money supply is continuing to outstrip its targets.

At the same time the Fed eased overseas borrowing restrictions which led to a boost in the U.S. dollar on foreign currency markets.

Gold in Zurich, Europe's largest bullion market, dipped slightly and started at $198.50 an ounce from Monday's close of $199.375.

But in London, Europe's other major bullion market, the metal showed signs of firming. It close at $198.25 U.S. Friday, edged up to $198.75 at today's opening, then by mid-morning reached $199.40.

INDIAN BID TO QUEEN

FREDERICTON (CP) — Canadian Indian chiefs will visit the Queen in London to ask her not to agree with repatriation of the constitution, Noel Starblanket, National Indian Brotherhood president, said today.

The Queen will be told that the constitution should not be brought to Canada until the federal government gives assurances that Indian rights will be high in constitutional reform priorities, Starblanket told the opening of the brotherhood's ninth annual assembly.

He also said that Indians will crash the next first ministers' constitutional conference.

"We're not going to ask anymore," he said in an interview later. "We're just going to go. They're going to have to evict us."

He also said in the interview that the assembly will be asked to approve sending the chiefs to London.

Sources said a meeting with the Queen likely will be sought for next spring.

The brotherhood has been becoming increasingly unhappy with federal plans for constitutional reform.

Lieut-Gov. Snubs Bar Meet Over Queen

Times News Services

HALIFAX — Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Gosse of Nova Scotia has snubbed the Canadian Bar Association because of a report proposing that Queen Elizabeth no longer be head of state, official association sources say.

The lieutenant-governor was invited to the official opening of the association's four-day convention Monday but did not turn up.

Officials said today the reason was a controversial report which was released during the royal visit to Canada earlier this summer.

Jacques Viau, association president, has said publicly that the report has caused embarassment to the association.

The issue will be thrashed out Wednesday at a public meeting as part of the convention schedule.

It was revealed, meanwhile, at the convention that Canada's lawyers are expected to recommend this fall that "without exception " interception of mail be prohibited.

The recommendation is carried in a draft brief to a royal commission on RCMP wrongdoing.

Section chairman Sam Filer of Toronto said Tuesday the brief will be further refined before being presented, possibly in November.

The brief says tax officers and RCMP contravened the Income Tax Act under a 1972 agreement, approved by the cabinet, that may be itself be illegal.

It says the Income Tax Act should be amended to say clearly who may be given personal income tax data by the revenue department.

The brief calls for more muscle in laws to protect citizens against unjust action by police.

"Furthermore, police lawlessness does not lead to criminal convictions for the malefactors and seldom results in successful civil suits."

PUPILS WIELD PAINT BRUSHES

It's Back-to-School Time With Emphasis on Energy

By LORRAINE LOCHERTY
Times Staff

When students volunteer to clean and paint their school and take on the janitorial work as well as their classroom assignments — that's total participation.

Warehouse school is the kind of alternative education program that thrives on commitment. Energy is something the staff and pupils, over the last six years, have found comes in handy.

"The turnover here is high. Teachers burn out after three years," said school director Barbara Pelman, who was out scrubbing walls and unpacking boxes Monday.

The Greater Victoria School District has leased Warehouse its former Sundance School site on Quadra Street.

In addition to the usual back-to-school confusion, the staff and pupils are going through the traumas of moving lock, stock and barrel from their old school in the former Saanich firehall on Shelbourne.

There's plenty of work to be done before classes start next week, but luckily there is also plenty of manpower.

Several graduates of the program also showed up at the new school to lend a hand with the painting.

The school began in 1972 as an independent learning centre for ex-convicts and acquired the strange name because the first school building was an old warehouse owned by St. Vincent De Paul.

Later, as young people who had turned off to the regular education system began to show interest in the program, it was picked up by the human resources ministry and the minstry of education.

These two ministries supply the funding for the school, which has since developed three programs: adult upgrading, general Grade 10 and a general Grade 12 course.

The school's purpose is to provide a basic education for people who can't function in the regular school system for one reason or another.

Many of the students are on welfare, come from broken homes or have been in trouble with the law; a few are physically or mentally handicapped.

"Some of them are rebels, or have been hampered by constant failure under the regular education system," Pelman said.

They need more a more personal approach that is a lot more flexible than the average classroom and at the Warehouse school that's what they get, she said.

The school operates on a tight budget. It must hand in annual reports and lives a hand-to-mouth existance depending on the generosity of the government.

Warehouse teachers must be dedicated to their work because their pay last year was about $700 a month, a good deal less than their counterparts inside the education system.

But what it lacks in money, the school makes up in spirit, Pelman says.

Last year about 60 students enrolled in the school and Pelman is hoping for the same number this year.

With six full-time teachers, several part-time staff members and plenty of volunteer help, the class size will work out to 10 students for each of the six large rooms in the new building.

Although she has no way of knowing how many students will actually show up to enrol next week, Pelman isn't worrying too much.

"Sometimes I have dreams that school opens and nobody is here; but I know that won't happen," she jokes.

Move to End Truck Roar Gets Backing

Committee received a 250-name petition from householders on Montreal and St. Lawrence streets who claimed truck traffic is disrupting their lives and damaging their homes.

Committee voted to reroute the trucks to nearby Dallas and Erie Streets which are more industrial in nature.

James Bay Residents League spokesman Charles Ball said the new route is a 95-per-cent improvement over the present situation, but he'd like to see the Montreal-St. Lawrence ban made permanent.

In a submission to committee, Ball said that heavy trucks on St. Lawrence had damaged the road bed, broken pipes running under the street and caused cracks in house walls.

"During the recent tremors that hit Victoria some people had difficulty differentiating between vibrations caused by trucks and the actual earthquake," said Ball.

"Noise has been a persistant nuisance factor. Residents are regularly awakened at 5:30 a.m. and conversations are literally stopped in mid-sentence while the trucks rumble by," he added.

Traffic committee chairman Ald. Bill McElroy said he is aware of the problem and that it has caused headaches for traffic engineers for years.

He said the new route is only the first step and "we're looking for a long-term permanent solution to this problem."

Message of Love Spread in Sand

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

There will be wall-to-wall love letters in the sand at Oak Bay's Willows Beach on Sunday.

But the message they spell won't be romantic sentiment — a la singer Pat Boone's 1950s ballad — but Christian love and fellowship.

Victorian Wayne Wickett, 28, who will lead a team of about 30 helpers from Emmanuel Baptist Church in writing The Lord's Prayer in huge letters in the sand, said today the exercise will be a sort of Christian Outreach — "a way of bringing the good news to the world."

"I see it as working for the Lord on the Labor Day weekend," he added. "We can provide some good news, as a change from car accidents and all the other grim things that fill the headlines."

As a bonus, he also hopes the effort will be credited as a first in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Wickett says he has been in contact with the publishers' New York office about submitting the record claim, which he plans to authenticate with an aerial photograph.

Apparently The Lord's Prayer has been engraved on the head of a pin, he said, but never written large across the entire length of a sandy beach.

(The tallest letters in the world — in Australia — are 600 feet high but there are only eight of them and they spell a somewhat mundane commercial message: Readymix).

The Willows project has taken two months of planning, including obtaining permission from Oak Bay municipality, alerting the municipal police and fire departments, studying tide conditions and the vital statistics of the beach itself.

Wickett noted the beach is 2,900 feet long while the prayer has 295 letters, with six periods and seven commas.

He's still working out last-minute details but the letters should be between 16 and 20 feet high, about seven feet across and four inches deep.

If necessary, the team of letter writers can accentuate relief against the sand by filling in the outlines with an abundance of seaweed.

They'll start the task at 7 a.m. Sunday while the tide is still ebbing — it's fully out at 10 a.m. — and Wickett estimates the completed prayer will be visible all day until at least 6 p.m.

Invitations have gone out to local churches for anyone interested to help with the sand-writing effort, and a service will be conducted on the beach at 1 p.m. by one of the team pastors of Emmanuel Baptist Church, Lloyd Pierce.

Another of the pastors, Norman Archer, said today that when Wickett approached them with the idea they replied it was "crazy enough it might even work."

RESCUE CRAFT TO REMAIN

The 38-foot rescue vessel Relite, based in Campbell River since mid-June, will not be withdrawn in mid-October as originally intended.

Capt. Jack Ickringill of Vancouver, Coast Guard rescue officer with the department of transport, said today Herbert Buchanan of Vancouver, regional director of marine services, has reversed the decision to withdraw the Relite.

"The director has reconsidered and approved continuation of coverage at Campbell River for the time being," Ickringill said.

He said the decision was made in spite of the fact the department is very much aware the Relite has certain limitations, particularly in winter conditions around the Cape Mudge area at the south end of Quadra Island.

He said the combination of southeast gales and strong flood tides pouring out of Seymour Narrows create hazardous conditions.

Ickringill said the number of incidents in the Campbell River area vividly displays the need for more adequate search and rescue facilities in that area.

He said the department has applied for more search and rescue vessels and the Campbell River area would have a high priority if and when the federal government approves the new ships.

Bob Somerville, Coast Guard volunteer rescue agent at Campbell River, this week sent the latest in a long series of requests to Transport Minister Otto Lang and Defence Minister Barney Danson pointing out the need for more adequate protection in his area.

He carried out 30 rescues in his 23-foot craft Christina before the Relite arrived in June and expects the total will rise to 200 before the year's end. He told the ministers the total of deaths by drowning since 1966 has now reached 101.

Somerville described the type of vessel and equipment that is needed, suggesting it be based at CFB Comox. He says the base's station should be required to monitor citizens band radio when the vessel's crew is not aboard and monitoring.

RYAN WANTS PUSH ON CBC

The city of Victoria should officially urge Ottawa to complete and put into production the new CBC building now under construction, Ald. Larry Ryan said today.

Ryan said he intends to ask council at the next meeting to make a representation to the CBC and the federal government expressing support for the new radio-television station now being built on Blanshard at Kings.

The future of the $7 million station was called into doubt last week when Ottawa announced massive spending cuts.

"I've been an advocate of this (station), for many years and I think it's due Victoria. It's incredible after the dedication and the promises made that somebody should now decide we cannot have it," said Ryan.

TOWN TALK

A Sideways Approach? Surely Not

Does Cleve Tuttle, the man chosen by Saanich to head its personnel department, have a sideways approach to his job?

It appears so, from a literal reading of the Saanich press release announcing his appointment effective Sept. 11.

The release gives details of Tuttle's experience, and mentions the fact that he was "laterally with the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. as personnel manager for six years."

Not literally laterally, surely? Or did they mean latterly?

Talk about hospitality.

A couple from Minneapolis arrived in Victoria this month without hotel reservations.

In a last-ditch effort to find accommodation, Pierre Verite jumped out of his car at a stop light and asked the young man in the van behind him if he knew of any places to stay.

The young man said the couple and their two dogs would be welcome in his home.

The couple accepted gratefully and wrote to us saying "our impression of your city will be an everlasting one and will always remain a highlight of our vacation, thanks to Mr. Bruce Brown, 824 Selkirk."

Calling it a world championship may have been stretching it but the money was real, a team of croquet players from Oak Bay discovered on the weekend.

The team, led by Doug Carrick and including Bob Hunt and Ed Kowalyk, won the third annual "world" croquet championship at the Island Hall Hotel in Parksville. It was the Oak Bay entry's second straight global title and was worth $1,000 and a trophy.

The Arrenglen Angels of Parksville were second. They got a trophy but no cash.

Three west coast servicemen were presented Maritime Commander Commendation Awards by Vice-Admiral Andrew Collier when he visited CFB Esquimalt recently.

The awards, sponsored by Collier and given for outstanding contributions to the Pacific command, were given to PO George Butterfield, WO Raymond Gardner and LS David Lawrence.

Butterfield, a shipping agent with King Brothers Ltd., is a naval reservist with HMCS Malahat. On his own time and initiative he improved the naval reserve summer training program and his directives are now being used by the 18 naval reserve divisions across Canada.

Gardner received the award for dedication to duty and concern for the welfare of his fellow servicemen while acting as chief clerk in maritime command Pacific headquarters. He is now in HMCS Kootenay.

Lawrence receives the award for saving the life of an American spectator when HMCS Yukon was taking part in the Portland Rose Festival in Oregon. The spectator fell 30 feet into the water. Lawrence directed the ship's seaboat to the area, rescued the victim and radioed for medical assistance.

Like a bad cheque, the Times story Friday about the all-female Bank of Montreal branch on Shelbourne bounced right back at us.

Keith Duffy, manager of the Royal Bank on Cook, says we were wrong in reporting the female bastion is a first for the area. Prior to 1975, the branch he now manages was staffed by women for about two years.

"I'm sure there were others," he said. "It's not common and when it does occur, it is just by accident."

Teele, Thibault and three other top B.C. drivers will represent B.C. and the Yukon in the Western region finals Sept. 16 in Calgary.

Papal Inauguration To Be Simple Mass

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — There will be no crown, throne or gestatorial chair at Pope John Paul I's inauguration Sunday, just a bishop saying mass for his flock.

After thinking it over for three days, the 65-year-old former patriarch of Venice, elected to the papacy in the shortest conclave in modern history, decided today all he wants to do on his inaugural day is officiate mass as bishop of Rome.

"At 6 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 3, a solemn mass will be officiated on the parvis of St. Peter's by Pope John Paul I to mark the beginning of his ministry as supreme pastor," the Vatican spokesman, Rev. Romeo Panciroli, told reporters.

This will replace the ancient coronation ceremony used by at least 107 of John Paul's 262 predecessors, in which pontiffs received a tall gold and silver triple crown with the words: "Receive this tiara adorned with three crowns and know that you are the father of princes and kings, guide of the world and vicar upon earth of Christ Jesus our Savior."

The last pope not to be crowned was Urban VII who reigned only 12 days in 1590 and did not live to the date set for his coronation.

Halt Ordered

A halt to most development in Sidney was ordered by council Monday pending revision of the 10-year-old community plan and until sewage treatment expansion development charges are established.

The moratorium on all new multiple-residential development, including subdivisions of more than three lots, was a recommendation of a development committee meeting last week.

The move stalls a proposal for a 100-unit condominium.

HOUSING STARTS DECLINE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Housing starts in B.C. dropped 14.6 per cent during the first half of this year compared to the same period in 1977, mainly because of a drastic drop in the construction of apartment suites, the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) reported Monday.

CMHC said 13,288 housing units were started in the first six months of 1978, compared with 15,562 in the same period last year.

Starts in all but one category of housing fell, with apartments showing the largest decline, 35.5 per cent. Two-family unit starts rose by 3.2 per cent.

Single-family houses were at the same level as in 1977's first half.

Somoza Purges Army

MANAGUA (AP) — More than 100 army men were reported under arrest today for plotting to oust President Anastasio Somoza as a general strike spread and fighting was reported outside Managua.

A highly placed source in the national guard, Nicaragua's 7,500-man army, said 12 officers and 85 soldiers were arrested, but another source put the total at more than 100 and said they included two colonels.

Informants said radio messages about a coup were reported broadcast openly Sunday on the military network.

Members of the guard, the bulwark of the Somoza family's 41 years in power and its vast economic holdings, were reported furious that the president met the demands of 25 guerrillas who seized the National Palace and hundreds of hostages a week ago.

The guerrillas of the Sandinista National Liberation Front killed eight guards in their assault. After a two-day siege, Somoza freed 59 imprisoned Sandinistas and gave them and the 25 holding the palace safe conduct to Panama and $500,000.

A national guard communique confirmed the plot to overthrow Somoza and said "elements of the army and civilians" have been arrested. It said four officers were appointed "to determine responsibility in the case."

Somoza's New York public relations adviser Norman Wolfson, told a news conference in Managua the president told him the coup was planned by "some fairly conservative officers who were fearful he would resign."

The strike, which anti-Somoza political factions began last Friday in an attempt to force him out, closed all stores in some cities and more than 90 per cent of those in Managua shopping centres. But Wolfson said that only "eight per cent of the businesses are on strike in Managua and 40 per cent in the rest of the country."

The government mobilized the National Bank to fight the strike. The president of the bank, Roberto Incer Barquero, warned he would call in loans to those who observed the strike, while any business staying open would receive the bank's full support.

BCR Report in Cabinet Hands

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Royal commission probing British Columbia Rail (BCR) said in a news release Monday its finished report has been submitted to the provincial cabinet.

The three-man commission, headed by Justice Lloyd George McKenzie, delivered a four-volume report giving 36 conclusions containing its principal findings and recommendations.

It also deals with control and management of the railway and ways to reduce the financial burden on the public.

The commission, appointed 19 months ago, has already produced two interim reports. The first, in June, 1977, recommended closure of the railway's Railwest railcar plant in Squamish and was acted on by the government.

The government rejected the second report in December, 1977, recommending that the Fort Nelson line be abandoned.

The commission said its report "deals with all subjects contained in the commission's terms of reference with the exception of proposals for specific statutory revisions to give effect to its recommendations. These will be contained in an addendum to be submitted as soon as possible."

The commission's terms of reference included inquiring into the relationship of BCR to the economic and social well-being of the province, the relationship of BCR to other transportation.

Seniors Getting Raise: Vander Z

The federal government's monthly $20 pay raise for needy senior citizens will be passed on to the 125,000 seniors living in B.C., Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm said today.

Vander Zalm, responding to a Vancouver Province story that he might not pass on the money under a provision in B.C.'s own Mincome system, said that whenever there has been an increase to the group as a whole from the federal government, B.C. has passed it through.

"So on the basis of that, I expect we will be doing the same thing again."

The confusion over B.C.'s position on the $20 boost in federal Guaranteed Income Assistance arose when Vander Zalm told reporters he didn't want to make a commitment because B.C. was negotiating with Ottawa for financial assistance to B.C.'s Guaranteed Available Income for Need program.

"I didn't want to comment earlier because of the negotiations, but I don't think there's any question as to whether the increase will be passed on or not."

Coroner's Jury Rules Crash 'Non-Accidental'

A plane crash which killed five Americans July 22 was "non-accidental and misjudgment was involved," a coroner's jury ruled Monday night.

The small float plane had climbed about 80 metres at Bedwell Harbor on Pender Island when it nose-dived into the water, flipped over and submerged.

T.M. Young, an investigator for the department of transport, told the inquest the weight of the aircraft at take-off should have been 3,350 pounds, but the Cessna 185 weighed about 3,500 pounds.

The jury listed contributing factors as the possible overweight of the aircraft, adverse wind conditions and possible error in judgment in executing the manoeuvre immediately preceding the crash.

Victims of the crash were pilot Lee Mitzelfeldt, 36, of Kirkland, Wash.; Robin Shaw, 35, of Mercer Island, Wash.; Russell Waldman, 58, of Portland; Stewart Fausser, 53, of Beaverton, Ore., and Arthur McCoy, 56, of Tualtin, Ore.

They were on a fishing trip to Rivers Inlet.

Centre Studied

The federal and provincial governments have launched a $32,000 study to find out if there is a need for a B.C. Food and Agriculture Centre.

Agriculture Minister Jim Hewitt said Monday the idea for the centre, which would serve as an agricultural showcase.

Rec Centre Hit Again

The Oak Bay Rec Centre has been broken into two weekends in a row netting thieves a total of 56 dozen beer and about 14 bottles of hard liquor.

Go-Ahead for PanAm

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board has given Pan American World Airways permission to acquire up to 25 per cent of National Airlines, heating up a battle for the Miami-based air carrier's stock.

The CAB decision was identical to one made Aug. 17 concerning Texas International Airlines.

Way Paved

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canada Labor Relations Board rescinded Monday 20 certification orders granted the Service, Office and Retail Workers Union (SORWUC) with bank branches in British Columbia.

The move clears the way for the Canadian Labor Congress, through the Union of Bank Employees, Local 2100, to attempt to organize the workers.

TOURIST ALERT

VANCOUVER (C) — The following are urged to contact the nearest detachment of the RCMP for an urgent personal message:

Richard Ekman of Surrey.
Wanda and Del Heller of Lynwood, Wash.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A broad slide sent the Toronto stock market sharply lower in active mid-afternoon trading today.

The TSE 300 index was down 6.45 to 1211.38 with falls in all four of its most heavily-weighted groups.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 2.74 million shares compared with 2.44 million at the same time Monday.

Reed International Ltd. said it is engaged in negotiations that may lead to the sale of its subsidiary, Reed Paper Ltd. of Toronto.

Cockfield Brown said financing problems has delayed a public offer for all stocks held outside the company.

Cockfield fell 75 cents to $3.85. Reed gained ⅜ to $9⅝.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market fell today as the announcement of a widening trade deficit overcame encouraging news about inflation. Gambling and airline issues provided some bright spots, however.

The Labor Department said retail prices rose 0.5 per cent in July, after three consecutive monthly gains of 0.9 per cent. White House inflation fighter Robert Strauss estimated prices would rise by a minimum of eight per cent this year.

Pan American World Airways, which is offering $35 a share for National Airlines, rose ⅛ to $8½ while National jumped 1⅛ to $39⅛. Continental was up 1½ to $16¼ and Eastern was ahead 1⅛ to $14⅝.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were broadly lower in moderate afternoon trading todayon the Montreal Stock Exchange. Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 256,000 shares traded, compared with 369,800 exchanged up to the same time Monday. Norcen Energy Resources was off ⅛ at $15¼, Celanese Canada, 10 cents at $3.65, Bank of Montreal ⅝ at $23¼, CP Ltd. ⅛ at $22¼, Abitibi ⅛ at $15⅜, Home A $1¼ at $38¾ and Inco A ⅛ at $18⅜. FCA International was up 10 cents at $3.20.

London

LONDON (Reuter) — Prices on the London market drifted lower in slack trading, unsettled by continuing election worries, dealers said. Leading industrials lost up to 10p, but many closed above the day's lows. An hour before the close the Financial Times index was down 6.5 at 506.9. Government stocks were little changed in idle trading, dealers added. Mining shares were mixed while both Australian and Canadian issues tended easier. Reed closed 7p higher after an earlier 12p gain following news of the possible sale of its Reed Paper subsidiary, dealers said.

VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prices were down in moderate trading today on the Vancouver Stock Exchange. Volume to 10:56 a.m. PDT was 1,463,327 shares.

In the Industrials, Goldale Investment A was unchanged at $4.55 on 9,300 shares. Grouse Mountain was unchanged at .69 on 5,000. Athasbaska Columbia Resources was up .05 to $2.85 on 4,000 shares. Computrex Centres was up .02 to .23 on 3,500. Weldwood of Canada was up ½ to $19 and International Hydrodynamics was unchanged at .75.

On the Resource and Development board, United Westland was down .05 to $3.40 on 58,700 shares. Prism Resources was up .15 to $1.60 on 44,200. Consolidated Kalco Valley was down .01 to .37 on 38,500 shares. Amber Resources was up .06 to .47 on 25,000. Host Ventures was up .08 to .72 and Brent Explorations was up .18 to $1.90.

On the Curb Exchange, Action Resources was unchanged at .48 on 320,500 shares. Mountaineer Mines was down .09 to .60 on 45,500 Farrah Resources was down .02 to $1.21 on 36,000 shares.
